No. 207 — 119th Year — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1977 — 15c Daily, 30c Sunday

Port renewal likely in wake of blaze

Chances that the fire-ravaged Ogden Point dock may be back in full operation this year improved greatly Thursday.

Hershell Smith, president of Westcan Terminals, proposed that his firm rebuild the warehouse destroyed by fire Aug. 8, and eventually turn it over to whatever body assumes control of the harbor facilities.

Smith aired his proposal at a meeting with provincial and federal officials, city representatives and other shipping industry officials in the office of Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf.

Smith suggested that his company finance the construction of a new warehouse, estimated at $2 million.

He said revenue from the facilities would more than cover the cost of servicing the loan debt, arising from construction of the warehouse.

Until it has been sorted out whether the federal government will retain ownership of the dock, or the provincial government takes it over, or a harbor commission assumes control, Westcan would act as interim caretaker-owner.

Victoria Ald. Frank Carson, who attended the meeting, said federal representatives had promised to give the warehouse proposal serious consideration and answer within 30 days.

"The important and gratifying thing was that nobody opposed the plan," said Carson, chairman of city council's economic development committee.

Bawlf said after the meeting: "We should know within two weeks just where we are going and how far. The federal government is interested in some of the financing and the B.C. Development Corporation has offered all the assistance it can."

Bawlf said it would cost about $2 million to reconstruct the warehouse and to improve cruise ship facilities and another $1 million for general improvements.

A key to the redevelopment and reconstruction plans is demolition of the Ogden Point grain elevator, long a landmark but no longer used to store grain.

"That demolition alone will require a fairly heavy outlay of funds," Bawlf said.

While declining to call the fire a blessing in disguise the minister said "there's little doubt that the phase-out and the fire give us a great opportunity to do something."

Bawlf said although the federal and provincial governments were standing by to assist financially "this port handles more cargo and shipping than Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert combined. It is capable of redevelopment on its own income."

The minister said he hoped to see preliminary work underway at the docks within weeks and the shipping of pulp and paper back in full swing by next spring.

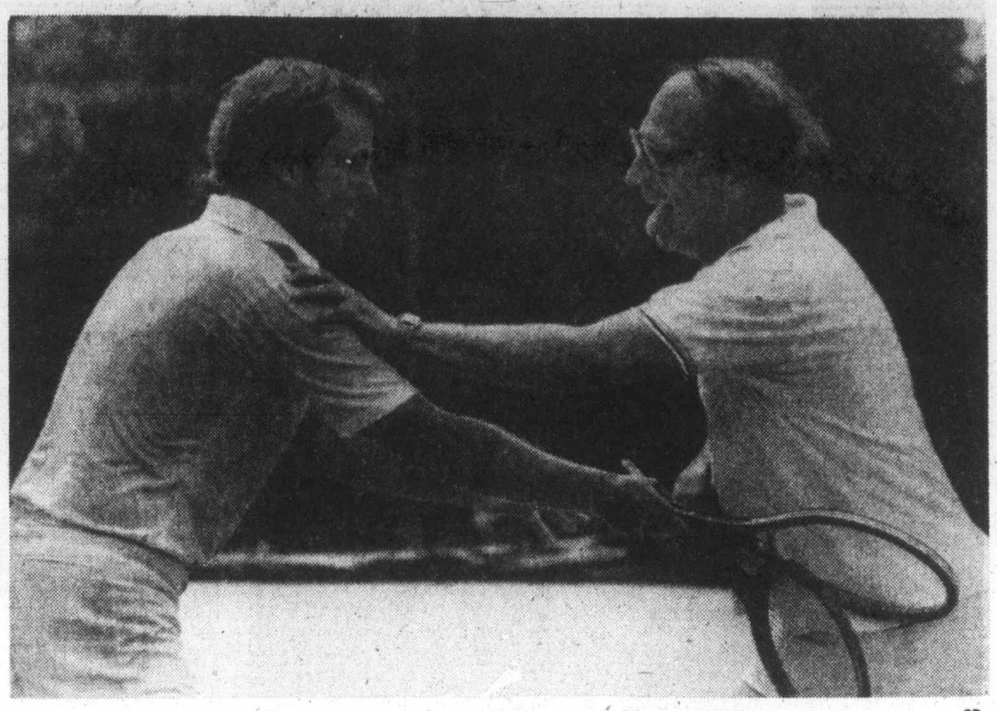

Also being considered for Ogden Point is a berth for the Black Ball ferry Coho.

"Of all the points discussed and proposals made, that one is the least sure," Bawlf said. "But it is part of the over-all plan." He noted that the quicker turnaround of the ferry at Ogden Point would enable an extra run each day.

"The very slow speeds demanded when the vessel is in the Inner Harbor add about half an hour to each round trip," Bawlf said. "Turning around at Ogden Point would make it possible, if Black Ball wanted to, to squeeze in an extra round trip."

Whether Black Ball goes to Ogden Point or not, it will eventually move from its Inner Harbor spot as part of plans to beautify the Inner Harbor.

At a meeting last week, Smith said he would make sure that lumber shipments continued to go out of Victoria, but there could be no pulp shipping until a new warehouse was built.

Language plan abhorrent—Blakeney

● Premiers want tax cut to ease unemployment Page 6

Colonist News Services

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. — Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney Thursday rejected as "abhorrent" Quebec's proposal for reciprocal provincial agreements that would still force some Canadians arriving in Quebec from other provinces into French schools.

"We're being very flexible but we will not retrench from the basic philosophies of Bill 101," Quebec Premier Rene Levesque told the other nine premiers at the opening of their two-day conference here.

Blakeney told reporters "the Quebec government proposes that the children of English-speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec should have rights different from the children of non-English speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec.

"Quebec's idea that a Canadian has different educational rights depending on whether his parents spoke Ukrainian, German, English or French, is unacceptable," he said.

"The Quebec proposition . . . is abhorrent to Canadians, particularly those of Western Canada."

When the 10 premiers emerged from a private afternoon session, the Parti Quebecois leader said he and Blakeney had "a lively exchange."

Levesque offered assistance, in the form of teachers and teaching material, to provinces which agreed to provide French education for people from Quebec in exchange for English education being made available to their residents moving into Quebec.

Under Bill 101 — which is expected to be passed into law before the next school year begins in September — only children with a parent who attended English schools, or who had brothers or sisters already in English schools, would be allowed to enter Quebec's English school system.

"When a lot of people talk about a freedom of choice . . . they are talking from the basis of a 240 million continental majority," Levesque said. "Well, we have to retrench from free choice,

Rene, spare that plaque

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (UPI) — When the turn came for Quebec Premier Rene Levesque to place a ceremonial shovelful of soil during an official tree-planting ceremony Thursday, the separatist leader first stopped to read the plaque.

Leaning on the shovel, Levesque read the tree was being planted "to mark the silver jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II."

As he stooped to fill his shovel with earth, Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores shouted out, "the tree, not the plaque, Rene."

Levesque smiled and followed instructions.

Humphrey cancer 'terminal'

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A team of surgeons discovered "terminal cancer" in Senator Hubert Humphrey Thursday, but said he could still return to the U.S. Senate and may live for years with the help of chemotherapy.

Dr. John Najarian, who led the four-man surgical team that operated for more than three hours on the former vice-president, said the physicians could not remove the cancerous tumor attached to a pelvic bone.

"It is terminal cancer if you accept the fact that we cannot remove it surgically," Najarian told a news conference.

The 66-year-old "Happy Warrior" of the Democratic party underwent surgery at the University of Minnesota Hospital because of an obstruction blocking the lower colon and causing pain for the past six months.

"He has cancer and it has been treated by chemotherapy in the past and will be in the future," Najarian said. "But chemotherapy is only successful in slowing the growth. It cannot eradicate it."

Najarian said Humphrey, who had a cancerous bladder removed in New York last October, would probably be able to take chemotherapy for "four, five, maybe six years."

Pollen to challenge Munro for Tory nod

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

Former Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen came out of political retirement Thursday, announcing his candidacy for the Progressive Conservative nomination in the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich.

The seat is held by Conservative MP Donald Munro who has stated he would again seek the nomination.

Pollen, who stepped down as mayor of Victoria after two terms nearly two years ago, gave in an interview several reasons for his decision.

"I've been approached by a group in Esquimalt-Saanich who asked me to seek the nomination," Pollen said.

"I also would like to help work on an alternative to the Liberal government under Trudeau the magician," he added.

Pollen
. . .back into fray

Unless an alternative was found, Pollen said, Canada would slide deeper into "a one-party system, which would be a tragedy."

Pollen said he was also asked to run for the Liberals but declined.

"Any party that is morally as bankrupt as to ask a man to represent them who's spent more than a year criticizing them must be opposed," he said.

Asked how tough it would be to gain the nomination, Pollen said he didn't know, adding that Munro had a "core of Colonel Blimps" supporting him.

"But how strong that support is, I can't say," he added.

Pollen said Munro was "a fine, honorable fellow" and he wasn't really opposing him.

"But I think I have something else to offer, not only to the constituency but to the party," he said.

"I have considerable municipal experience; I've met urban leaders through the country; I also run a reasonably successful business with more than 100 employees," he said.

"Anyone but a fool can see that the Conservative party needs all the help it can get."

The nominating meeting has been set for Sept. 10.

Munro wasn't available for comment, but his fellow Tory, Alan McKinnon, MP for Victoria, said Pollen's decision was "interesting."

McKinnon said he wouldn't take part in the contest in any way.

"I had no problems with the incumbent and I get along with Pollen very well," he said.

"People are fortunate to have candidates come forth and offer them a choice. That's what democracy is all about," McKinnon said.

Yukon 'will lose' if pipeline delayed

WHITEHORSE (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau fears a seven-to 10-year delay in the Alaska highway natural gas pipeline project could mean there would be no pipeline in the Yukon at all.

Trudeau made the comment at a news conference Wednesday after discussing the pipeline in a meeting with representatives of Yukon native Indians.

The Council for Yukon Indians has called for a seven-year moratorium on pipeline construction to enable native land claims to be settled.

Trudeau said, however, that the U.S. would not accept a seven-year delay and instead would choose the all-Alaska El Paso route for its natural gas.

"If there is no pipeline built in the southern Yukon in the reasonably near future obviously the American gas will go the other route, the El Paso route, and if ever Canadian gas is brought on stream it won't be through (the Yukon)," he said.

At the same time, Trudeau said, Canada wouldn't accept the pipeline at any cost.

"We don't want it at any price," he said. "If there are no significant benefits to Canada, we won't have a pipeline."

Canadians escort seized freighter

Colonist News Services

A Panamanian-registered freighter with two armed Hong Kong crew members locked in the captain's cabin was on her way to the Aleutian Island port of Kodiak early today after assistance from the Canadian weathership Quadra.

The incident, involving two crewmen who were injured, happened within three hours travelling time of Quadra's station 700 miles west in the Pacific.

Quadra reached the freighter Primrose, put two medical attendants aboard, and escorted the freighter part way to Kodiak.

After turning over charts and pilot books to the Primrose and leaving her in U.S. coast guard hands, Quadra returned to her station, a Rescue Centre spokesman at Victoria said Thursday night.

A U.S. coast guard spokesman said details were sketchy, and more was not expected to be known until the freighter docks at Kodiak Saturday.

Loaded down with a cargo of logs from Aberdeen, Wash., the freighter was steaming toward Japan in international waters about 400 miles south of Kodiak when the master radioed the coast guard with a plea for help.

"Regret crew serious trouble; with weapons; out of control; please assist," said the cryptic corse code message paraphrased by a coast guard radio operator.

An aircraft was dispatched to confirm the ship's position, but nothing further was heard from the vessel until four hours later when the captain broadcast another terse message.

"Two injured men on board; two injured men with guns and knives locked in cabin; request medical attention for injured and evacuation of two prisoners," said the second Morse code signal.

The nearest vessel to the Primrose was the weathership, which arrived early Thursday morning.

The Quadra's captain reported that the injured men did not need to be evacuted.

The U.S. coast guard first used the word mutiny in describing the incident, but later backed away from the term.

"We just don't have enough facts and it's rather complicated," the coast guard spokesman said. "First, they call to say they've got a serious problem. Then they call back four hours later and say something else.

"In addition we've got a Panamanian ship on the high seas. It's got an all Chinese crew. It's involved with the Canadians. And it's coming into one of our ports."

Jerry's jalopies in hot demand

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Jerry Elam's 35 used cars aren't for sale any more, but never have they been in such demand.

Elam owns 51 per cent of Jerry's Rent-a-Jalopy, a name his wife suggested because Jerry's Rent-a-Clean and-Reliable-but-not-Necessarily-New-or-Glamorous-Used-Car was accurate but impractical.

Elam's jalopies are not heaps, but he does keep a mechanic on call 24 hours a day.

"Our rental cars are both nostalgic and practical," he said. "The price of new rental cars has gone up just like the price of new cars. That's the theory we had when we started this thing."

The business started in March after Elam's retirement at age 35 on medical disability as an air traffic controller for the Federal Aviation Administration, a job where he said no one ever takes a normal retirement.

He went into the used car business first and observed the same cars sitting on his lot day after day and wondered why they could not be put to better use.

"I thought I'd open an antique car lot but it fizzled," he said. "This is what prompted us to open the used car lot. But I thought there's got to be a way these cars can make money besides waiting for someone to come along and buy them."

The way proved to offer reliable older cars at rental prices considerably less than the national firms.

"Our cars range from a '41 Plymouth coupe to '75 models. That Plymouth we recently purchased from the original owner and believe it or not the gas ration stamps were still in the car when we bought it. It runs like a champ, though. It's the most expensive car we've got, however, $25 per day. Our other prices range from $25 to $65.50 per week.

"The cars are only for rent. The only time we sell a car is if it proves unpopular and our customers don't rent it."

He has renters from "all walks of life and every social and economic status that there is."

"We've had renters from 21 states and nine foreign countries," he said.

Recent customers included former Texas Governor Preston Smith and the Hagger Brothers, singers from Nashville who appear regularly on the television program Hee-Haw.

Two of his cars, a 1960 Chrysler and a 1959 DeSoto rent for $25 a week, "so cheap they stay out constantly. These two old cars just keep on running and we probably spend less on repair and maintenance on them than any we've got, including the '75s."

Elam doesn't charge for mileage as long as the renter promises to use the car only in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"What we want to get away from is someone using a $25 a week car to drive all over South Texas and the United States which is what some of 'em want to do," he said.

Junk food taxes Wallace

Scott Wallace (PC—Oak Bay) wants the seven per cent sales tax slapped on junk food, or removed from non-prescription medications.

Wallace asked Minister of Finance Evan Wolfe Thursday in the Legislature why there was no sales tax on candy or soft drinks while the full seven per cent tax was paid on medications often required by elderly people.

Wolfe said he would take a look at the problem if Wallace would place the complaint in writing. "The whole matter of sales tax exemptions is under constant review," Wolfe said.

Trudeau surprised at 'reconciliation'

Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair both refused to comment on reports that their daughter Margaret had gone to Vancouver seeking to end the legal separation from her husband that was announced May 27.

"Rumors, rumors," she said, then offered to pose for pictures with Justin, 5, and Michel who will be two in October.

The boys had accompanied the prime minister across the country by train, then flew to Vancouver with Margaret's sister, Janet, as Trudeau continued on to Whitehorse.

Trudeau was also questioned about the reconciliation reports when he arrived at Whitehorse Wednesday, but refused to comment.

"He seemed taken aback by the question," said Whitehorse Star editor Max Fraser. "He had a strong emotional reaction to it."

Trudeau is scheduled to fly the 350-mile route of the Dempster highway between Dawson City, and Inuvik and visit Old Crow, Y.T., on Saturday before returning to Ottawa Sunday.

Decision coming soon on dam at Revelstoke

The provincial cabinet committee reviewing the Revelstoke dam project will have its decision soon, Labor Minister Allan Williams said Thursday.

He made the statement in the Legislature in answer to a question from William King (NDP—Revelstoke-Slocan). King had asked when the decision could be expected.

"Soon," Williams replied.

"That answer may be amusing to some government members, but it isn't amusing to businessmen in Revelstoke who want to know whether they should start preparing for a tremendous influx of workers. They are awaiting urgently for the word," King said.

Williams said King's comment was "fair, the matter is urgent, but we (the committee) are determined to take the utmost care because the decision we make will have tremendous ramifications, not just for Revelstoke but for the entire province."

Toronto controllers continuing protest

TORONTO (CP) — A union leader says air traffic controllers will continue delaying flights at Toronto International Airport until the federal government offers them more money.

Wayne Barry, chairman of the Toronto branch of Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, said the slowdown by the 150 controllers at the international airport would go on indefinitely. He made the statement after a Wednesday meeting with local ministry of transport officials failed to ease the tension.

Flights at Toronto were being delayed 15 to 25 minutes Thursday, said Air Canada spokesman John Cavill. No flights had to be cancelled, he said, but four flights were combined into two.

Flight 666 from Toronto to Saint John, N.B., was combined with flight 668 from Toronto to Moncton to create a new flight 668 running Toronto, Saint John and Moncton.

Flight 416 from Toronto to Montreal was combined with flight 110, which goes Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal.

A CP Air spokesman said no flights were cancelled Thursday.

Barry said the controllers would stop the slowdown only if the government agreed to put their contract to arbitration. "Then let's put it before the Anti-Inflation Board and see who is right on this," he said.

Controllers are angry at being ordered back to work by emergency legislation passed by Parliament last week. The 2,200 controllers had been on national strike for three days.

which we were the only ones to practice, for our English speaking minority for over 100 years.

Earlier, Levesque had told reporters he was flexible about the type of arrangements he would like with each province, but emphasized he would not accept constitutional changes affecting education.

He told reporters he was "ready to be flexible enough as long as it is something concrete and something tangible and as long as it's not just words written in the constitution — which we won't accept anyway because education is our jurisdiction."

Prime Minister Trudeau has suggested the federal government may have to provide education for linguistic minorities if provincial governments don't.

Quebec Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Claude Morin said there was no hurry for a decision on the Levesque proposal.

"We don't want to force them today to decide yes or no," Morin said. "The differences are so wide and obvious in some instances that they may want to think it over."

Morin said the agreements would have to be with provincial governments.

The model agreement made public later by Levesque set out the requirements for which children woulld be eligible to benefit from reciprocal agreements. Basically, these "designated persons" would have to follow the same criteria as Quebecers wanting to attend English schools.

Other premiers, including Ontario's Bill Davis and New Brunswick's Richard Hatfield also rejected the idea, preferring to see language of schooling as a right rather than a subject of agreements.

Davis repeated Thursday that education guarantees for minorities should be included in the constitution and he said Ontario treats French-speaking Quebecers moving into Ontario no differently than other Canadians moving into the province.

Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores said he would not support the Levesque proposal.

"We are not nations as yet," he said. "This is the sort of agreement you expect between nations."

Reactor flaw flushed out

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The nuclear reactor at the University of Florida has a problem — the cooling system malfunctions when someone flushes the toilet.

"Please don't flush the toilet while the reactor is running," reads the sign on the building's lavatory door.

A spokesman said no safety problem was involved.

The reactor, which uses 7.5 pounds of uranium, has a powerful water-fed cooling system fed by a well for risky experiments. But low-risk experiments run on a secondary cooling system tied in by a city water main to the toilet.

"It's just a pain in the neck," said Edward Carroll, chairman of the nuclear engineering sciences department.

Yukon 'will lose' if pipe delayed

ence Wednesday, Yukon native Indians re-affirmed their opposition to the pipeline without a settlement of land claims.

Daniel Johnson, chairman of the Council for Yukon Indians, said if a seven-year delay would rule out a pipeline, then no pipeline should be built.

"There is a lot at stake for native people to settle land claims properly and to implement (the settlement) properly," he said. "And if it means that there is to be no pipeline built through the Yukon, then I'm afraid we feel that's the conclusion that has to be arrived at."

Johnson said that if pipeline construction went ahead, Yukon Indians would do everything they could to stop or delay the line until land claims had been fairly settled.

Members of the Yukon territorial government, whom Trudeau also met Wednesday, said they were pleased at the prime minister's comments on the pipeline project.

Yukon councillor Walter Lengerke said that 99 per cent of the Yukon government members were in favor of the pipeline.

Meanwhile negotiators for the federal and U.S. governments are basically setting the stage for ministerial talks on a northern pipeline in a series of Ottawa meetings now under way, government sources said Thursday.

Officials from both sides emerged from a nine-hour session Wednesday to say they had had fruitful and productive discussions, but declined to outline what specific positions they had taken.

"They are actually clarifying points of disagreement, not really bargaining the major issues," the government sources said Thursday.

The talks at the officials level are expected to resume in Washington on Tuesday, with the ministers meeting later in the week or early the next week.

Etna spews

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Mount Etna, Europe's highest volcano, spit hot lava and sent glowing rocks 600 feet into the air in a new burst of activity, recently. The eruption produced two lava flows, but experts said they were headed toward an unpopulated area and presented no danger.

Free 'Son of Sam'—bail report

NEW YORK (UPI) — A pre-trial probation report on David Berkowitz after he was arrested and charged as the "Son of Sam" murderer last week recommended that he be freed without bail pending trial, it was disclosed Thursday.

The report, by the Pre-trial Services Agency, was obtained and released to reporters by Mayor Abraham Beame, who said he was "infuriated" when he learned of the recommendation.

Despite the report, Brooklyn administrative judge Richard Brown ordered Berkowitz held without bail for psychiatric examination, and the suspected .44-calibre killer, believed responsible for the ambush slayings of six persons in the past year, has been under 24-hour-a-day guard since his arrest.

The agency, an independent organization receiving city and federal funds, made its recommendation that the suspected .44 - calibre killer be freed on his own recognizance based on Berkowitz' "community ties," his lack of a previous criminal record and the fact that there were no arrest warrants outstanding against him.

The report noted, however, that the "community ties" were "non-verified."

The report, apparently based on information provided by Berkowitz in an interview, noted that he had worked for six months at the Bronx General Post Office and had lived for 1½ months at his apartment in Yonkers.

In the space set aside for aliases, the probation agency official wrote: "Son of Sam."

The disclosure came as a Queens County grand jury handed up indictment charging Berkowitz with killing two persons and wounding five in that borough.

Big U.S. fire contained but others uncontrolled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The mammoth Marble Cone fire in California was contained Thursday but lightning ignited at least five new blazes in northwestern states.

And a 36,000-acre timber blaze, called the Hog Fire, raged out of control in steep inaccessible timber land of California's Klamath National Forest.

The Marble Cone, started 18 days ago by lightning, burned out 175,000 acres of brush an trees in Los Padres National Forest in the scenic Big Sur country. The destruction included rare Santa Lucia firs and other plants not found elsewhere, and two-thirds of the Ventana Wilderness area.

At a cost of $10 million, an army of nearly 6,000 men surrounded the fire with a zone, scrapped clean to the soil, 160 miles long.

Fire boss Myron Lee said containment of the Marble Cone blaze by Friday would mean the fireline was complete but did not mean the flames were out.

"We still have a lot of work to do in widening and strengthening this line," he said. "There are also a few areas inside the fireline that will continue burning for a few days."

Safeguards in oil shipments

WHEN THE SUPERTANKER Arco Juneau sailed through the Strait of Juan de Fuca a few days ago it marked what appears to be the beginning of the end of the fight to prevent the shipment of Alaska oil to Cherry Point.

It also brought a reminder of the possible, if not inevitable, disaster of a major spill in the confined waters off Vancouver Island.

Timed with the arrival of the Arco Juneau was the release of a "fact sheet" by the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa containing details of the operation of Trans-Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS) tankers in which some comfort may be taken.

Stressing that environmental safety is the key factor in the shipment of Alaska oil, some of the facts given are that all oil from Valdez has to be carried in U.S. vessels manned by U.S. crews and meeting rigid U.S. Coast Guard safety standards, with strict requirements for modern safety, navigational and collision-avoidance equipment complete with backup systems. New regulations call for improved emergency steering standards, inert gas systems, segregated ballast and double bottoms on all new tankers of 20,000 or more deadweight tons.

TAPS tankers will follow routes set down by the Coast Guard, well off shore with wide separation of north and south-bound lanes. On the southern run the closest the tankers will come to Prince Rupert is 220 nautical miles, the distance due west of Prince Rupert is 310 miles and they are to pass 160 miles west of Englefield Bay in the Queen Charlotte Islands. They will be 136 miles off Cape Scott when the route turns to parallel Vancouver Island, staying 40 miles out at Estevan Point.

In addition to the traffic separation scheme, established between Canada and the U.S. in 1975, vessels moving to and from Alaska will be subject to close monitoring by U.S. and Canadian authorities.

Precise navigation is to be facilitated by chains of Loran-C transmitters which are to be fully operational this fall and new radar sites are being added to the surveillance coverage for the Strait of Juan de Fuca and Rosario Strait. And the vessel-traffic centre is to be expanded and a computer-based automated vessel-information system installed.

Increased tanker traffic in the shipment of Alaska oil shouldn't tax the new facilities. A six-month survey, up to the end of April, shows an average of 30.8 tankers travelling Juan de Fuca each week. The immediate prospects are for an average 2.8 TAPS tankers, or an increase of 10 per cent. Their capacity, however, will be much larger than those in the count.

There is to be no ballast discharge at sea. A ballast water treatment facility, capable of processing ballast water from the maximum number of vessels expected in port at any one time, has been installed at Valdez. There also is a joint Canada-U.S. marine pollution contingency plan, agreed to in 1975, calling for close and co-operative action to combat any spills; and the Trans-Alaska Pipeline Authorization Plan provides a fund of $100 million to pay claims for damages, on a liability basis without regard for fault, which may result from discharges of oil by U.S. tankers.

The fight to prevent Cherry Point from becoming a major receiver of Alaska oil can be credited, if for nothing else, with bringing many of the new safety measures and, hopefully, there will be constant sentry duty to see there is no backing off in efforts to minimize the possibility of a spill.

Women's rights

ANYONE who has become acquainted with the leaders of the Suffragette Movement through watching "Shoulder to Shoulder" on television or reading "Militant Suffragettes" by Antonia Raeburn may well wonder to what end those valiant women struggled, suffered and in some cases, died.

If Mrs. Emmeline Parkhurst and her daughters, Crystabel and Sylvia, were alive today, they might look with dismay at certain aspects of the Women's Liberation Movement. They would no doubt applaud the end of job discrimination on the basis of sex, and espouse the demands for equal pay and the right of women to obtain loans and mortgages.

However, despite their militancy and occasional acts of violence, these women were fundamentally feminine. They did not support free love, abortions or lesbianism. They did not try to outdrink, outswear or upstage men. They simply demanded the right to vote.

The modern woman takes that right for granted and many have to be virtually dragged to the voting booths by their husbands. Ironically, the right to vote which was so painfully won by the pioneer Suffragettes, has become a matter of supreme indifference to some women today. Perhaps they value only those things which are denied them or taken away.

On the white side of the gray line?

OTTAWA — Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition looked pretty good the other day as it caught the government red-handed in the process of price fixing.

The Commons was in special session to debate natural gas pipelines. The fun started in the question period as the Opposition — armed with information from the U.S. — probed the government's involvement in the uranium cartel.

The story actually began back in 1972 when the U.S., which at that time provided 70 per cent of world demand, closed its borders to foreign uranium. The effect on world prices was disastrous.

So the Canadian government, alarmed at the possible consequences for Canadian uranium producers and miners, deliberately assisted in establishing a cartel to control prices.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Westinghouse Electric had contracted with its customers to supply uranium at a fixed price. But when world prices rose it reneged on its agreements. Subsequently the companies, who were forced to pay more for their fuel, sued Westinghouse. And that is how the present controversy began.

Westinghouse, in defending its action, is trying to prove that it was the victim of the cartel. So it wants access to Canadian documents proving the origin and existence of the price-fixing arrangement.

As with all cartels, the producers gain and consumers pay, at least in the short run. It is often argued that higher prices to consumers guarantee an adequate supply so that in the longer run consumers may be as well or better off. Gene Whelan has used that argument in respect to his egg marketing board.

Except for some exceptions like the price of postage stamps, telephone calls, airline tickets and eggs, agreements to fix prices in Canada are supposed to be illegal under the Combines Investigation Act. And anyone who has tried to fix prices — at least in the private business sector — has been considered wicked and immoral. Yet here is the government of Canada involved in just such an arrangement. Jed Baldwin, for the Tories, wanted to know why the government would be so naughty.

The government wasn't acting illegally, the PM asserted. It had an opinion from its own faithful law officers of the Crown that it was on the white side of the gray line.

Oh yes, admitted the Tories, but didn't Mr. Henry, the chief investigator for the Combines Investigation Act, think that the goverment's actions were probably illegal?

The PM acknowledged that Mr. Henry may have held that opinion but the government takes its advice from the officials in the department of justice, and they had given the green light. Of course the government would not make that opinion public because it was not the practice to do so.

Not only would the government keep its legal opinions secret, Baldwin objected, it also passed an order-in-council effectively preventing anyone from possessing or communicating any document or information concerning the cartel.

This unusual action, according to the PM, was to keep the Americans from getting their hands on our secrets. The fact that Canadians, too, were kept in the dark, was merely incidental.

When Joe Clark, Jed Baldwin and Sinc Stevens pressed their case the next day the PM was so exasperated he put one hand on each desk and did his own Parliamentary versions of hand-stand and scissor kick. Later he repeated his offer to re-write the offending order if this could be done without defeating its original purpose.

Whether the government is legally okay or not is hard to say. In Canada, unlike the U.S., they are not likely to be challenged in the courts.

But morally they are in hot water up to their eyeballs, if not for permitting the cartel in the first place — because they may have had a defensible case for what they did — then by trying to keep the whole thing secret.

When the oil producers combined to put up the price of oil, the whole world knew about it. Not everyone approved, but they had little choice but to accept.

With higher oil prices, and the ever-present possibility of embargoes, a case can be made for higher uranium prices to ensure greater exploration and supply for an energy-starved world.

But for the government of a country where price fixing is illegal to engage in clandestine arrangements without public justification is wrong.

No wonder the minister of consumer and corporate affairs, Tony Abbott, who is supposed to be the watch-dog for the little guy, was so obviously uncomfortable as he and the prime minister tried to excuse the inexcusable.

A positive U.S. operation in power politics

By JOSEPH C. HARSCH
The Christian Science Monitor

President Carter has offered to help the Somalis if they decide to bring their weapons business across to the Western side of the street from Moscow. He has also offered to help Chad and the Sudan.

This is the first time since the collapse of the American venture in Vietnam that Washington has initiated a new and positive operation in power politics. Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger tried to initiate one in the case of Angola. Congress blocked him. So far, Congress has not objected to this operation which affects the future of the whole of northeast Africa.

Moscow has objected. Izvestia has asserted that the United States is behiind the separatist movement in the Eritrean part of Ethiopia (which has been backed by the Sudan and Somalia) and is attempting to win Somalia away from the Soviet sphere of influence. Moscow charges that this is an attempt to overthrow "revolutionary" regimes in the Horn of Africa.

Not all of the details of what is actually going on in the Horn of Africa are on the official public record. But essentially, Moscow's charges are correct. The United States is supporting Saudi Arabia in that country's long-term effort to push Soviet influence out of northeastern Africa. Moscow has got the message. Washington does not want Soviet power astride the oil route from the Persian Gulf to the West.

So far the American role in this operation has largely been to back up Saudi Arabia. But in the latest development the American role has become positive and open. Somalia, the Sudan, and Chad have been invited to ask for Washington's help. And (not new) Washington is working on ways and means of helping Egypt get the weapons in the West which it can no longer get from Moscow.

All of the above seems to have come as something of a shock to persons who thought the United States had gone out of the business of power politics. Obviously, it has not. So the question arises, is this a good or bad thing, a justified or a foolish thing.?

The essential point in my opinion is that events in the whole of northeastern Africa and more particularly in Somalia do touch upon important and, I would say, even vital American and West European interests.

The United States today is increasingly dependent on that source of oil. Until North America and Western Europe develop alternative sources of energy, their economic well-being, even their economic survival, depend on a regular and uninterrupted flow of oil coming from a friendly Middle East. I cannot think of any target for American diplomacy having a higher priority right now than the security of the oil line from Middle East to West.

Somalia itself is a minor matter. Its population is about three million, mostly nomadic. Its exports are worth $54 million a year. Bananas are the largest item. But its geographic location makes it of enormous strategic importance.

Moscow has been cultivating Somalia for years. Moscow has a naval and air base at Berbera. From Berbera the Soviets can overlook the Gulf of Aden which is the outlet from the Suez Canal and the Red Sea into the Indian Ocean. From Berbera they can also overlook the route of the tankers heading south from the Persian Gulf to the Cape of Good Hope.

The argument for American intervention in Vietnam was the domino theory, i.e., the idea that Chinese and Soviet imperialism would spread from Vietnam throughout Southeast Asia to India, the Middle East and Africa. There was the contributory fact that the middle and upper classes in Vietnam were Christians. They did not want to come under Communist authority.

But there was nothing in the Vietnam condition which even remotely touched the vital national interests of the United States as does Somalia. Vietnam is gone now with no strategic damage. On the contrary, U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam has allowed the natural hostility between China and the Soviet Union to develop — naturally. The United States has gained strategically from getting out of Vietnam. It would be disadvantaged by a Soviet political and military position on the Horn of Africa.

In other words, it seems to me that the United States has logical and proper reasons of national self-interest for doing precisely what Moscow accuses it of doing. It is trying to expel Soviet influence from northeast Africa. It is offering to help Somalia, not because of love for the Somalis, but because the economic well-being of the United States and of its allies is involved.

This is not a case like Vietnam where the reasons for intervention were ideological, emotional, and humanistic. This is a case of plain, simple national interest.

A tough, real question

OTTAWA — Ask yourself this question . . . with both Prime Minister Trudeau and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde having gone on record with the statement that they would return to Quebec to live if that province separated . . . how can we, in the rest of Canada, entrust to a man who has so forewarned us of his loyalties, the task of holding the nation together?

Tough question? Yes.

Tough enough to get you branded a "bigot" or "anti-French" or an English "redneck" by small "1" if not necessarily large "L" Liberals?

Yes again.

One asked in public by John Gamble, a 43-year-old Markham lawyer and runaway winner of the Conservative federal nomination for North York, a riding in Metro Toronto.

He asked this and other questions and made statements to go along with them, at the Conservative nomination convention at Richmond Hill when the Tories handed him the job of unseating Defence Minister Barney Danson.

He lightly dismisses the amiable Barney as a "nice guy, but still only an automatic rubber stamp for all Pierre Trudeau's plots and policies."

He gets off stuff like that when he's moving along in low verbal key.

When this officially nominated Conservative candidate revs it up, he sounds like this, direct quotes from his Richmond Hill speech that won him the party's nod:

"It is said of members of the Parti Quebecois that they are intelligent and eloquent.

"But cyanide smothered with honey is still poison, and a member of the separatist Parti Quebecois, no matter how fluent and bright, is still a traitor.

"There is no legal way Quebec can separate without the unanimous consent of all the provinces and the federal government, and French-Canadians should be made aware of that fact.

"You don't ask a thief to guard the mint and you don't ask a prime minister who says he will leave the country for a separate Quebec to preserve and protect the nation.

"He has told me there must be accommodation to Quebec, but he has refused to spell it out. So we are left to wonder about the magnitude of it."

With such self-declared future residence in a separate Quebec, charges John Gamble, there remains the real and present peril that Trudeau could give away the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Ungava federal territory and even the economic co-operative agreement the province needs to con its people into "independence."

★ ★ ★

These are tough turns-of-phrase that English-Canadians have reconciled themselves to NOT hearing from the soft and colorless politicians they too often send to Parliament.

The hard stuff all flies one way these days — from the Parti Quebecois to the rest of us.

And our polite parliamentarians merely tut-tut, tsk-tsk, and turn the other cheek.

What a great and refreshing change John Gamble could bring to Parliament if he takes Barney Danson's measure in the next election. No forked-tongue, molly-coddling, mealy-mouthing from him.

He calls for "all Canadians to rise and show Trudeau they are anything but gullible, passive and docile," and to "turf him out to continue his sojourns around the world hugging Castro in Cuba and waltzing with Mickey Mouse in Disneyland."

What is faster than a speeding bullet? More powerful than a locomotive? Able to leap tall buildings in a single jump?

Women at garage sales, that's who.

I had to see Garage Power firsthand to believe it. Before moving out of state, I found myself with a few excess trinkets. (Who am I kidding? The attic is so full of junk the county couldn't get the door open to condemn it.)

My girl friend, Esther, said, "You are a natural for a garage sale."

"Why do you say that?" I asked.

"Because you are cheap."

"I don't think you understand," I sniffed, "that spreading one's personal wares out in a garage for public exhibition is not only crass, it smacks of being tacky."

I made 32 bucks off of my junk," she said.

"Why didn't you say so?" I asked excitedly. "Get the card table and let's get started."

The garage sale began at 9 a.m. By 7:30 a.m., I had 15 cars parked on the driveway, 18 on the lawn, two in a ditch and a Volkswagen trying to parallel park between two andirons in my living room.

They grabbed and bought anything that wasn't pumping water, cemented in the ground, growing seed or spit sparks at them when touched.

They bought cocktail toothpicks that were billed as "Like New" . . . radios guaranteed not to play even . . . plastic flowers that had died . . . toothless rakes . . . buckets with leaks . . . books of German military commands . . . and a ukulele that only knew one song, "The World is Waiting for The Sunrise."

At one point I tried to shove through the crowd with a package in my hand. A woman grabbed it from me and said, "I'll give you 35 cents."

"No, really," I stammered. "This isn't . . ."

"Forty cents," she said, grabbing it, "and that is my last offer."

It is the first time anyone ever paid me 40 cents for my garbage.

By 4 p.m. I watched tiredly as a woman tried to coax my husband into her trunk.

"Esther," I said, "this is the most incredible sight I have ever seen."

"What's in that package under your arm?" she said.

"It's nothing," I hesitated.

"It's mildewed laundry," she shouted. "How much did you pay for it?"

"Thirty-five cents, but some of it still fits."

GORDE HUNTER

one man's opinion

ELVIS PRESLEY is gone from the world at a too-young 42, and while Elvis was never one of my favorite musicians, there can be no doubting his tremendous impact on the entertainment world. He might well have been, at one time, the most recognizable person in the whole world.

His gyrations, his moaning, groaning way of singing, moved him to the heights in the same manner as the Beatles and without question, he was THE entertainer of his era. From the first time he appeared on Ed Sullivan's TV show, Presley had the youth of the world eating out of his hand.

THAT OUT OF THE WAY, leave me get around to a musician I can really admire. A few days ago flautist (or flutist) Paul Horn jumped into the pool alongside little Miracle and played a few soothing tunes for the recovering whale. And that brought to mind a laudatory piece on Horn which I caught in the Chicago Sun-Times when in that area not so long ago.

Horn, who might well be one of the nicest and certainly the most talented of persons living in our town, had been in Chicago for a concert appearance and Jerome Idaszak of the Sun-Times elicited some interesting data about Horn and his music.

PAUL HORN'S latest album — Paul Horn — Inside the Great Pyramid — came about because of his fascination with the pyramids and in particular, his fascination of how his music would sound bouncing off the 70-ton limestone slabs.

It all started back in the middle Sixties when Horn, who had become a strong devotee of transcendental meditation, visited India and played his flute in the Taj Mahal. A guard there suggested to Horn that he return at night when the place would be empty. Horn did just that and found the recording sound was fantastic.

THE SOUND was great," Horn said, "I played a whole series of notes and stopped and they all came back as a chord. You can't get that in a recording studio."

Anyway, Horn's musical contreres told him that playing in the pyramids would be the logical next step after the Taj Mahal. The idea became a reality in May of last year and his latest album is the result.

Now it has been suggested to Horn that he try other "recording studios." Like a great church in Spain or in some Mexican ruins.

It certainly has opened up new horizons to the Victoria genius (proper term for a musician so gifted), but then Horn has been opening new horizons with his flute just about every year of his 25-year career.

WHAT I LIKE about the man is his complete lack of pretense. Here's a superstar who has performed with King Cole, Tony Bennett, Miles Davis, Frank Sinatra, Ravi Shankar and Duke Ellington. Yet, he will still come out and play for a graduation ceremony at Mount Douglas High School or for a baby whale trying to get well.

To be honest about it, you can hardly find such a person these days. There are very few of the big names of any field who will give of their time so freely and without expectation of personal publicity.

Just one of the fine people of Victoria . . .

IT IS NOT HUMAN nature to be satisfied. This time last year most of us were grousing around about the absolutely abominable weather that was thrust upon us. It might well have been one of the poorest summers of my memory from a weather standpoint, and it no doubt had a pretty substantial bearing on our rather desultory tourist season.

Now, the heat — no rain for 33 days — and I'm hearing grousing about the heat. Sorry, I have no pity for you, I can not bring myself to side with your bleats. I am loving every last hot ray of sunshine beamed upon us. It is marvelous and I hope it continues for at least another month.

Besides, it has been a fabulous shot in the arm to the tourist industry this summer and whether you like it or not, this city needs more and more tourists — they are our life blood. So dab on a little sun tan lotion, drink plenty of liquids and revel in what might be one of the most magnificent summers this area has ever experienced . . .

'Son of Sam' overplayed?

By JOHN MOODY
From New York

During the week since his arrest as "Son of Sam," David Berkowitz has been a fixture on news pages, television screens and magazine covers.

New York newspapers have daily uncovered new details of the twisted life of the 24-year-old postal worker. And news stories, not waiting for a formal jury conviction or confession, have linked Berkowitz to the six killings attributed to the .44-calibre killer.

Questions arise:

- Have the media overplayed the search for the most wanted killer in New York City history and the arrest of the pudgy ex-soldier police say is their man?
- Is the world's interest in the case a product of genuine public interest or just a press gone wild?

"I have no idea why newspapers insist on hyping this story so, but I find it misguided," said William Shawn, editor of the New Yorker Magazine.

In its current edition, printed before the capture of Berkowitz Aug. 10, the New Yorker denounced New York Daily News columnist Jimmy Breslin for his open letter to the "Son of Sam." The killer has sent Breslin taunting letters that eventually helped identify Berkowitz.

"What they are doing with this excessive and sensational coverage is adding glamour and glory and heroism to the criminal who is likely to be a psychotic person," Shawn said this week. "It stirs him up and stirs other psychotic people up."

◆ ◆ ◆

"I'm not convinced intense media coverage triggers anything," he said. "The police are in a kind of bind. They need press coverage because there's certain information that needs to go out to the public so the police can get information.

"The paradox is that at the same time you're helping the criminal cover up his tracks."

Comfortable prison life

Soaring crime in Victoria, and across the continent, has officials struggling for solutions. My brushes with the law have been few and simple; a couple of speeding tickets and a military police charge of AWOL.

However, now, when attempting to do the impossible — trying to "exist" on a pension — I have discovered in a glance at the front page of the Aug. 16 Colonist, that there is an easy way to live in, what is pictured as a very desirable "country club" atmosphere. An unprovocated poke at society would ensure me a comfortable open door room and carefree days on the golf course, with days off outside.

Is it any wonder that, with job opportunities at a low, people resort to crime and ignore the stigma, by side-stepping the struggle of trying to get along on welfare or government handouts when, by a misdemeanor they can, by giving up their freedom, live comfortably with regular "passes" to break the monotony.

Even the word prison seems to have been erased for added attraction.

CONCERNED VICTORIAN.

UIC rip-off

I am a recently retired 65-year-old, and when I went to my Unemployment Insurance Office, I was told that I was not on the labor market at 65 years. So, I was not entitled to unemployment insurance.

After paying into the insurance for 30 years and not being able to collect, I feel that it is a big rip-off.

When you pay into insurance — when you want it, you should be able to collect, not the unemployment insurance! It is a rip-off. You get three weeks insurance, then after that you get nothing.

I urge that all people write to the minister of manpower, in Ottawa, and their own MP for their district, and protest this unfair treatment of our retirees.

Remember, it is going to affect you. Maybe not now, but when you reach 65 years, (God willing) it will.

The reason why they hit the 65-year-olds, is that we have no clout. But for everyone that has got a job now and plans to keep on working 'til they are 65 years old, now is the time to write. When you reach 65 years, it will be too late.

Cut this letter out and mail it with a few comments of your own to the minister of manpower and to your own MP. Send a letter every month 'til we hear from them. Get the unions, legions and any other group or club you belong to, to fight it. Do not get ripped off. Fight it now, not when it is too late.

This amounts to between $5,000 or $7,000 for a year. Even if you are only 20 years old, it will affect you when you reach 65.

Sasquatch

Ignoring the more pressing problems of chronic unemployment and chaotic inflation, that oldtime Socred MLA George Mussallam was let to erode the time of the Legislature by introducing a bill to protect the Sasquatch.

Good work Mr. Mussallam! What next? A bill to assist little green men by granting them landing rights for their flying saucers on the lawns of the Legislature?

MOT inspection

Referring to the Cowichan Lake tragedy, you wrote about July 30 'No Inspection Required on Pontoon Boat,' and went on to quote Bob Barrett, District Marine Safety Inspector.

Mr. Barrett quoted "it would be impossible to inspect all the 100,000 or so pleasure boats in B.C."

This is rather a ridiculous remark. We find time and people to inspect over one million cars in the province and indeed the U.S. Coast Guard in Washington State finds time and resources to inspect all 150,000 boats in their waters. Why should we be so casual here?

It is more correct perhaps to say that the MOT hasn't at present got the facilities — indeed it can hardly carry out an effective search and rescue mission in the area.

But to say it's impossible with close to one million out of work in Canada and boating tragedies almost every week, is strictly blinkered thinking. Isn't it time the MOT Marine Division came to life in Canada and faced all their responsibilities particularly in the marine field. The public should call on the Honorable Minister Otto Lang to realize there are not only planes and trains in this country, and if nothing else, form at least an auxiliary coast guard that could carry out basic safety inspections of all boats.

Megavitamin study recognized

In view of the attention currently being focussed on the human resources minister's refusal to include megavitamin treatment under the Universal Pharmacare program and certain statements of the minister, we as members of the B.C. Committee for Orthomolecular Medicine feel impelled to clarify the events surrounding this controversy for the benefit of your readers.

On June 1, 1977, the provincial government announced a program of Universal Pharmacare which at one and the same time actually removed vitamins from coverage under the plan. A group of concerned citizens realized that the responsible minister, Bill Vander Zalm, had not done his homework as to the effectiveness of vitamin therapies in the treatment of many illnesses. They therefore formed themselves into the B.C. Committee for Orthomolecular Medicine to fight for reinstatement of vitamins under Pharmacare. Coverage for vitamins is already provided under other provincial pharmacare plans, federal plans and private plans such as MSA, Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

From the start our major concern has been with sufferers from serious and chronic illnesses such as multiple sclerosis and myasthenia gravis who rapidly become incapacitated with consequent loss of livelihood if they do not receive megavitamin treatment — there are no "orthodox" treatments that will reverse these diseases. These sufferers then become welfare recipients and if vitamin treatments are not available under Pharmacare, many will be denied help altogether.

The B.C. committee has within the last few weeks presented Mr. Vander Zalm with briefs concerning the success of megavitamin therapies in treating MS victims in B.C. who are able to afford them (approximately $100 to $120 per month) and also the plight of welfare cases who are currently being denied the treatment: names and specifics were given to the minister, and he has personally met with patients — previous "hopeless cases" — who have made a complete recovery, as well as with Dr. Abram Hoffer, a Victoria specialist in megavitamin therapy who is acknowledged by Dr. Scott Wallace to be an international authority in this field.

The end result, however, is that Mr. Vander Zalm still refuses to allow vitamins under Pharmacare even when the patient's doctors are prepared to recommend in writing to the Pharmacare director that their patients are benefitting from megavitamin treatment. The minister, under intense pressure, has now announced, in co-operation with the BCMA, a study into the value of certain megavitamin treatments. While this move is to be welcomed it does nothing for the many sufferers who will deteriorate and become incapacitated before the report is available and the minister gives this matter his further consideration.

Dr. Wallace has stated that relief to sufferers cannot await the results of a study and the Pharmacare bureaucrats should respect the professional opinion of qualified doctors who are prepared to recommend megavitamin treatment. Insofar as there are still practitioners who attack the value of such treatments (while having no experience of them) Dr. Wallace calls to mind the many instances in medical history where significant advances have at first been decried and their proponents vilified.

It is surely significant that the BCMA, which only a few weeks ago informed the minister that there would be "no value" in a controlled study of megavitamin treatment has now reversed itself, and agreed to undertake the study. If the BCMA can reverse itself so dramatically, why cannot the minister retract his original decision to remove all vitamins from Pharmacare and make them available now to sufferers from chronic diseases where the patient's doctor recognizes a need?

With the best will in the world, we cannot see any reason for the minister's continued attitude except pride and obstinacy. The minister made a foolish decision in the blanket removal of vitamins from Pharmacare and rather than relent now in response to people's desperate need, he is waiting for the results of a medical study so that his response can be carefully tailored to its recommendations and hence immune from further criticism. In this way, Bill Vander Zalm is not showing himself to be tough and resolute in the face of criticism so much as lacking in the intelligent flexibility and essential humanity so vital to someone with his portfolio.

Nazi escape makes waves

By MURRAY SEEGER From Bonn
Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

The West German government Tuesday was faced with difficult domestic and international political issues following the successful flight of former Nazi SS Col. Herbert Kappler from Rome to his Homeland.

A Bonn government spokesman confirmed that Kappler, who had been serving a life sentence in Italy for war crimes including the murder of 335 hostages, was in Germany but would not disclose his hiding place.

The German News Agency DPA said it was "obvious" that the 70-year-old former officer who has terminal cancer of the intestine was in the area of Soliau, hometown of his wife, Anneliese, 52, who apparently spirited him out of Italy by herself.

A host of reporters and photographers at Mrs. Kapplers' home in the town halfway between Hannover and Hamburg saw no signs of the couple, however, and many observers were dubious that Kappler could have made such a long journey in the time elapsed since the escape early Monday morning.

Mrs. Kappler personally called a Bonn government office to announce that her husband was back in Germany for the first time since he was sent to Rome in 1944 as security chief after the Italian government had surrendered.

Married to Kappler only five years ago, Mrs. Kappler apparently believes that domestic political pressure will prevent the Bonn government from either returning him to captivity in Italy or putting him in jail at home. "Freeing him is my chief duty in life," Mrs. Kappler once told reporters.

The Italian government has already announced that it will ask Bonn to return the prisoner even though there is a specific German law against extraditing its citizens to other countries.

Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti said in Rome that his government would use all possible means to return Kappler, including "asking the West German judiciary to collaborate with us in this act of elemental justice."

The Italian government last year, at the personal request of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, agreed to suspend Kappler's life sentence because of poor health after he has served 31 years.

However a strong protest movement which developed in Italy forced the government to rescind its order. Kappler, instead, was moved from Gaetaa military prison to the Rome military hospital where his wife was allowed unrestricted visiting privileges.

The fear of new demonstrations caused the Italian and German governments to announce Tuesday that a planned meeting of Andreitti and Schmidt in Verona today would be postponed until fall.

Rome "wanted to prevent the visit of Chancellor Schmidt at a time when public opinion was deeply disturbed by the escape of Kappler, giving rise to demonstrations which might unjustifiably be interested as a split in the solid friendship between the Italian and German people," Andreotti's office said.

Italian officials emphasized that Kappler's flight to Germany had not affected relations between the two countries.

The protests which broke out in Rome were directed mainly as the loose security system at the military hospital which permitted Mrs. Kappler to drag a large trunk containing her husband — who reportedly now weighs only 105 pounds — to a waiting rented car. If Kappler is not returned to Italy, however, the Andreotti government will come under additional pressure and relations with Bonn could be affected, diplomatic sources suggested.

On the other hand, domestic political pressure within Germany has been strongly in favor of releasing longterm Nazi prisoners on humanitarian grounds. All major political parties have supported such action.

The Fiesta's main competition is going to be the Rabbit. The cars are very similar. The Fiesta offers a tad more rear-seat room, but the Rabbit is a shade quicker. Premiers want cut in taxes

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP) — Canada's 10 premiers Thursday suggested the federal government cut taxes to improve consumer purchasing power and help battle unemployment.

The premiers also suggested action to "ensure that housing construction is speeded up, either through tax measures, accelerated government procedures or increased funding."

In a communique issued shortly before midnight, Atlantic time, the premiers agreed that "unemployment in Canada at its present level is unacceptable."

The provincial leaders, who are scheduled to wind up the formal part of their annual conference today, said that forecasts of continuing high unemployment rates for at least the next 18 months were a source of great concern.

They agreed that both short-and long-term measures are needed if a significant reduction of unemployment rates is to be achieved.

Besides tax cuts and housing starts, they suggested the reintroduction of a federal forgivable capital loan fund as a third short-term measure.

Commenting an the federal government's economic planning, Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said that "we did feel there was certainly a lack of national focus."

"It is not at all clear what the federal government blueprint for the economy is—and this can only be done by the federal government in a state such as ours."

Discussions during the opening session centred around the economy and unemployment. And while host Premier Richard Hatfield insisted the 10 premiers were not gathered for the purpose of hammering away at the federal government, it was clear that most were not happy with Ottawa's economic initiatives.

Hatfield himself said that "the federal government has not co-operated with the provinces in tackling unemployment and hasn't used the revenue-producing power it has" to deal with the problem.

According to Blakeney, "all the signs indicate that Canada's unemployment rate is going to go even higher in the immediate months."

Taking a full part in the economic discussions, sources said, was Quebec Premier Rene Levesque who also tabled a statement on reciprocal language education rights.

But the rest of the premiers remain cool to Levesque's suggestion that English-speaking students coming into Quebec will be allowed to be educated in their own language only if reciprocal agreements are arranged for French-speaking Quebecois going to other provinces.

Premiers such as B.C.'s William Bennett and William Davis of Ontario insist that French-speaking Canadians already have that right.

Bike rider 'poor'

An 18-year-old motorcyclist was reported in very poor condition in the intensive care unit of Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday after an accident Tuesday night in the 1100 block Esquimalt Road.

Lloyd Moss, 1024 Bay, suffered a broken arm, leg and multiple head injuries in a collision with a car driven by Jack White, 41, of 901 Garthland.

Police said that Moss had bought the motorcycle earlier in the day and was taking his cousin Clifford Moss, 19, of 1145 Heald for a ride.

The cousin was treated and released from hospital Tuesday night.

Police said the bike was demolished.

Provincial COURT

Theft is still theft regardless of the province where it occurs. This was the message Judge Harold Alder wanted stressed Thursday, through a translator, to a 21-year-old man from Quebec.

Alder gave Patrick Berthiaux a suspended sentence plus one year's probation after the man pleaded guilty to a charge of theft under $200.

Berthiaux was apprehended Aug. 16 after he tried to leave Universal Trading, 584 Johnson, with an amplifier under his coat.

His travelling companion, Daniel Perusse, 19 was given the same sentence after pleading guilty to possession of stolen property valued under $200.

The court was told that neither man had any friends or family in the area. Nor had they any money at the time of the offences, counsel said.

When counsel told the court that Perusse had planned to leave shortly for the Okanagan, Alder said: "How's he going to find a job if he can't speak English?"

Counsel replied that picking fruit was not the sort of job that required extensive knowledge of English.

A Victoria contractor was given a 30-day sentence, to be served on consecutive weekends, plus probation over that period after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his licence was suspended.

The court was told that Wayne Clement, 35, of 950 Dicker, had 13 driving convictions since 1971.

□

It caused $95 damage and netted the 17-year-old, who lives at 10725 Bayfield, a $100 fine after he pleaded guilty to mischief.

The court was told that Onishuk had been provoked when occupants of the car made obscene gestures and comments to Onishuk and his friends.

Judge's action 'correct' in committal for trial

A Texada Island man was properly committed for trial by a Victoria provincial court judge earlier this year, Mr. Justice David Verchere of the B.C. Supreme Court has ruled.

He has rejected an application by George Arthur Falkner to quash his committal for trial in Victoria county court by provincial court Judge Harold Alder, after a preliminary hearing which ended April 5.

Falkner, along with three others, will be tried this fall on charges of conspiracy to traffic in marijuana between Nov. 1, 1975, and April 17, 1976, at Nanaimo, Powell River, Vancouver, Surrey and elsewhere. The four persons were arrested in April, 1976.

Falkner, through his lawyer T. E. Rafael, argued that he was not properly before Alder, that the preliminary hearing continued when it was not apparent that he lived, was arrested or that the alleged offences were within the judge's territorial jurisdiction and that the judge committed him to trial in Victoria county court.

Verchere said the real issue was the jurisdiction of a judge of the provincial court of B.C. Citing the Provincial Court Act which says the court has "jurisdiction throughout the province," Verchere rejected the claim.

He also saw no constitutional conflict with the Criminal Code.

Verchere also said the Victoria county court has jurisdiction to hear the trial.

The Criminal Code provides that every court of criminal jurisdiction that has power to try an indictable offence is competent to try the accused person for that offence if he is "found" within the territorial jurisdiction.

Verchere said it was clear that Falkner was "found" in Victoria when he appeared for his preliminary hearing Oct. 25, 1976, and the hearing started.

He cited a precedent which said a person is "found . . . in any place where he is actually present."

In any event, he added, Victoria county court was competent to try Falkner because he had been committed for trial in that court.

The attorney-general of Canada, opposing Falkner's application, was represented by Victoria lawyer Cecil Branson.

Plague cited in death

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Doctors are almost certain that a San Jose veterinarian's death Wednesday was caused by pneumonic plague, similar to but more contagious than the so-called Black Death, officials said.

Dr. Joseph Cordell, 55, was admitted to Santa Clara County Medical Centre here Sunday, suffering from what was thought to be pneumonia, the county health department said.

But by the time Cordell died, doctors had diagnosed pneumonic plague, said Janice Rylander of the health department.

"It is theorized that he got it by having contact with an infected animal, but we're not sure."

Ms. Rylander said Cordell first became ill Aug. 11, but tried to treat himself in the early stages of the disease.

Pneumonic plague is caused by the same organism responsible for bubonic plague, the Black Death that killed millions in Europe during the Middle Ages, she said.

The difference is that bubonic plague is passed to humans by infected rodents or by fleas which have picked up the disease from the rodents. Pneumonic plague is passtd through the air and lodges in the human's lungs.

Miss Rylander said the disease has the classic symptoms of pneumonia—high feyer, difficulty of breathing and chest congestion.

"The most fatal type of plague is pneumonic. It is the most dangerous and is highly contagious."

She said Cordell practised in Santa Clara, Monterey and San Mateo counties. Persons most likely to pick up the disease from Cordell are those who have had "face-to-face contact" with him.

Last month, a three-year-old San Diego girl died of bubonic plague contracted during a camping trip at Lake Tahoe. Health officials said then they believed the disease came from an infected rodent.

Telegraph decline speeds up

OTTAWA (CP) — Use of telegraph services in Canada continues to decline at an increasing rate, signalling further closings of telegraph offices, more layoffs of telegraph workers and growing deficits in the industry, a communications department report says.

The 35-page study, released Wednesday, also found that the introduction of innovative, new telegraph services, such as Telepost, had failed to stem the growing deficits at a time when telegraph offices faced increasingly stiff competition.

Communications Minister Jeanne Sauve responded to the report by saying that "the future evolution of the public message telegraph service in Canada must be opened to public consideration at this time in view of its continuing decline and the rapid introduction of more competitive telecommunications services."

Mr. Sauve said, however, that the telegraph service "remains a valuable option in the range of telecommunications available to Canadians and, to some, an important service, difficult to replace."

Domestic telegraph services are run by the telecommunications divisions of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Ltd. The Crown-owned Teleglobe Canada operates overseas telegraph services or cablegrams.

Citing financial reasons, CNCP Telecommunications began in 1967 to close some of its offices, shorten its business hours at other offices and cut its staff.

The report said that between 1961 and 1976 the number of telegraph workers dropped to 1,060 from 9,997.

Meantime, use of the telegraph within the country or with the U.S. declined, while the number of cablegrams remained static, the report said.

Between 1965 and 1975, the total number of domestic telegrams and telegrams sent to the U.S. decreased by 65.2 per cent and there was no evidence to show that the decline in the use of these services "will be arrested under prevailing conditions," the report said.

Toronto trading

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were mixed on the Toronto stock market Thursday at the close of its lightest trading in 12 sessions.

Analysts blamed the market's slide from an early two-point advance on a similar but sharper descent at New York, where the Dow Jones indexw ent from a six-point index to a .55 loss closing at 864.17 a new 19-month low.

On the options market, a total of 171 contracts were traded, down from 226 Wednesday.

MICC Investments Ltd. was the biggest of the 35 block trades with 24,800 shares at $10.75 a share.

Union Gas Ltd. was second with 24,800 Class A shares at $10⅝ a share, followed by another 6,800-share block at the same price.

A trading halt issued at the opening continues in shares of Bad Boy Appliances and Furniture Ltd. pending an announcement. In Wednesday's trading, it dropped five cents to $1.55 a share on the sale of 1,500 shares.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market got off to a strong start Thursday, but faltered toward the close in selling that pushed the Dow Jones industrial average to a 19-month low for the third straight session. The Dow, up about 6 points early, finished with a 0.43 loss at 864.26, its lowest close since it stood at 858.71 on Jan. 2, 1976.

Brokers said the early upswing stemmed mainly from internal market forces rather than any particular news development.

By early afternoon it was evident many traders were reluctant to join in the buying and the advance collapsed by the close.

Wall Streeters looking for some consolation may hope for some favorable reaction today to the weekly U.S. Federal Reserve statistics issued which were issued at the close.

The data showed a drop in both of the simplest measures of the money supply which theoritically is a favorable portent for an end to the Reserve's recent efforts to slow monetary growth by tightening credit.

There was also some hope among analysts that the government's monthly report on consumer price trends today would bring favorable news.

Among Canadian issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, Alcan Aluminum finished up ¼ at $26, Dome Mines ¼ at $51⅜, and Massey Ferguson ¼ at $17⅝.

Hydro-Quebec best of borrowers

By RICHARD GARLICK

MONTREAL (CP) — After the Parti Quebecois election victory last November, many financial analysts warned that Quebec's investment potential was in jeopardy. Today, with the provincial government and Hydro-Quebec well on the way to realizing their current borrowing needs, the fears seem to have been groundless.

Less than five months into its fiscal year, Quebec has already borrowed $389.9 million, or about 44 per cent of the $900 million it established as its borrowing objective when the provincial budget was presented in April.

Hydro-Quebec, the provincially run utility, has secured loans amounting to $937 million, or about 85 per cent of the $1.1 billion it had planned to borrow in its current fiscal year ending Dec. 31.

Financial analysts now say the bond market, especially in the United States, over-reacted to the PQ's victory Nov. 15 on a pro-separatist platform.

"After the election, the market reacted, as it always does, to uncertainty," said Edward Waters of Kidder Peabody, the New York-based firm that underwrites Hydro-Quebec loans in the U.S.

"Once Wall Street can assess a certain situation, they'll put a price on it," he said in a recent interview, explaining that the government's performance since the election had calmed fears among U.S. investors.

Waters said investor confidence was boosted when Quebec's credit ratings were reaffirmed this spring. He noted that U.S. investors have been particularly impressed with the performance of Hydro-Quebec, which traditionally borrows more than the Quebec government.

"Based on this year's results, there is no triple-A rated utility in North America that will perform as well as Hydro," he said, adding that there are only four triple-A utilities in North America. Hydro still has only a double-A rank from Moody's and Standard and Poor's.

Waters attributed the utility's good performance to its "strong, conservative" financial policy which Kidder Peabody outlined in a report it issued in April.

This policy has allowed the utility to establish itself as a "very viable utility, which does not rely on the government," he said.

"No other utility in Canada is willing to announce a financial policy like Hydro's," Waters said, adding that other provinces are starting to look seriously at the utility's approach to financing.

The policy is based on Hydro's insistence on interest coverage of not less than 1.25 times, without allowance for interest charged for construction work in progress.

Claude Blanchard of Greenshields Inc., a Montreal investment house, agreed that Hydro-Quebec is generating more internal profits, but he noted that the utility still looks to the government for favorable rate increases.

Quebec granted Hydro a 20-per-cent increase this year, compared with average increases of 10 per cent for the last three years, Blanchard said. Yet Quebecers still pay less for electricity than Ontario Hydro customers, where yearly rate increases have averaged about 17 per cent.

Both Blanchard and Waters agreed that Hydro-Quebec's dependence on hydro-generated power rather than more costly nuclear power was another point in the utility's favor.

Operating Quebec's massive Manic 5 power development takes only a staff of about 25, "including the cleaning lady," Blanchard said.

Asked if U.S. investors were basing their confidence in Quebec simply on the success of Hydro-Quebec, both men were quick to point out that the government itself is in good shape.

The PQ's first budget, handed down in April by Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, impressed investors as being "conservative" and "down-to-earth," they said.

"It's safe to say investors would not lend money to Hydro if they had no confidence in Quebec."

In its annual report, Hydro-Quebec announced it was increasing its capital expenditures by 70 per cent this year, mainly to accelerate its work on the James Bay power project.

Waters said despite the heavy increase, the utility had "nothing to worry about. They have the situation well in hand."

Bank loans soar

Debts climb to $23 billion

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians were burdened by $23.13 billion of debt at the end of June, a 14.3 per-cent increase in the past year that occurred mostly because of an increase in bank loans, Statistics Canada figures released Thursday show.

Personal loans owed to chartered banks totalled $7.69 billion at the end of June, a 13.2-per-cent increase from 1976 levels.

Quebec savings banks were owed another $82 million in personal loans. Policy loans from life insurance companies accounted for $1.24 billion of the outsatanding debt total, up 5.6 per cent over last year.

But small loans of $214 million owed to consumer loan and sales finance companies were down 7.8 per cent from 1976 levels, while larger loans of $1.48 billion owed these companies was 2.4 per cent less than in 1976.

Customers owed $1.29 billion to department stores and furniture, television and radio and household appliance stores.

Competition in New York

TORONTO (CP) — Pearce Bunting, who became president of the Toronto Stock Exchange in July, has been busy planning for the exchange's future.

"Our job is to provide the best market for trading Canadian securities," he said. "We recognize that our main competition is south of the border."

Both Bunting and W. R. Lilliott, president of Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities Ltd. of Toronto and chairman of the board this year, are advocates of management by objectives — setting targets and monitoring progress toward them.

Soon after Bunting, a former stockbroker, took over there was a four-day meeting of senior management. Next month the board of governors will hold a two-day planning session.

Those who attended the four-day meeting now form an executive committee that meets weekly.

The exchange president said he believes that aside from technical improvements in trading, more support for the capital market is important.

The exchange's budget is nearly $6 million a year and some members think it could be trimmed.

"We have been looking hard at costs but, frankly, there is nothing obvious at the moment," Bunting said. "That does not mean we won't continue to examine them."

One cost has been that of developing a system of computer-assisted trading based on the Candat II information network. If computer trading works, it could be used for the Canada-wide stock trading system that is being considered by the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada and the Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver stock exchanges.

Bunting will also be busy cementing relationships with other exchanges, investment dealers and the Ontario Securities Commission (OSC). He added that getting a sharper definition of roles of the exchange and the OSC is another aim of his.

Business briefs

7,300 lose steel jobs

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. said Thursday it will begin immediately laying off 7,300 workers and cutting production by 10 per cent in an attempt to improve profits.

Bethlehem, the second-largest steelmaker in the United States, said the layoffs will affect employees at its Lackawanna, N.Y., plant and in flood-damaged Johnstown, Pa.

"By eliminating these marginal facilities and the costs associated with operating them, we will be able to concentrate our energies and resources on the more profitable opportunities available to us," said Lewis Foy, company chairman.

Bethlehem said it will reduce capital spending by $200 million during the next 16 months, and expects to report a "substantial loss for the year 1977."

Steelmaking capacity at Lackawanna will be cut to 2.8 million tons annually from 4.8 million. It will mean a work force reduction there to 8,000 from 11,500.

Bethlehem had earlier announced it would cut production at Johnstown from to 1.2 million tons from 1.8 million, requiring the laying off of 3,800 workers.

TORONTO (CP) — Bad Boy Appliances and Furniture Ltd. has been placed in receivership, a company statement said Thursday.

The move followed serving of a receiving order against the company by suppliers. Stores will remain open.

The company said a trustee will assume control of operations to permit major shareholders to reorganize and refinance.

Earlier this week the firm reported a net loss of $1.8 million for last year.

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — U.S. airlines squandered more than a billion gallons of fuel flying with empty seats last year and used up millions more because of airport delays and noise abatement procedures, a congressional report said Thursday.

The General Accounting Office, the congressional watchdog agency, said that if the airlines filled 65 per cent of their seats instead of last year's average of 55 per cent, they would save almost a billion gallons of fuel.

But it said neither the government nor the airlines had really tried to increase aircraft load factors by reducing flight frequencies since the 1973 fuel crisis.

The report said that in 1975 nearly 400 million gallons of fuel were wasted at a cost of $110 million because of airport delays. Federal Aviation Administration procedures to reduce delays had been ineffective, it said.

U.S., Cuba inching toward normality

By CATHY McKERCHER

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States and Cuba appear to be moving fairly quickly toward resuming diplomatic relations but both sides are aware that the most difficult tasks still lie ahead.

In recent months, the two countries have reached agreement on fishing rights and extending an anti-hijacking agreement. Numerous friendly gestures have been made, including Cuba's decision to free some U.S. prisoners, visits to the Caribbean island by American businessmen and politicians and the U.S. decision to extend U.S. travel rights of Cuban diplomats at the United Nations.

The most significant step so far occurs Sept. 1, when, after 16 years without diplomatic relations, the two countries will exchange informal diplomatic sections working out of the other embassies.

Although both President Carter and Cuban President Fidel Castro have expressed optimism that relations between the two countries will improve, major compromises and changes of attitudes on both sides likely would be needed before a longterm, productive relationship can be achieved.

Perhaps the most difficult task for the United States will be to accept the revolution that put Castro's Communist regime in power as authentic and permanent.

After Castro took power in 1961, the U.S. imposed a trade embargo on Cuba and supported the infamous Bay of Pigs invasion in an attempt to end the regime. When those tactics failed, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency plotted to assassinate Castro.

Even more recently, the Nixon government attempted unsuccessfully to prevent Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. companies from making sales to Cuba.

Castro has described Carter's administration as the first since the revolution "that is not committed to a policy of aggression and hostility toward Cuba."

But Carter, while supporting improved relations, has said that an end to Cuba's "unwarranted intrusion into the affairs of Africa and other nations would be a prerequisite to normalization."

The most difficult question facing Cuba is whether it would be willing to accept the U.S. position that it withdraw its troops from Angola and return to operating primarily as a member of the inter-American community.

Cuba's treaty ties with the Soviet Union and the presence of Soviet military personnel on the island add an even more difficult dimension to the issue.

Quebec, Alberta out

Two provinces cold-shoulder insulation plan

By HOWARD COLLINS

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal grants to help insulate homes will go into effect Sept. 1 in all but the provinces of Quebec and Alberta, the federal energy department announced Wednesday.

The government offered the $1.4 billion program to the provinces in June, but only if they met other conservation standards such as lower speed limits and elimination of sales taxes on insulating materials.

But two provinces declined to meet the conditions and residents there will not be eligible for the grants of up to $350 to meet two-thirds of the costs of insulation materials.

A program of grants or such work as introduced in Prince Edward Island late lastfww year and Nova Sc earlier this year, leading to demands from the other provinces that it be extended country-wide.

The department said that six of the other eight provinces and the two territories now have met the conditions set by Ottawa for participation in the program.

Both Alberta and Quebec said they were concerned over interference by Ottawa in provincial jurisdiction, with Quebec Energy Minister Guy Joron adding that he felt the province could provide a better plan.

He planned discussions with Ottawa on a conservation program the province hopes to introduce this fall, but no talks have taken place so far.

A major concern for Alberta was the requirement that highway speeds be lowered before the grants would be provided.

Even some of the provinces participating went into the program reluctantly. Energy Minister Brian Peckford of Newfoundland described some of the preconditions as impracticable, but said he would not see his province denied access to the program.

In order to qualify, a province had to impose tougher building codes requiring higher insulation standards, reduce speed limits to 55 miles an hour on two-lane roads and to 60 miles an hour on better roads, prohibit bulk metering of electricity and natural gas in multi-family dwellings such as apartment buildings and removal of taxes on insulation.

Ottawa is providing grants of up to $350 for detached homes, semi-detached or row-housing, $200 for each apartment in a building of six or less units, $150 for each apartment in a building with six or more units and $70 per bedroom for a hostel or dormitory.

The program is being introduced gradually, depending on the age of the dwelling. In the first year, it will give grants for homes built prior to 1921 in New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan and prior to 1941 in Newfoundland, British Columbia, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

The qualifying date will be advanced each year until 1984 when all homes built prior to Sept. 1, 1977, will become eligible.

The program will be administered by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. and application forms soon will be provided in the participating provinces, the department said.

Sutton equals league record with fifth one-hit effort

Don Sutton came within four outs of his first no-hitter and tied a National League record with his fifth career one-hitter Thursday when the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 7-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Sutton, who had lost his last four decisions, allowed only a two-out single in the eighth inning to catcher Marc Hill to tie Mordecai Brown, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jim Maloney for most career one-hitters in the National League.

Sutton, 11-8, had not won a game since July 4 when he defeated San Francisco and the 12-year veteran was making his eighth start since that victory. He started off by issuing two walks in the first inning but retired the next 21 batters before Hill broke up the no-hitter by lining a clean two-out single to left in the eighth.

"After Hill got his hit in the eighth, I was numb," Sutton said. "This was my fifth one-hitter and I'll remember it for a long time.

"I got behind on Hill in the eighth and decided I was going to try to make him hit my breaking ball. I threw him a slider that didn't break and he hit it fair and square into left field.

Sutton was given strong defensive support in the fifth when Dave Lopes ranged far to his right to field Terry Whitfield's hard grounder and Reggie Smith made a running catch of Hill's liner. In the eighth, third baseman Teddy Martinez went into the Dodger dugout to catch Whitfield's foul pop before Hill's hit.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the second inning on Lopes' 10th homer, with Steve Yeager aboard on a single and Sutton on base after a walk. Smith led off the third with his 22nd home run of the season and the Dodgers scored their fifth run in the fourth to chase losing pitcher Jim Barr, 11-10, on Dusty Baker's triple and Sutton's squeeze bunt single.

Sutton walked four and struck out seven in boosting his record to 11-7.

The victory moves the leaders 12 games ahead of the idle Cincinnati Reds in the Western Division.

In another National League game, Richie Hebner hit the first grand slam home run of his career, powering Philadelphia Phillies and Jim Lonborg to an 8-3 victory over Montreal Expos.

Lonborg, 8-3, pitched a five-hitter for his third complete game.

Phil Garner tagged a two-run homer and Al Oliver, Dave Parker and Bill Robinson contributed solo clouts as Pittsburgh Pirates edged Chicago Cubs 7-6.

The win enabled the Pirates to keep pace with the Eastern Division leading Phillies, four and one-half games ahead. Chicago is in third place, seven games back of Philadelphia.

In the American League, Texas Rangers clung to their slim lead in the Western Division with an 8-0 victory over Toronto Blue Jays.

Dock Ellis tossed a three-hitter and Toby Harrah and Bump Wills each hit homers as Texas scored at least one run in each of the first five innings.

Mickey Rivers scored the winning run on Lou Piniella's single in the seventh inning, as New York Yankees nipped Detroit Tigers 5-4. Catfish Hunter, 8-7, gained the win.

Western contenders Minnesota Twins and Kansas City Royals remained close to the top, each registering victories. The Twins came up with a four-run first inning to chase Seattle Mariners 8-2 and Dennis Leonard hurled a four-hitter as Kansas City blanked Cleveland Indians 4-0.

Meanwhile, Eastern Division leaders Boston Red Sox gained their 17th victory in 19 games, overcoming Milwaukee Brewers 8-4 as George Scott drilled four hits. Scott slammed a pair of two-run singles and scored twice as Ferguson Jenkins picked up his 10th win against seven losses.

Dolphins aim to break lengthy losing string

By TOM KEYSER

But it's not the weather that's bothering the Junior Big Four football team. Dolphins are suffering through another kind of drought.

They haven't won a league game in three seasons. But this may be the year Dolphins taste the cool waters of victory again.

"That's our goal this season," says the man who returned to lead Dolphins last year after a three-year absence.

"I think the playoffs are definitely within reach, based on our performance in the first two games this year."

Dolphins opened their season with a 17-14 loss to Surrey Rams at Empire Stadium, then fell to Vancouver Blue Bombers 18-6. Victoria opens its home schedule Sunday against Renfrew Trojans at Royal Athletic Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

"We've had trouble competing with mainland teams, no question," said Hindle this week. "But I think this year's team could be the one to get us out of the habit of losing.

Much of the enthusiasm comes from the rookies who make up a sizeable portion of the 40-man roster. Hindle has 12 players returning but the team's average age is about 19.

Seven first-year men are listed on the starting offensive team alone, including quarterback Mark Townsend, who played juvenile football in Victoria last year.

"Our problem has been that a lot of our players come to us with no real experience. For many, junior is the first organized football they've played.

"I guess this just isn't a good football town. There's no high school program and the minor system is kind of fractured."

So why the unguarded optimism? The defence, mainly, plus a few individuals who could brighten the team's chances.

The defence even boasts the club's leading scorer. Tackle Tod Peterson enjoys the unlikely distinction, with three touchdowns, two gained on recovered fumbles and the other on a blocked kick.

All in vain, though. Time ran out before Dolphins' next play.

Offensively, Townsend is the apple of Hindle's eye, a rollout, scrambling quarterback who has "come a long way" as a passer.

"Buxcey is a human dynamo, the best all-around running back we have," enthused Hindle. "We don't have a real breakaway-type runner though, since a few of our boys are touring with the James Bay rugby team."

And Dolphins' chances against Trojans, second-place finishers last season with an 8-2 mark?

"Off our first two games, we can win it," said Hindle.

"Our last game we fumbled four times. We should be 1-1 right now.

"With a few breaks, we could be 2-0."

Hobby-stocks here Saturday

Miller moving up

The Victoria driver moved into fifth place last weekend by setting a track record, winning the main event and finishing third in the fast heat in the program at Oyster River.

The hobby-stocks return to Victoria on Saturday with time trials starting at 7 p.m. at Western Speedway.

Miller would need incredible luck to catch points leader John Robillard of Campbell River with only two races remaining but he is in easy range of second-place George Shillito of Victoria.

Robillard leads Shillito by 360 points but there is only 130 points separating the next four drivers with Shillito having 766 and Miller 636.

Ken Alexander of Duncan is third with 714 points and Sam Carnie of Black Creek is fourth with 655. The final program is Sept. 24 at Western.

The super-stock series has five races remaining including a program Saturday at Oyster River with time trials starting at 7 p.m.

The program is the last of the season at Oyster River. The remaining super-stock features are Aug. 27, Sept. 3 and Sept. 24 at Western and Sept. 17 at Nanaimo.

AUTO PARTS — Western Speedway is spicing up Saturday night's program with a mini-demolition derby, consisting of cat and mouse races, backwards trophy dashes and heat races where drivers must crash to pass . . . Jim Matthews of Victoria won the second annual Billy Foster Memorial go-kart race Sunday at Western. Matthews, who also had fast time of 18:85, was presented the Royal Bank Trophy for winning the Capital City Go-Kart Club sponsored event. Jim Gilbert of Victoria was second, Dennis Kitts of Puyallup, Wash. finished third, Mark Jones of Gresham, Ore. finished fourth followed by Dale Taylor, Woodey Wellwood and Dave Dalby, all of Victoria, Lawrence Musil of Seattle, Ron Crocker of Victoria and Mike Jones of Gresham.

Cowboys blame fans for lack of support

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Cowboys of the World Hockey Association have folded because of laick of sufficient support, club directors said Thursday.

The directors said at a news conference that the franchise should be disbanded because of what they called poor support by hockey fans in the Alberta city.

The other factor in the decision is the Calgary Corral, built in the early 1950s, seats about 6,500 fans and is considered too small for a professional hockey arena by today's standards.

"With no major league merger in sight and the lack of a definitive building commitment, the directors have concluded that the franchise is not economically viable," president Bill Hay and team owner Jim Pattison said in a joint statement.

They said refunds would be mailed today to season ticket holders.

Pattison, who operated WHA franchises for two years in both Calgary and Vancouver, also noted the lack of accommodation of WHA teams by the National Hockey League in explaining the decision to fold the Cowboys.

He said the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Board, owners of the Corral, have not announced any plans for a new building.

Following a successful season in 1975-76 — the Cowboys first season after arriving from Vancouver — season tickets sales dropped 600 last year from 2,900 in 1975-76.

At the end of the 1976-77 season, Pattison said, 4,400 season tickets would have to be sold if the team remained in Calgary. To date, 2,226 tickets had been sold.

Thursday's announcement means Calgary is without a professional hockey team for the second time in 15 years.

Calgary Stampeders of the old Western Hockey League, folded in the early 1960s.

The Cowboys had hoped to have an NHL franchise within two to three years, with the hopes that a new arena could be built in that time, directors said. The NHL has stipulated that the arenas would have to seat at least 12,000 persons.

Hansen leads Canada to opening victory

SOFIA, Bulgaria (CP) — The Canadian men's basketball team got solid performances Thursday from three players left from the 1976 Olympic team in a 71-43 triumph over Greece in the first round of the World Student Games.

Centre Lars Hansen of Coquitlam, a student at University of Washington, paced the Canadians with 24 points and 13 rebounds while Jamie Russell of Niagara Falls, Ont., had 13 points and Mike Visser of Sudbury, Ont., contributed eight.

Riley had a series of turnovers but helped the Canadians through their few tough moments with some tenacious defensive play and good ballhandling.

A crowd of about 2,000 booed the Canadian girls throughout the first half and Canada managed a 36-36 tie at the intermission.

Both men's and women's volleyball teams lost in first-round matches.

In women's basketball, Sylvia Sweeney of Montreal paced Canada with 18 points and veteran guard Liz Silcott of Montreal contributed 13.

Whalley in final

SURREY (CP) — A grand-slam home run by Glen Engevik in the first inning set Whalley on its way to a 5-3 win Thursday over Windsor, Ont., at the Canadian Little League baseball championships.

The win advances host Whalley to the final round today of the double-knockout tournament against undefeated Lethbridge, Whalley, which has lost once, would have to defeat the Alberta team twice to win the championship.

Engevik came to bat after two singles and a walk had loaded the bases, and cracked a shot over the right-field wall to give Whalley a four-run lead.

Windsor meets Trail in today's consolation final. Trail, last year's Canadian champions, won the B.C. championship for the second time this year but was eliminated earlier this week. Whalley got a berth as host team.

Seahawks win

SEATTLE (UPI) — Seattle Seahawks scored twice in 70 seconds after the Oakland starters retired to the bench to stun the Super Bowl champion Raiders 12-10 Thursday night for their third straight exhibition victory.

Ferguson co-favored in B.C. Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Open, final stop on the 1977 Canadian professional golf tour, begins today at Marine Drive Golf Club, with three B.C. golfers favored to capture the $4,000 first prize.

The three, Dave Barr of Kelowna, Cec Ferguson of Victoria and Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver, will get an early indication of each other's prowess on the 6,078-yard, par-71 layout as they tee off together today in the first round of the 54-hole tournament.

Barr, who is having his best year on the Canadian tour with $12,342 in earnings, says the $20,000 B.C. Open is one of the more important stops on the tour.

Barr has won two tour tournaments this year, including last week's Alberta Open at Calgary where he finished one shot ahead of Greg Pidalski of Toronto. Barr also won the Quebec Open in June.

Ferguson, the defending B.C. Open champion, won as an amateur last year and turned pro during the winter. He has finished second and eighth on the last two tour stops.

Roxburgh, an amateur, plays out of the Marine Drive course and host pro Vince Baker says he feels Roxburgh has a chance for a good finish because he "knows the course like the back of his hand."

Baker said some of the long-hitting pros could have some trouble with the narrow Marine Drive layout because it demands accuracy.

A total of 138 golfers, including 96 professionals will tee off today. The field will be cut to the low 60 and ties for the final round Sunday.

Mike Reasor, of Seattle, who plays the United States golf tour part time, led the non-exempt qualifiers Tuesday, shooting a six-under par 65.

The tournament will also feature two father-son combinations.

Vancouver professional Brian Christie fired a 72 in qualifying to join his sons Brian and Blair, both amateurs.

The other father-son team will include Keith Westover, 15, who shot a 72 Tuesday to become the youngest player in a B.C. Open. His father, Jack, a professional from Vancouver, qualified with a 68.

Grundison helps B.C. to swimming gold

Grundison
. . . third medal

Peter Szmidt of Pointe Claire got a quick start in the 400-metre freestyle and held off Darrell Dea, 17, of Regina to win in 4:05.09. Szmidt had previously won the 100 and 200 freestyle races and was a member of Quebec's winning team in the 200 freestyle relay.

Johanna Malloy, 15, of Thunder Bay, Ont., also brought her gold medal count to four as a member of Ontario's victorious team in the women's 400 freestyle relay. The winning time was 3:59.62.

British Columbia claimed the gold medal in the men's 400 freestyle relay with a 3:37.90 clocking, narrowly ahead of Ontario's 3:39.21. Alberta won the bronze in 3:40.70. Members of the winning team were Brad Smith, 17, of Kelowna; Mike Price, 17, of Port Moody; Stu Ballantyne, 16, of Burnaby, and Rob Grundison, 19, of Victoria.

Grundison's medal was his third of the Games. Wednesday, he won the bronze in the 400-metre individual medley and the silver medal for his part in the B.C. team's 800-metre relay victory.

Victoria's Nick Borelly was fifth in the 200-metre backstroke, won by Dan Rogers, 18, of Mississauga, Ont. It was Rogers' second gold medal.

Also winning their second gold medals were Susan Mason, 17, of Halifax in the women's 400 freestyle, Jody McPhee, 15, of Sudbury in the women's 200 individual medley and Jennifer Bouliane, 14, of Pointe Claire, Que., in the women's 200 backstroke.

Also included on the B.C. squad are Ian Bridge, Mike Hardy and Gord Reading of Victoria and Drew Ferguson of Powell River.

Quebec, which came through divisional round-robin play undefeated and beat B.C. 4-3 in the process, downed Ontario on penalty kicks after the teams finished 1-1 in overtime.

Ontario faces Newfoundland to decide the bronze medal.

B.C. women capture team golf honors

BOISBRIAND, Que. (CP) — Paula Phillips, Valerie White and Marilyn Palmer, all of Vancouver, brought British Columbia the provincial team title at the Canadian women's amateur golf championship Thursday.

Phillips had a two-over-par 73 on the par-73, 6,015-yard Hillsdale Golf and Country Club course to lead the way in the second round of the event, held simultaneously with the first 36 holes of the individual championship.

White shot a 77 and Palmer had a 78 to give B.C. a total of 467 for the 36 holes and a four-stroke victory over runner-up Ontario, the 1976 champions.

The fourth member of the B.C. team, Vancouver's Gail Harvey Moore, had a 78 Thursday, but only the best three of four scores each day counted toward the title.

B.C. won the championship in 1974 and 1975 and this year marks the 10th time the province has won or shared the provincial title since play began in 1947.

The victory earned the Royal Canadian Golf Association Interprovincial Team Trophy. Nova Scotia, comprising Kathy Powers of Lunenberg, Mary McLellan of Truro, Jeanne Boudreau of Liverpool and Debbie MacLeod of New Glasgow, won the Crockett Trophy for low net with a score of 455. Their gross score was 495.

In the individual race, Cathy Sherk of Fonthill, Ont. shot a 76 Thursday for a 153 total, one stroke up on Stacy West of Thornhill, who won her second straight Canadian junior championship last week. West shot a 76 Thursday after an opening-round 79.

The first round was played on a grey, drizzly day and, while there was sun most of Thursday, blustery winds plagued the field of 93.

It was cut to the low 60 and ties for the third round today.

Alden powers Sooke to win

Sooke Merchants staved off elimination Thursday night with a 5-3 victory over Seaboard Construction in the third game of the best-of-five semi-final in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League at Sooke Athletetic Park.

Alden Govenlock slammed a two-run homer and a double and scored what proved to be the winning run on Bill Sinclair's single in the fifth inning.

Wayne Stolth was three-for-three and scored the insurance run to pace an eleven-hit attack for the winners. Seaboard leads 2-1 and the fourth game is Sunday at Central Park.

Play in the other semi-final matchup continues tonight at Central Park with the Victoria Athletics (2-0) taking on the Colony Inn Royals.

Al Goldade slammed a home run in the bottom of the sixth inning to lift Castle properties to a 6-5 decision over Century Inn and a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five semi-final in the Heywood Avenue Men's League.

John Coccioloni's solo shot in the fifth frame gave the winners a 5-4 lead after Brian Busby had tied the game with a home run in the fourth.

Play resumes Sunday at 1 p.m. while Capital Builders, who hold a 2-0 edge in the other semi-final, will meet Remco Office Supply tonight at 6:30 at the same site.

U.S. Cup contenders split defence trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Enterprise, under skipper Lowell North, scored its first win in the America's Cup defence trials Thursday and then lost a second race to Ted Hood's Independence.

Enterprise won the first race by a minute and two seconds. In the second race, Independence had a two-second jump and increased the margin to 58 seconds at the finish.

Courageous, the 1974 defender, had the day off Thursday and kept her series record at 3-0. Enterprise finished the day at 1-3 and Independence as 1-1.

Sweden's Sverige handed Gretel II her second straight loss, leaving the Australian 12-meter yacht facing a do-or-die situation in the Cup challenger semi-finals.

Sverige, which lost the start by a mere second, passed Gretel II on the first windward leg and gradually expanded her lead through the 24.3-mile race to 2:11 at the finish.

The win gave skipper Pelle Petterson of Sverige a 3-2 record against the old Australian yacht, meaning Gretel II must win the next race in the best-of-seven series or be eliminated from the challenge.

The yacht Australia won a berth in the foreign finals by defeating Baron Marcel Bich's France I by 10:16 Tuesday. That win, the most lopsided of the America's Cup summer, gave Australia a 4-0 sweep of the series.

The winner of the challenger finals earns the right to face one of three American yachts — Enterprise, Courageous or Independence — in the Cup series beginning Sept. 13.

South African bounces Rosie

TORONTO (CP) — Rosie Casals of the United States, the No. 1 seed in women's singles at the Canadian Open tennis championship, suffered an upset loss Thursday at the hands of 19-year-old South African Marise Kruger.

Kruger, a finalist in the Wimbledon juniors last year, won 6-4, 7-5 when Casals double faulted at match point in their quarter-final encounter.

The decision meant the $160,000 tournament lost its last women's seed. Casals had come here to get some clay court play under her belt before the United States Open at Forest Hills. She had been competing indoors on a fast carpet in World Team Tennis and her game was rusty.

"It was a drastic adjustment coming onto slow courts after that fast carpet," said Casals. "I had trouble with my serve and Marise was making good ground strokes."

Earlier Thursday, Casals had beaten Ilana Kloss of South Africa 6-2, 7-5 while No. 8 seed Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa fell 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 to Cynthia Doerner of Australia.

In other women's quarter-finals, Katja Ebbinghaus of West Germany, who earlier upset fourth seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia, lost to Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Today's semi-finals will match Jeanne Evert, Chrissie's younger sister who beat Uruguay's Fiorella Bonicelli 6-4, 6-2, against Kruger, and Doerner faces Marsikova.

In men's second-round action, top-seeded Raul Ramirez squeaked out a three-set victory over Jim Delaney of the United States. The 24-year-old Mexican took advantage of Delaney's mid-match jitters, winning 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

It was the second time this week Ramirez has been in unexpected difficulty. On Tuesday, in a first-round match that was interrupted four times for heavy rain squalls, he eked out a 2-6, 6-4, 6-1 win over qualifier Alvaro Betansur of Colombia.

Second - seeded Manuel Crantes of Spain beat Bolivian Ramiro Benavides 6-1, 6-1 in another second-round match, while third-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland topped India's Sashi Menon 6-1, 6-3.

However, Britain's John Lloyd lost 6-3, 6-3, Colin Dibley of Australia.

B.C. financier saves Racers

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indianapolis Racers will be alive for the coming World Hockey Association season thanks to foreign aid.

Nelson Skalbania, 39, of Vancouver, chief owner of the Edmonton Oilers last year, has agreed in principle to become the main investor and operator of the Racers.

David Givens, Indiana National Bank senior vice president and general counsel, made the announcement at a news conference. He said Skalbania has divested himself of his interest in the Oilers.

The bank holds the Racers' assets and has been searching for buyers for six months, with slim hopes, until the National Hockey League decided last week to reject a merger with the WHA.

The Skalbania agreement was reached in Montreal during meetings of the WHA earlier Wednesday, Givens said.

"We haven't crossed the 't's or dotted the 'i's," Givens said, but he issued a news release that flatly said Skalbania "will become the Racers' principal investor," and that Indianapolis investors will continue as minority owners.

Beckenbauer MVP

NEW YORK (UPI) — German star Franz Beckenbauer, who helped the New York Cosmos into the playoffs with his sparkling defensive play, barely outdistanced teammate Pele to capture the North American Soccer League's most valuable player award, it was announced Thursday.

Beckenbauer, who was named European footballer of the year twice during his illustrious career with Bayern Munich, drew 282 votes in a Sporting News poll of NASL players. The Brazilian-born Pele received 276 votes.

Blues reacquire Roberts

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens Thursday announced they have traded veteran right winger-defenceman Jim Roberts to St. Louis Blues for "future considerations."

Roberts, 37, best known for his defensive ability during a National Hockey League career that has spanned 14 seasons, joined the Montreal club for the 1963-64 season.

He was selected by the Blues from Montreal during the 1967 expansion draft but returned to the Canadiens in exchange for winger Phil Roberto in December, 1971.

Renko joins White Sox

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox, desperate for some pitching to go with their potent attack as they scramable in the American League West's four-way race, Thursday announced the acquisition of right-handed pitcher Steve Renko from the Chicago Cubs.

The Sox gave up minor league pitcher Larry Anderson.

Renko, 32, was on the disabled list this season from April 28 to June 21. He had a 2-2 record with the Cubs, making 13 appearances which included seven starting assignments. His earned-run average is 4.5.

Ranger rookie charged

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Don Murdoch, a high-scoring rookie with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League last year, has been charged with possession of cocaine.

RCMP Superintendent Donald Heaton, in charge of drug enforcement for southern Ontario, said Wednesday that Murdoch, 20, was charged at Toronto International Airport after he had flown to Toronto from the United States on Friday on his way home to Cranbrook, B.C.

About one-fifth of an ounce of the drug was seized, Heaton said.

Last season, Murdoch scored 32 goals and earned 27 assists before an ankle injury in February put him out of action for the rest of the season.

Everton loosens bankroll

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuter) — Everton, for the last decade living in the shadow of its soccer neighbors, European champion Liverpool, spent $618,800 Thursday in signing England winger Dave Thomas, 26, from Queen's Park Rangers and George Wood, 21, Blackpool's goalkeeper;.

Both players will be in the Everton squad for the first English league match of the season, against Nottingham Forest on Saturday.

Last week, Liverpool spent $800,000 on Scotland striker Kenny Dalglish, from Glasgow Celtic, to set a British transfer fee record.

Nicklaus
. . . has problems

North overcomes backache

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Andy North, happily afflicted with an aching back, eagled his final hole for a five-under-par 66 and tied veteran Miller Barber for the first-round lead Thursday in the $300,000 Westchester golf tournament.

"I think it helped," North said of his recurring back problems. "I didn't try to hit the ball hard. Just kind of bunted it around and kept it in play.

"It's funny. The last three weeks I haven't had any trouble at all. And I played horrible. Missed the cut in all three tournaments.

"Now it's hurting a little, like a bruise, and everything went right on the golf course all day."

Few things went right for golf's more glamorous names, however. Most of them — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, new PGA champion Lanny Wadkins and Tom Watson — were well behind Barber and the six-foot-four North in the rich event that matches the largest purse of the year.

Tied at 67, four under par on the hilly, little 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course in suburban New York, were former Masters winner Charles Coody, Howard Twitty, Tom Jenkins and Grier Jones.

Although the course, one of the shortest on the tour, often produces some of the year's lowest scores, most of the top stars had their difficulties.

Nicklaus, admitting to a letdown following the PGA and complaining of being tired, had to birdie three of his last four holes to match par-71.

"I played the par three holes three over and the par fives even," he said. "That pretty well explains it."

Tied with him were Weiskopf, who had a triple-bogey seven on the eighth hole, and Watson, winner of the British Open and Masters and the year's leading money-winner with $281,000.

Defending champion David Graham had a 72, Ben Crenshaw and Hale Irwin 74s. Wadkins and Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner this year, were at 75, and Gene Littler, who lost the PGA playoff to Wadkins, struggled to a 77.

North, 27, who has won more than $250,000 but still is seeking his first title in five years on the tour, didn't make a bogey in his round and capped his effort with a three-wood second shot that left him only a two-foot putt for an eagle three on his closing hole.

North reached another par five in two and two-putted for a birdie, holed a pair of 15-foot putts for his other two and missed only one green, his first. He chipped to four feet and saved par there.

U.S. wins first round

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (AP) — United States captain Billy Casper lost on the last hole to Spain's Severiano Ballesteros, but the American squad opened the Double Diamond World Golf Classic with a 3-1 victory over Europe Thursday.

Casper just as last year's captain Johnny Miller lost by one hole to the European No. 1 but Danny Edwards and former U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and Jerry Pate were in sparkling form to avenge last year's 4-0 defeat by the Spanish-dominated European team.

Trevino sped to the turn in the Canadian Open was the most impressive of the Americans crushing Belgium's Philippe Toussanit 7 and 6.

Trevno sped to the turn in 32 to go four up and then won the first three inward holes for the biggest victory of the day on the 6613-yard Gleneagles course.

Pate after holing a 115-footer to birdie the first was always in command of the European captain Angel Gallardo of Spain. He was up after six and went on to a 4 and 3 victory.

He was quickly followed by Edwards who came in with a 2 and 1 triumph over another Spaniard, Francisco Abreu.

Loto Canada calls just hoax

SURREY (CP) — RCMP in this municipality south of Vancouver have words of caution for anyone hoarding old Loto Canada ticket stubs and hoping for a miracle — stay away from Vancouver International Airport.

A police spokesman says somebody in the Vancouver area is operating a unique scheme. The man calls up a telephone number at random and tells the person answering that he or she has just won a consolation $500 savings bond because Loto failed to sell the winning ticket on a $1 million prize.

The delighted recipient is advised that a cab will arrive shortly to take him to the airport for a formal presentation ceremony.

No one knows for sure what happens after that, because nobody has followed along. But in several cases cabs have actually arrived at homes, according to the spokesman.

He said the whole thing might simply be a plan to get people out of their homes so burglars could go to work, or it might just be a practical joke.

But the RCMP dont think its particularly funny.

Icebreaker at pole

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Unions atomic icebreaker Arctica this week became the first surface ship to reach the geographical point of the North Pole, Tass News agency said.

Tass described the Arctic as the most powerful icebreaker in the world.

"For the first time in the history of sea navigation, the ship crossed the massive ice cover of the central polar basin and floated freely up toward the very top of the globe, Tass said.

Two American submarines reached the pole in 1958, and a Soviet sub followed in 1962.

The Arctica lowered a metal plaque bearing the Soviet state emblem, name of the ship, its co-ordinates and the date onto the geographical point of the pole, Tass said.

McCarthy bites NDP bullet

Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy passed the ammunition again Thursday in the Legislature but couldn't find it in her heart to praise the lord or the New Democratic Party.

It all started in 1974-75 when Mrs. McCarthy accused the NDP, then in government, of preparing to establish a secret police force. She hinted that ammunition and guns were being bought and stored in secret places.

On Wednesday Mrs. McCarthy admitted that she had bought a million rounds of small arms ammunition and that it was stored in Esquimalt. She added that the practice of purchasing ammunition in bulk to save money had been going on for years.

"Will the minister assure the house that her fantasy of a secret police force will not now be realized?" Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) asked Thursday.

"Or will she apologize for the charges made during the last election?"

Mrs. McCarthy declined to do either.

Now, Greenpeace plans to chase Aussie whalers

Greenpeace, the internationally famous environmental group based in Vancouver, announced Thursday it was opening a "third front" against whaling, this time off the coast of Australia.

Greenpeace anti-whaling activities are aimed at Japanese and Russian whaling vessels in two regions of the Pacific.

The whalers are permitted a quota of 700 sperm whales by the International Whaling Commission, Greenpeace spokesman Rod Marining said Thursday in an interview.

Humpback whales disappeared off the Australia coast in the mid-1960s, Marining said, wiped out by whalers.

The new expedition includes Canadian environmentalists Bob and Bobbi Hunter and representatives from Australia, France, the U.S., Great Britain and New Zealand.

Banks
. . . another Mirabel

Dr. Peter Banks, outspoken opponent of the proposal to split Victoria General Hospital into two divisions, told Victoria Kiwanians this week that politics and bad advice have resulted in a medical absurdity.

The decision to split the hospital for several years, before moving all the facilities now at the Victoria General on Fairfield Road to the new site at Helmcken Road, would result in much higher operating costs, and since operating costs in modern hospitals equal capital costs in two years, little savings were likely, Banks said.

He traced the present situation to porkbarrel politics in 1969, when Hugh Curtis, then mayor of Saanich, became region board chairman and Jim Cummings, then mayor of North Saanich, took over the region hospital board.

The two were more interested in hospital services in their own municipalities than in the problems of the downtown Victoria hospitals, which had been outlined in several reports, Banks said.

"If you consider the costs of the subsequent delay and the report after report after report that have contradicted each other and the way that building costs have inflated, this . . . was a disaster," he said.

Had work proceeded on construction of a new hospital at St. Ann's Academy, adjacent to the present Victoria General, at that time, there would have been sufficient funds left to build a third hospital in the western communities today, Banks said.

The numerous reports, committees and meetings which followed all bore out the epigram "let experts in through the door, and common sense goes out the window," Banks said.

In addition, the direction in which planners are going is a direct contradiction of the legacy of Victoria General's founders, the Sisters of St. Ann, who sold the hospital to the community for $1 and the lands of the academy for $900,000, well below market price.

Their stipulation was that the property be used "for the purpose of operating upon the said lands a hospital."

At present, Banks said, no estimates of the operating costs for running two small hospitals rather than one larger hospital have been prepared.

But the regional hospital board's own consultant, Dr. Peter Hart of Agnew Peckham Associates, admitted that the idea was "crazy," Banks said.

"The minister (of health), in his heart of hearts, must realize that it is absurd," Banks suggested.

In addition to the higher operating costs, Banks listed "hidden" costs — travel delays, extra gasoline, dislocation of hospital personnel, costs to visitors, servicing costs for the new sites, and additional fire protection services.

"Surely it is more sensible to use the best of what we have got — they are currently spending half a million dollars on updating the x-ray department in the old C Wing — expand it where it is, and build out a Helmcken Road sensible facilities to serve the people in that part of the city at this time.

"It just makes no sense to destroy the Victoria General Hospital as a working, living, vital institution on its present site."

Banks maintained it is not doctors' self-interest but their concern about patients and visitors that had provoked their opposition to the Helmcken Road site.

Taking a jab at regional hospital board chairman Art Young, who said earlier this year that "hospitals are for people, not doctors," Banks asked: "Does he intend to do the surgery?"

"After all, his operative mortality is very high." (Young is a meatcutter by trade.)

The questions was not the convenience of doctors, Banks said, "although . . . if we are going to waste our time, how much more will the people waste their time?" but "how to serve the people best."

Not only money but time, critical in many medical emergencies, was at stake, Banks said.

"When I have a heart attack talking about this in this hotel, in the future, the Jubilee emergency department will be too crowded and I'll be dead before I reach Helmcken Road. And maybe some of the politicians will say that is not a bad idea. But their turn will come."

Banks urged the Kiwanis, particularly those who had tried to change planes at Montreal recently, to "use your own common sense" and not to trust the experts.

"Should they build that hospital out at Helmcken Road and destroy the Victoria General, I hope they do not call it after the revered Dr. Helmcken, the first physician in the city.

"I hope they call it the Mirabel Hospital."

NDP sees victory in greenbelt bill

Canadian Press

The New Democratic Party claimed a victory Thursday when Environment Minister James Nielsen bowed to Opposition pressure to amend the Greenbelt Act.

"It's a bloody big victory," party whip Dennis Cocke (NDP — New Westminster) said in an interview. "I've never seen anything like it."

Government willingness to amend the bill came on a day when both sides of the Legislature co-operated to pass 12 separate pieces of legislation through committee and third reading stages.

The 12, plus four others, were then given royal assent.

The NPD had objected to a section of the Greenbelt Act which gave the government power to remove from Greenbelt protection land which had been willed or given to the government.

Robert Skelly (NDP—Alberni), Opposition environment critic, had called on the government to relieve itself of that power.

Nielsen also accepted an amendment from Skelly which would require public notice being given when a parcel of land is to be removed from the greenbelt. Skelly first asked for notice and a public hearing, but agreed with Nielsen that public hearings weren't always necessary.

The environment minister also agreed to delay debate on the Pesticide Control Act until the NDP was ready with amendments it wants to propose.

Teething Miracle sets tongues wagging

The mystery of the sassy whale has been solved.

When she continued the behavior, they decided that an oral examination was in order and discovered Wednesday to their surprise, that the youngster is teething.

"Scientists had always thought young killer whales were born with a full set of teeth," Tim Andrews, an observer at the pool, said. "So they are pretty excited about this. They're rewriting the textbooks."

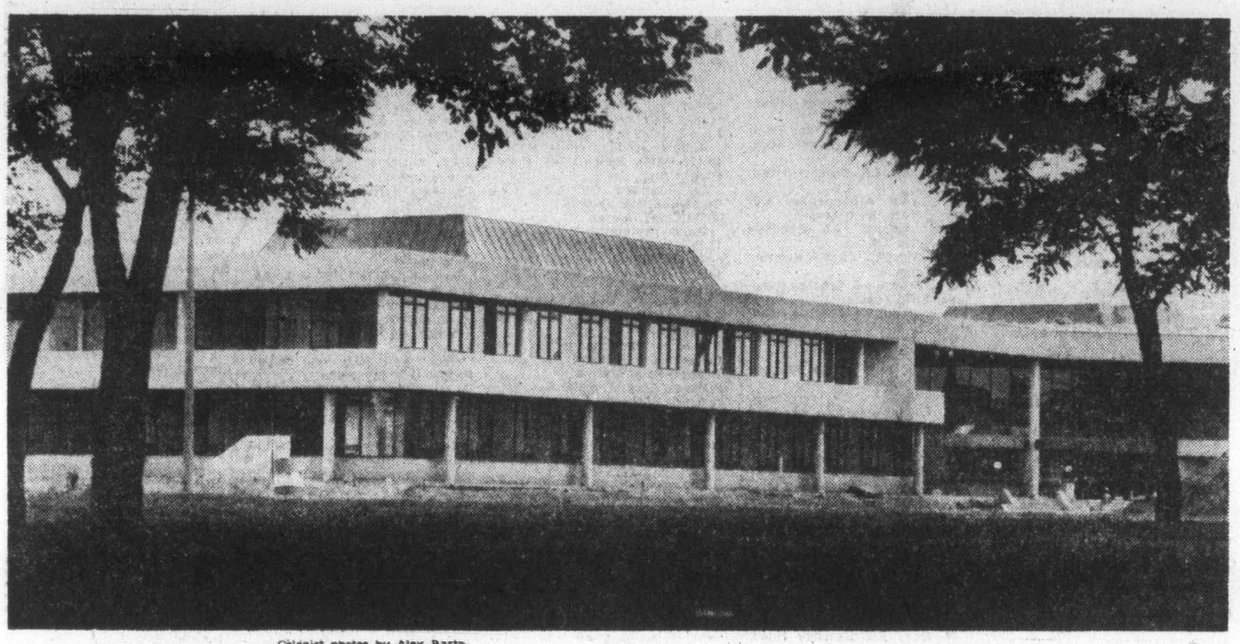

Two teeth are coming through the whale's lower gums, right at the front. The veterinarians theorize that the absence of teeth in the front, hitherto unknown, makes nursing more comfortable for the mother whale. If she were in the wild, Miracle would still be nursing.

Miracle's veterinarians took tissue samples from sores on the whale's skin Wednesday morning and they will be analyzed to determine what kind of parasites, if any, are causing her health problem.

Blood samples taken Wednesday showed the whale's white blood cell count down again, thanks to doses of a powerful antibiotic, although the count is still higher than normal, indicating that an infection caused by a bullet wound is persisting.

The improvement in the whale's behavior on Wednesday was quite discernable, Andrews said.

"She seems to have perked up, and is swimming a lot stronger. She appears to be flexing some muscles that might have been stiff or sore before, by doing some sharp turns in the pool, and lots of rolls."

What's the job worth?

That's the question for Victoria General

Victoria General is the first hospital in B.C. chosen for a comprehensive job evaluation plan which will eventually cover 20,000 hospital employees in the province.

At a press conference at the hospital Wednesday, Hugh Wilkinson, an industrial consultant and chariman of a three-man committee which will oversee the job evaluation, said implementation could improve industrial relations between hospitals and their staffs, particularly at contract time.

The aim of the job evaluation program, he said, was to determine the relative value of every job in the hospital. The committee will then draw up an initial wage curve which will relate a job's value to a specific monthly wage.

WITH AN agreed-upon wage curve, negotiations between the Hospital Employees Union and the Health Labor Relations Association could be greatly simplified, Wilkinson said.

"It will leave only the general level of wage increase to bargaining," rather than a host of individual rates which must each be negotiated, Wilkinson said.

The evaluation plan would also guide assessment of new jobs, so that employees in those positions would receive wages commensurate with their position.

Using 11 criteria which include factors such as educational requirements, experience, responsibility, the necessity to communicate with other employees, working conditions and occupational hazards, analysts retained by the evaluation committee will begin working in the hospital on Monday, asking questions about jobs and assigning them point values according to the criteria.

THE POINT VALUES, when plotted against a scale of monthly wages, should show some kind of general relationship between the number of points assigned to a job and the wages paid for it, Wilkinson said.

Some anomalies — jobs which appear to be abnormally overpaid or underpaid, considering the number of points they get — would undoubtedly appear, and where possible these would be left out of the deliberations that lead to determining the final wage scale, Wilkinson said.

"This is a major undertaking," said Wilkinson, a former UBC professor of engineering and commerce. "It is very difficult for parties accustomed to working cooperatively, but where they have been used to arguing and negotiating it is even more difficult."

The job evaluation program had its beginning several years ago, when the union worked to end discrimination in some job classifications.

AN INITIAL breakthrough which saw the wages of practical nurses boosted to the same level as that of orderlies was gained four years ago, but full-scale job evaluation never appeared and was a contributing factor to the 31-year-old HEU's first strike in the spring of 1976.

In legislating an end to the dispute, the provincial government agreed to make $6 million available for the job evaluation program.

Wilkinson estimated that about six years of work had gone into the job evaluation plan already, and while the evaluation at Victoria General should last no more than four weeks, implementation of the plan for the whole province would take at least two years.

Wilkinson's partners on the evaluation committee are Ray McCready of the HEU and Bill Rolfe of the HLRA. Each party has made two analysts available for the committee, and other staff may be required as well, Wilkinson said. The committee has established its own office in Vancouver so as not to be associated with either of the parties.

IN CHOOSING their first hospital, the committee wanted an acute-care hospital with a good range of ancillary services, but of moderate size. Because of the additional burden that the job evaluation program will impose on hospital staff, the hospital had to be efficiently run, and relationships between administration and staff had to be excellent, Wilkinson said.

Victoria General's labor relations are among "the best in the country," and it is "an excellently run hospital," he said.

Two other hospitals, selected but not yet announced will also take part in the first phase of the job evaluation program. If its experience with the first three hospitals shows the committee that the plan can evaluate jobs effectively, evaluation of the rest of the hospitals in the province could start with little delay, Wilkinson said.

"Employees who are receiving more than they should be getting will permit them to receive their existing wages, and perhaps normal increments, as long as they are in their jobs, although new employees in those jobs would get the lower rates prescribed by the wage curve, Wilkinson said.

In addition, any increases arising from job evaluation will be retroactive to January, 1975.

Metchosin rodeo has SPCA boiling

By STEPHEN HUME
Colonist Reporter

Provincial SPCA director William Leach has come out against a rodeo scheduled for Saturday at Luxton fairgrounds in Metchosin, calling it offensive and inhumane.

Leach, spokesman for the society's 10,000 members in B.C., said in an interview Thursday that rodeos are a sport which practise deliberate cruelty to animals.

He said he was disappointed with the Lions Club sponsoring the Luxton rodeo.

"We don't wnat rodeos in Victoria," Leach said, adding that he had just returned from several rodeos on the mainland, where he witnessed cruelty to rodeo animals.

He said rodeos, whether they are big operations like the Calgary Stampede or small-town rodeos in outlying B.C., subject animals to pain.

"The B.C. rodeo circuit is drawing to a close this year. These harsh 'man against beast' performances which often offend humane-minded spectators will not take place again until the heat and dust of the summer of 1978," he said.

Leach said he has informed the Lions that he would attend the Luxton rodeo. He said Victoria SPCA manager Don Adams would also be there. Adams is an SPCA inspector. Leach has the authority to make arrests for animal welfare violations.

Spectators behind the scenes do not see the hazing, hot-shotting with electric prodders and bucking straps pulled tight around a horse's genital area to make it buck, he said.

Leach said the Luxton rodeo would probably not have bucking horses, but would have steer-wrestling events in which calves "are subjected to deliberate cruelty by having their tails twisted."

Leach said wild-cow milking and "greasy-pig" events were "senseless and obnoxious."

"I give some credit to the Canadian Cowboys' Association for recently having made it mandatory that bucking-straps be lined with sheepskin and that 'busting' calves is no longer allowed," he said.

"But great self-improvement is called for by a public made aware of the brutal reality that is the modern rodeo."

Mika fears new road may ruin Blenkinsop

By BILL SMITH
Colonist Reporter

A proposed east-west arterial road through Saanich from Quadra Street to Munns Road might eventually be extended into the heart of the Blenkinsop Valley, says Saanich Ald. John Mika.

Saanich has been asked by the highways ministry to acquire right-of-way along a three-mile route from Quadra at Beckwith to Munns Road at the municipality's western boundary.

Mika, in an interview Thursday, said the next obvious step would be to extend the road across the valley to the agricultural Blenkinsop Valley.

Public works committee chairman Ald. Sandy Noel said future extension of the road link easterly was possible.

"Reserving a route for such an extension is a good idea," he said. "Constructing a road from Quadra to Blenkinsop would greatly assist Saanich residents wanting to reach the western community."

He said the valley was no more sacrosanct than land at Ten Mile Point area or land around Cordova Bay.

Mika contends that the proposed east-west corridor would totally transform the North Quadra district.

He also expressed concern that a north-south link, being considered by the municipality from McKenzie to Dieppe, would virtually slice the North Quadra area into four equal pieces.

The proposal, he said, added credence to a call earlier this week by seven Saanich ratepayers' associations for a 90-day moratorium on future development plans.

"It also means that we should delay public hearings scheduled next month on the official community plan and the North Quadra area."

Surprised at the timing of the ministry's proposal, Mika said he was attempting to piece together a scenario that would make sense regarding the manner in which the proposal was revealed (at an in-camera meeting of the works committee), the context of the proposal and the impact on development proposals now before council.

Ald. Fred Severson, chairman of council's lands, planning and housing committee, said Thursday after meeting planner Gil Laurenson that he would strongly oppose the east-west road proposal.

"The government plan will torpedo our community plan. I just can't support the idea."

Municipal engineer Clifford Warren, commenting on Mika's contention that an extension of the east-west link through to Blenkinsop was possible, said: "Highways' prime interest now is in the Quadra-Munns link. Anything past that point would be a matter for Saanich to decide."

He said that such a route, proposed in a 1966 Saanich transportation study, was not pursued. "But who is to know what will happen in future years as far as the Blenkinsop Valley is concerned?"

Swimmers high and dry

Recent visitors to the Sooke Pot Holes — up to 45 of them one day — found themselves without transportation home. Their cars had been towed away.

A Sooke RCMP spokesman said Thursday the action was taken because cars had been parked on both sides of the road to the Pot Holes, blocking the road.

"Had there been a fire or accident there would have been no access," the spokesman said. "Even the police car couldn't get by."

Mansion history will end in subdivision

An old Rockland mansion and its grounds are soon to be converted to a subdivision.

Plans call for the subdivision of 1613 and 1617 Rockland into 12 lots, 10 of them for new single-family homes. The other two lots have houses on them, on one of them the original mansion which is to be converted to five suites.

Victoria city council's public works committee gave tentative approval Thursday to the subdivision plan, but made that approval contingent on several provisos.

The owners must undertake to limit conversion of the mansion to five suites and there must be no further subdivision of the large lot on which the mansion will be situated.

The owners also must agree not to cut down any of the large trees on the property. And finally, the fire marshal must rule favorably on the retention of the trees along the access route to the various lots created by the subdivision.

The lots will have a minimum size of 8,000 square-feet with an average width of 80 feet. The lot on which the converted mansion will sit is to have 23,463 square-feet.

The developer is Blunden Development of Vancouver.

The Captain Cook bi-centennial commemoration to mark the 200th anniversary of the arrival of Captain James Cook of the Royal Navy on Vancouver Island, will start next summer and will encompass a range of international events.

The tall ships race from Honolulu to Victoria is expected to be the most popular event of the province-wide celebration.

Attracting world-wide attention, the tall ships race will take place in June and July, retracing much of Cook's third and final voyage of discovery.

The tall ships are large square-riggers used in sail training. Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Japan, Indonesia, Spain and the United States have been invited to participate.

If all invitations are accepted the tall ships could be accompanied by a racing fleet of as many as 60 schooners, brigantines, and smaller ketches and yawls, including Canada's Bluenose II.

The tall ships will arrive in Victoria on July 20, 1978, to begin a three-day stay that will include an in-shore regatta, rowing and tug-o-war events and a multitude of other competitions between crews of vessels and local groups.

Open houses aboard the tall ships could set record-breaking public attendance figures, much like those in New York in 1976 when an estimated 10 million people came out to see or board the fleet as part of the U.S. bi-centennial celebration, Meek Wilson Ltd., the public relations firm handling the event for the tourists ministry, said Thursday.

The Pacific tall ships race is organized and conducted by the American Sail Training Association, in co-operation with the Sail Training Association (United Kingdom) following a request by the Captain Cook bicentennial committee.

Training races are conducted every two years in conjunction with a major international event, to foster friendship among cadets and students who man the windjammers.

This race will be the first time a fleet of tall ships has joined in major races in the Pacific.

And in March, the anniversary month Cook arrived, the provincial government will unveil an historical reminder at Friendly Cove, Nootka Sound, where Cook landed.

Queen Elizabeth has been invited to be a special guest of honor for the ceremonies and to participate in other events that will follow.

Communities throughout the province are planning to observe the bicentennial. In May, the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will host a three-quarter-ton world championship race to recognize the event.

Victorian Days and the Swiftsure race will be scheduled with the bicentennial in mind.

The celebrations planned for next year will cost the taxpayers about $1.6 million. Mrs. McCarthy feels the cost will be far outweighed by the boost to Victoria's economy and the world-wide publicity.

Literary heroines strictly confidential

Medieval women's life hell

MONTREAL (CP) — Medieval literature idolized women and portrayed male-female exalted, passionate love. In reality this was far from the truth.

Unlike the literary heroines of the time, medieval women were shown little love or respect, says Victoria Lees in a McGill News article based on her doctoral thesis on the medieval concept of marriage.

"Indeed," writes Ms. Lees, "they lived in a hostile emotional environment. Clerics disdained them as menstruating animals, while laymen saw them as scarcely more than useful combinations of housekeeper and broodmare."

In sharp contrast to the poet who described Sir Lancelot's ecstasy upon finding a comb with strands of Queen Guinevere's hair is the French gentleman of the 14th century who warned his daughters not to disagree with their husbands and described a man meting out public punishment to his argumentative wife:

"He smote her with his fiste down to the erthe, and thanne with hys fote he strake her in the uisage (visage) and broke her nose, and alle her lyff (life) after she had her nose croked, the which shent (spoiled) and dysfigured her uisage after, that she might not for shame shene her uisage, it was so foule blemisshed."

The birth of a daughter was not a welcome event in the Middle Ages and little affection was wasted on a girl. She was given enough education to make her serviceable, but not enough to encourage insubordination.

Barely into puberty, a girl was betrothed to the highest bidder, no matter how senile or depraved he might be. If she objected to her parents' choice of groom, she could simply be beaten into submission.

Medieval marriage was little more than a procedure to ensure the continuation and aggrandizement of a family line, writes Ms. Lees. It was a business deal in which the groom received a fixed sum from the bride's father as her dowry or "portion."

The groom's father, or the groom himself if he had inherited an estate, had to promise a property or "jointure" to provide the wife with an annual allowance if her husband died.

Wife-hunting became an occupation largely motivated by the desire for material gain, although men were not the only ones to enter life-long relationships with money foremost in their minds.

One medieval bride wrote, "Syr, I may have three hundred marcs in joyntur, and to take the lesse when I may have the more, my frendes (friends) wold thenke (think) me not wyse."

Heavy responsibilities and hard work were the lot of married women and treatises were written to teach them how to manage great estates by themselves whenever their husbands were away.

They were kept busy supervising the dairy, brewhouse, pantry, manor farm, gardens and weaving shop and laying away provisions for the winter.

A fertile woman of the Middle Ages was almost always pregnant, and with every pregnancy she looked death in the face. In the 16th century, the earliest period for which figures are available, about 45 per cent of women died before the age of 50, a quarter of them as a result of pregnancy or childbirth.

The parent-child relationship provided no more emotional warmth than the husband-wife relationship since children who survived birth were often sent off at an early age to be raised on neighboring estates.

Men turned to prostitutes and mistresses to escape the aridity of arranged marriages and, while this was regarded as a normal state of affairs, a wife's chastity was closely guarded. A man who caught his wife cheating might cut her throat or have her beheaded or immured (entombed alive).

ann landers

Dear Ann Landers: For seven years I've been married to a man who can't seem to make it financially. I think it must be his lousy personality.

When we were first married we lived in Herb's home town because he worked for his dad. The business was crawling with relatives. Herb's dad died the following year and the usual family in-fighting began. I hated the town (nothing but hicks) and was glad when Herb agreed to accept a job in another city.

To make a long story short, he was transferred four times in six years and each place was worse than the last.

Yesterday Herb got a call from his brother. He has bought out the other relatives and wants us to come back to the hick town. Herb will be a part-owner and vice-president of the business.

I hate the town. There is not one person there I'd care to associate with. Shouldn't a wife have something to say about where the family lives? Doesn't she have some rights? Please answer soon. I am — Mad, Mad, Mad.

Dear M, M, M: Yes, a wife has some rights. But with rights come obligations — and one of those obligations is to make a home where her husband can make a living.

I suspect someone in your family has a "lousy personality," but I don't think it's Herb. If you consider people "hicks," they know it. Small wonder you have no friends.

Defrost, kiddo. Learn to give. Make up your mind you're going to contribute something to the community. Small towns can be great fun. (I know.) Your husband needs a hand — not a foot. It's not the towns you've been living in — it's you.

Dear Ann Landers: After two years of anonymous letters to others, about us, and many anonymous phone calls (which we taped) we were shocked to discover that they were perpetrated by a relative of some people we know.

Legal action (for which we have proof) would be expensive, exhausting and embarrassing. We are pleading with this person, for God's sake, get some help for yourself. What you are doing is a symptom of mental illness. If you continue we may have to call the police and we don't want to. — Compassionate And Understanding

Dear Compassionate: Thousands of people who read your letter will feel uncomfortable. They will wonder if you mean them.

I hope every person who is ill at ease will assume he (or she) has been discovered and take your advice. The poison pens and telephone creeps are sickies and they need professional help.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please speak about osteomyelitis? Is it deteriorating? Crippling? Is there treatment to retard the progress? — Mrs. R.S.F.

It's a nasty disease, and I can speak about it from first-hand experience. I had it myself as a boy of 16.

It is infection of the bone usually caused by the staph germ. The long bones of the arms and legs are commonly affected, although the source of initial infection is often elsewhere in the body, as in the tonsils or urinary tract. The spine can also be affected.

Injury is commonly a factor and the problem usually is found in youngsters, boys more than girls, probably due to greater physical activity during these younger years. If untreated, it can lead to retarded growth of the affected limb.

As I mentioned, I had this when I was 16, before the advent of antibiotics. It occurred in the small bone of my leg. There was drainage from the site, and even the appearance of bone through the skin. The only accepted treatment then was surgical. A doctor had to scrape bits of dead bone away and drain the infected area.

The usual symptoms, which can occur quite suddenly, include tenderness, redness, and swelling. Also, of course, there is a rise in white blood cell count.

Today, antibiotics are effective in destroying the infecting organism. Prompt treatment is important, and I fortunately got that because my recovery was complete. Apparently, my leg bone growth had stopped by the time I had it and so there was no interference with that. Because the infection is spread by way of the bloodstream it can develop into a nasty problem and can cause permanent crippling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has been dependent on a nasal spray for approximately seven years since his nose was broken while in high school. I want to know if there is any way to get him off the spray and still give him relief he needs in order to breath through his nose. He has heard about corrective surgery and that only his nose would be frozen. This frightens him. Also, what effect does the spray have on his lungs? — Mrs. D.R.

The spray you mention is an over-the-counter preparation he probably purchased without knowing what his problem really was: a deviated (bent) septum from the injury. That can lead to polyps (growths) in the nasal area and all sorts of nasal sinus problems. The spray is temporarily effective, but usually leads to a worse situation in the end. However, the lungs aren't usually affected by it.

Don't let your husband be frightened by ghost stories about his surgery. True, it is often done with local anesthetic, but believe me, he is not going to be lying in agony while the surgery is being performed. Local anesthetics used are quite effective and are preferred over general anesthetics whenever possible. Your husband will also be given other sedative drugs to remove any anxieties he may have at the time.

He needs his surgery. Be sure he gets it. Then all his nasal problems should be over.

Presley's coffin is carried to mausoleum

Roses cover coffin at Presley funeral

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The rose-covered coffin of Elvis Presley was laid to rest in a grey mausoleum shaded by magnolias Thursday after thousands of moaning, screaming and fainting fans said farewell to the king of rock 'n' roll.

"He's gone, he's gone," sobbed a woman in the crowd of 6,000 that watched 10 white Cadillacs lead Presley's 49-car funeral procession out the wrought iron gates of Graceland Mansion.

A barefoot woman, her blonde hair matted with sweat, fell to the pavement clutching a stuffed dog, moaning "Oh, Elvis, oh, Elvis." Rescue workers rushed her away.

"We love you, Elvis," screamed a woman. Hundreds burst into tears as they raced for their cars to follow the procession, which rolled down Elvis Presley Boulevard at about 20 miles an hour.

Ann Margaret, Bob Hope, Burt Reynolds, John Wayne, Chet Atkins, Charlie Pride and George Hamilton were among the 150 invited, according to a family spokesman.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her daughter Caroline went to the mansion Wednesday night to pay their respects, said Frank Esposito, brother of Presley's road manager, but did not stay for the private funeral.

Crowds four-deep lined the two-mile route from the mansion to Forest Hills cemetery. There, with crowds ringing the gates nearly a mile away, about 200 mourners filed into the marble mausoleum for a final private ceremony.

Ten minutes later, they filed out again, most of them pale but composed. Several women carried single, long-stemmed roses from the blanket that covered the copper coffin.

Presley's father, Vernon, did not emerge with the other mourners. The singer's physician, who spent nearly an hour trying to bring him back to life Tuesday, rushed back into the mausoleum.

Vernon, aided by two men and followed by the doctor, emerged five minutes later. It was understood he had remained behind to witness the placing of the coffin into the crypt.

The mausoleum, shaded by magnolias and dogwoods, stands 300 yards from the grave of Presley's mother.

The tears that poured forth when Presley died Tuesday of a heart attack, at 42, gave way to a carnival atmosphere Thursday and hucksters were out peddling their wares.

Elvis Presley tee-shirts and other mementoes were on sale. An ice cream man worked the crowd and several youths who cornered a large supply of the Wednesday edition of local newspapers — given over in large part to Presley's death — were selling them for $5 apiece.

Death haunts fans

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A hit and run driver, who police said was drunk and "made no effort to stop," plowed into a crowd of mourning fans outside Elvis Presley's mansion Thursday, killing two teenage girls and critically injuring a third.

About 2,000 persons were maintaining an all-night vigil outside Graceland Mansion, awaiting the burial of the rock n' roll star who died Tuesday, when a car suddenly swerved into the crowd.

Police stopped the car after a block-long chase and arrested the driver, Treatsie Wheeler, 18, Memphis, and three teenage girls riding with him. Wheeler faced a hearing on multiple counts, including two of murder.

"I don't think he tried to stop. One witness told me he made no effort to stop," said Police Captain W. W. Marlar.

"Lynch 'em! Hang him up!" the crowd screamed as the four occupants of the hit-run car were taken to jail.

Wheeler was charged with two counts of second degree murder, drunk driving, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident and public drunkenness.

His three companions were originally charged as accessories to second degree murder but the charges were later dropped to violation of the city's midnight curfew for youngsters 17 and under.

Policeman F. M. McCann said he heard the sound of tires screeching and turned in time to see the car slam into the crowd.

"One of the bodies flew up in the air about five feet and landed on the windshield. A second was plastered against the front of the car. The third was being dragged under the car. He dragged her about 20 yards," McCann said.

The three victims were talking with a policeman W. C. Greenwood at the time. Greenwood jumped out of the way and was not injured.

"He was coming right at me," Greenwood said. "I flashed my flashlight up and down in his face as a signal for him to stop, but he kept coming. At the last minute I threw my flashlight at the windshield and jumped. He just missed me by inches. I could see the bodies of the girls flying around."

French club offers French wine

A bottle of French wine is the prize in a contest for designing a logo for a Victoria club committee to the study and practice of French.

L'Alliance Francaise de Victoria sponsors two meetings monthly (except during the summer) at which members are encouraged to listen to lectures, watch films, and practise their French on other members.

The club wants a logo to help advertise its offerings, and would be particularly keen on something that incorporated its initials publicity chairman Brenda Cunningham said.

Drawings or sketches can be submitted before Sept 15 to the club at Box 5006, Station B, Victoria, V8R 6N3.

M. V. Chesnut's Garden Notes

The garden chores at this time of the year boil down to a comfortable and not too strenuous routine of watering, weeding and snipping off the spent blooms of the flowers. And of these, probably the most important is the watering.

Proper irrigation is always the number one chore in August,, and the correct techniques of watering are not too well understood by the average backyard gardener.

It isn't easy to set down in black and white any hard and fast rules — you have to play it by ear to some extent — but it should always be remembered that all plants are not alike in their moisture requirements.

Just as we try to give each plant the type of soil it prefers and the correct degree of sunshine or shade, so should we try to cater to its likes and dislikes in the matter of watering.

Certain plants require more water than others. Some need a constant and never-ending supply of soil moisture. Azaleas, rhododendrons, ferns, tuberous begonias, raspberries and tomatoes are good examples of plants which should never be allowed to become really thirsty. By the same token, though, they will not tolerate really soggy situations.

Then there are plants which prefer copious, deep watering with a rather long interval between applications of water.

The lawn is a good example here, as frequent shallow waterings such as a fern would enjoy, would train the grass roots to remain close to the surface, awaiting their daily driblets of water. This can lead to disaster when you go off on holidays or when watering restrictions are enforced.

Roses, too, prefer to become just a little dry between waterings so air can enter the soil. Besides, frequent overhead sprinkling tends to create conditions favorable to the development of fungus diseases on the foliage.

Coniferous evergreen trees, on the other hand, don't need or want a great deal of water at the roots, but benefit greatly from having their foliage freshened up frequently with a forceful jet from the hose.

Many of our herbaceous perennial flowers put on their best performance when given deep but infrequent waterings.

Another class of plants requires a very deep and thorough flooding, with dry intervals of four to six weeks. Nearly all our fruit trees fall into this category, and most of our well-established shrubs and ornamental trees.

With all trees, remember that the place to apply water is in the "drip" area, away out under the branch tips, not close up to the trunk. Nature places the active, moisture-seeking roots in the area where rain can reach them rather than in the dry and sheltered position under the canopy of foliage.

A few of our ornamental shrubs, native to the drier parts of California, shouldn't be watered at all. Ceanothus and Freemontia are examples of those which should be left to the vagaries of the weather.

Still another class revels in almost constant mist and will respond enthusiastically to daily or even twice daily sprayings with a fine mist of plain water. Fuchsias and ferns love this treatment, and all recently-planted shrubs and small trees will establish themselves much more rapidly under this treatment.

Probably the most common error in watering lies in the treatment of houseplants. Only too often this is a routine affair, with the lady of the house rising from the breakfast table to fill up her teapot and make the rounds, giving each plant a drink whether it needs it or not.

Make your daily rounds, by all means, but feel the soil in each pot before giving water, and wait until it is definitely dry to the touch before watering. Then give enough to moisten the soil throughout, until water starts coming out the drainage hole in the bottom of the pot.

But go back within the hour and empty this drainage water from the saucer under the pot, otherwise the bottom soil will become sodden, stagnant and sour, and the platn roots will start to rot.

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — "Hey, lungs. Have you heard the good news?"

"Cough, cough. What's that?"

"Congress has given the automobile companies two more years before they have to abide by the 1970 Clear Air Act."

"Oh boy. Cough, cough, I was afraid of that."

"It was really touch and go because the auto companies said they'd have to close down if they didn't get the extension. They said it was unfair for the government to expect them to lower their emissions in just eight years."

"Cough, cough. What you're really saying — cough, cough — is they were buying some breathing time."

"That's well put, lungs."

"I'm not sure I can survive another two years of this gook."

"Sure, you can. Your lungs have proven you can breathe in anything. What's another two years in your life compared to saving the American automobile industry? Can you imagine this country without new cars?"

"Now don't get sarcastic. It isn't as if the automobile companies haven't been trying to develop a clean engine. But they have a lot of problems. They have to think of cost and weight and profits and retooling. Don't you have any feelings for the industry at all?"

"Well, I do have a tightness in my chest. Cough, cough. Maybe instead of passing a Clean Air Act Congress should have passed a Clean Lung Act. They could have made it a law that everyone in this country had to have stronger lungs by 1978. It would have been simpler."

"Cough and complain. That's all you ever do. You think you can have a first-class transportation system and not pay for it. If it weren't for you lungs, the automobile industry could make a first-class vehicle for $1,000 less — one that would get better gas mileage, give better performance and reap higher profits."

"Cough, cough. You're making me feel bad."

"Well, you better accept the compromise and get used to it. For the next two years you're not going to get any relief."

"I hope I can last that long. What happens in two years?"

"The automobile companies will either come up with a car that can meet the clean air standards or their lobbyists will work for another extension."

"That's nice. What happened to the clean air lobbyists?"

"They don't have the clout with Congress that the automobile lobbyists do. A lot of jobs are at stake when it comes to clean air, and you have to have trade-offs if you want to keep the economy going. When it came to making 1978 models or protecting people's lungs Congress had no choice but go with the 1978 cars. Surely, you can understand that."

"Cough, cough. I'd like to but if you were a human lung you'd know it isn't easy. It's not just the cars, but we have to breathe factory pollutants, stuff coming out of smokestacks, the chemical dust blowing across the town. We can only take so much. Cough, cough."

"Well, if it wasn't safe, Congress would never have agreed to the compromise. Besides, they know what's better for the country. That's why the people elected them."

"I guess you're right. We lungs are always thinking of ourselves. It's just that we feel so lousy all the time we never take industry into consideration."

"The thing to do is adjust to the environment. You can't change it, so go along with it. Breathe in the emissions and enjoy them. After all, you only live once."

"Cough, cough. I'm sorry I got so upset. If you don't mind I'll lie down and rest. I don't feel so good."

"What about a game of tennis? That could make you feel better."

"No, I think I'll pass. Cough, cough. Why don't you play without me?"

Stuart Rosenberg

What is a lie? When is a lie not a lie?

A lie is the offering by word or action of that which is not true, with the purpose of deceiving or concealing.

Moralists have long discussed these questions from an ethical viewpoint, alone. But the new science of psychology points to the conclusion that the problem runs down to deeper levels. For, often, men are not really trying to deceive anybody. Unconsciously, they may be fooling only themselves.

If a person who is color blind calls blue green and green blue, we can understand his problem. But if a man sharply dislikes the color green and buys a green suit which borders on blue — he may "lie" to himself, that is, after all, blue. Unwilling to admit that he did what he didn't want to do — he defends his act by self-deception. this kind of behaviour is particularly prevalent among children — and adults who behave like children. The habitual liar is not always the result of hazy or ill-founded notions of morality; he may actually consider himself to be an ethical person. Like a child, his imagination may be playing tricks on him, leading him to live in an unreal world where all his "lies" are really "true". They are true because he fancifully deludes himself to believe that they are.

A little boy, long-itching for a fight with his friend, was walking along with him, on the way home from Sunday school. His teacher had just presented a most vivid description of divine omniscience and heavenly omnipotence. The boy's fervor had been aroused. He nonchalantly punched his small friend squarely on the nose. "Why did you do that?" the aggrieved one cried. "Oh," the tiny battler quickly responded, "I didn't do it because I wanted to. God told me to do it — and I did it!"

Pulling a dog's tail or tearing petals from flower bushes reflect no discernment between the animate and the inanimate worlds on the part of the tot. In the unsophisticated universe of small children, the real and the unreal are often made identical. And so it is with some grown-ups. They live lies, earnestly believing that they are truths. They need the help of psychological insight — not the preacher's proverbs and precepts. They are not unworthy, unethical, unreliable, malicious or malevolent. They are stunted and they must be helped to grow up.

Which is to teach: Some of the "sins" we lay at the door of man's heart are not sins at all. Men are no angels, but neither must they be made out to be beasts. Sick men, immature men, untutored men need to be ministered to by those who can help them get well and grow; they should not merely be preached at. For, bad psychology does not beget a good theology.

When a man deliberately, consciously and repeatedly, distorts truth by deviousness or concealment, something has surely gone wrong with his ethical and religious standards. But when he is victimized by his own self-deceptions, he needs help to learn how to come to terms with his psyhic quirks.

Ultimately, of course, he should be made to realize that a wholesome man cannot function without a sincere concern for truth — outside of himself. To thine own self be true. Yes! But this is only half the truth. Be no other than true to all other men.

Thus, good religionists need to be good psychologists. And good psychologists, if they are to be more than mere technicians, must also seek to understand the truths that goes beyond the inner man and into the world beyond him.

THE ACES® ON BRIDGE
by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

"Love your enemies. It makes them so darned mad." P.D. East.

If East took the ace, declarer would score four easy club tricks, so East quite properly ducked.

Declarer won with his club jack but instead of continuing with clubs, he now switched back to diamonds. East took his king and knocked out declarer's last spade, but declarer had escaped with his game and rubber. Four diamonds, one club and four major suit winners totalled nine tricks and

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

No. 207 — 119th Year — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1977 —  — 15c Daily, 30c Sunday

Port renewal likely in wake of blaze

Chances that the fire-ravaged Ogden Point dock may be back in full operation this year improved greatly Thursday.

Hershell Smith, president of Westcan Terminals, proposed that his firm rebuild the warehouse destroyed by fire Aug. 8, and eventually turn it over to whatever body assumes control of the harbor facilities.

Smith aired his proposal at a meeting with provincial and federal officials, city representatives and other shipping industry officials in the office of Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf.

Smith suggested that his company finance the construction of a new warehouse, estimated at $2 million.

He said revenue from the facilities would more than cover the cost of servicing the loan debt, arising from construction of the warehouse.

Until it has been sorted out whether the federal government will retain ownership of the dock, or the provincial government takes it over, or a harbor commission assumes control, Westcan would act as interim caretaker-owner.

Victoria Ald. Frank Carson, who attended the meeting, said federal representatives had promised to give the warehouse proposal serious consideration and answer within 30 days.

"The important and gratifying thing was that nobody opposed the plan," said Carson, chairman of city council's economic development committee.

Bawlf said after the meeting: "We should know within two weeks just where we are going and how far. The federal government is interested in some of the financing and the B.C. Development Corporation has offered all the assistance it can."

Bawlf said it would cost about $2 million to reconstruct the warehouse and to improve cruise ship facilities and another $1 million for general improvements.

A key to the redevelopment and reconstruction plans is demolition of the Ogden Point grain elevator, long a landmark but no longer used to store grain.

"That demolition alone will require a fairly heavy outlay of funds," Bawlf said.

While declining to call the fire a blessing in disguise the minister said "there's little doubt that the phase-out and the fire give us a great opportunity to do something."

Bawlf said although the federal and provincial governments were standing by to assist financially "this port handles more cargo and shipping than Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert combined. It is capable of redevelopment on its own income."

The minister said he hoped to see preliminary work underway at the docks within weeks and the shipping of pulp and paper back in full swing by next spring.

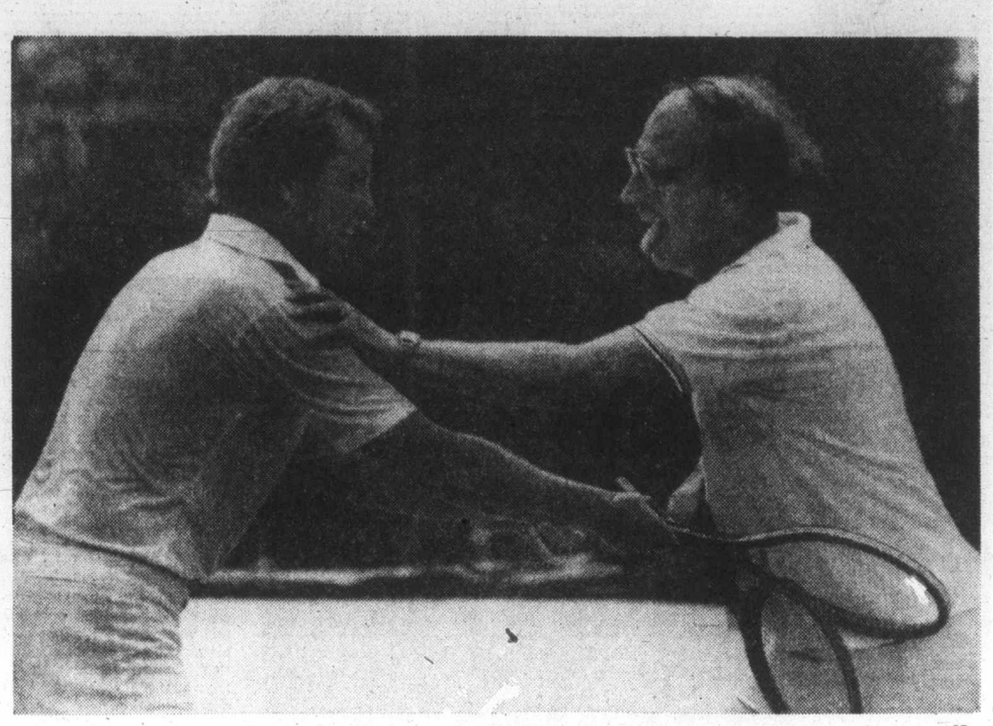

Also being considered for Ogden Point is a berth for the Black Ball ferry Coho.

"Of all the points discussed and proposals made, that one is the least sure," Bawlf said. "But it is part of the over-all plan." He noted that the quicker turnaround of the ferry at Ogden Point would enable an extra run each day.

"The very slow speeds demanded when the vessel is in the Inner Harbor add about half an hour to each round trip," Bawlf said. "Turning around at Ogden Point would make it possible, if Black Ball wanted to, to squeeze in an extra round trip."

Whether Black Ball goes to Ogden Point or not, it will eventually move from its Inner Harbor spot as part of plans to beautify the Inner Harbor.

At a meeting last week, Smith said he would make sure that lumber shipments continued to go out of Victoria, but there could be no pulp shipping until a new warehouse was built.

Language plan abhorrent—Blakeney

● Premiers want tax cut to ease unemployment

Colonist News Services

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. — Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney Thursday rejected as "abhorrent" Quebec's proposal for reciprocal provincial agreements that would still force some Canadians arriving in Quebec from other provinces into French schools.

"We're being very flexible but we will not retrench from the basic philosophies of Bill 101," Quebec Premier Rene Levesque told the other nine premiers at the opening of their two-day conference here.

Blakeney told reporters "the Quebec government proposes that the children of English-speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec should have rights different from the children of non-English speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec.

"Quebec's idea that a Canadian has different educational rights depending on whether his parents spoke Ukrainian, German, English or French, is unacceptable," he said.

"The Quebec proposition . . . is abhorrent to Canadians, particularly those of Western Canada."

When the 10 premiers emerged from a private afternoon session, the Parti Quebecois leader said he and Blakeney had "a lively exchange."

Levesque offered assistance, in the form of teachers and teaching material, to provinces which agreed to provide French education for people from Quebec in exchange for English education being made available to their residents moving into Quebec.

Under Bill 101 — which is expected to be passed into law before the next school year begins in September — only children with a parent who attended English schools, or who had brothers or sisters already in English schools, would be allowed to enter Quebec's English school system.

"When a lot of people talk about a freedom of choice . . . they are talking from the basis of a 240 million continental majority," Levesque said. "Well, we have to retrench from free choice,

Rene, spare that plaque

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (UPI) — When the turn came for Quebec Premier Rene Levesque to place a ceremonial shovelful of soil during an official tree-planting ceremony Thursday, the separatist leader first stopped to read the plaque.

Leaning on the shovel, Levesque read the tree was being planted "to mark the silver jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II."

As he stooped to fill his shovel with earth, Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores shouted out, "the tree, not the plaque, Rene."

Humphrey

Humphrey cancer 'terminal'

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A team of surgeons discovered "terminal cancer" in Senator Hubert Humphrey Thursday, but said he could still return to the U.S. Senate and may live for years with the help of chemotherapy.

Dr. John Najarian, who led the four-man surgical team that operated for more than three hours on the former vice-president, said the physicians could not remove the cancerous tumor attached to a pelvic bone.

"It is terminal cancer if you accept the fact that we cannot remove it surgically," Najarian told a news conference.

The 66-year-old "Happy Warrior" of the Democratic party underwent surgery at the University of Minnesota Hospital because of an obstruction blocking the lower colon and causing pain for the past six months.

"He has cancer and it has been treated by chemotherapy in the past and will be in the future," Najarian said. "But chemotherapy is only successful in slowing the growth. It cannot eradicate it."

Najarian said Humphrey, who had a cancerous bladder removed in New York last October, would probably be able to take chemotherapy for "four, five, maybe six years."

Pollen to challenge Munro for Tory nod

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

Former Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen came out of political retirement Thursday, announcing his candidacy for the Progressive Conservative nomination in the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich.

The seat is held by Conservative MP Donald Munro who has stated he would again seek the nomination.

Pollen, who stepped down as mayor of Victoria after two terms nearly two years ago, gave in an interview several reasons for his decision.

"I've been approached by a group in Esquimalt-Saanich who asked me to seek the nomination," Pollen said.

"I also would like to help work on an alternative to the Liberal government under Trudeau, the magician," he added.

Pollen
. . .back into fray

Unless an alternative was found, Pollen said, Canada would slide deeper into "a one-party system, which would be a tragedy."

Pollen said he was also asked to run for the Liberals but declined.

"Any party that is morally as bankrupt as to ask a man to represent the mwho's spent more than a year criticizing them must be opposed," he said.

Asked how tough it would be to gain the nomination, Pollen said he didn't know, adding that Munro had a "core of Colonel Blimps" supporting him.

"But how strong that support is, I can't say," he added.

Pollen said Munro was "a fine, honorable fellow" and he wasn't really opposing him.

"But I think I have something else to offer, not only to the constituency but to the party," he said.

"I have considerable municipal experience; I've met urban leaders through the country; I also run a reasonably successful business with more than 100 employees," he said.

"Anyone but a fool can see that the Conservative party needs all the help it can get."

The nominating meeting has been set for Sept. 10.

Munro wasn't available for comment, but his fellow Tory, Alan McKinnon, MP for Victoria, said Pollen's decision was "interesting."

McKinnon said he wouldn't take part in the contest in any way.

"I had no problems with the incumbent and I get along with Pollen very well," he said.

"People are fortunate to have candidates come forth and offer them a choice. That's what democracy is all about," McKinnon said.

Yukon 'will lose' if pipeline delayed

WHITEHORSE (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau fears a seven-to 10-year delay in the Alaska highway natural gas pipeline project could mean there would be no pipeline in the Yukon at all.

Trudeau made the comment at a news conference Wednesday after discussing the pipeline in a meeting with representatives of Yukon native Indians.

The Council for Yukon Indians has called for a seven-year moratorium on pipeline construction to enable native land claims to be settled.

Trudeau said, however, that the U.S. would not accept a seven-year delay and instead would choose the all-Alaska El Paso route for its natural gas.

"If there is no pipeline built in the southern Yukon in the reasonably near future obviously the American gas will go the other route, the El Paso route, and if ever Canadian gas is brought on stream it won't be through (the Yukon)," he said.

At the same time, Trudeau said, Canada wouldn't accept the pipeline at any cost.

"We don't want it at any price," he said. "If there are no significant benefits to Canada, we won't have a pipeline."

Canadians escort seized freighter

Colonist News Services

A Panamanian-registered freighter with two armed Hong Kong crew members locked in the captain's cabin was on her way to the Aleutian Island port of Kodiak early today after assistance from the Canadian weathership Quadra.

The incident, involving two crewmen who were injured, happened within three hours travelling time of Quadra's station 700 miles west in the Pacific.

Quadra reached the freighter Primrose, put two medical attendants aboard, and escorted the freighter part way to Kodiak.

After turning over charts and pilot books to the Primrose and leaving her in U.S. coast guard hands, Quadra returned to her station, a Rescue Centre spokesman at Victoria said Thursday night.

A U.S. coast guard spokesman said details were sketchy, and more was not expected to be known until the freighter docks at Kodiak Saturday.

Loaded down with a cargo of logs from Aberdeen, Wash., the freighter was steaming toward Japan in international waters about 400 miles south of Kodiak when the master radioed the coast guard with a plea for help.

"Regret crew serious trouble; with weapons; out of control; please assist," said the cryptic corse code message paraphrased by a coast guard radio operator.

An aircraft was dispatched to confirm the ship's position, but nothing further was heard from the vessel until four hours later when the captain broadcast another terse message.

"Two injured men on board; two injured men with guns and knives locked in cabin; request medical attention for injured and evacuation of two prisoners," said the second Morse code signal.

The nearest vessel to the Primrose was the weathership, which arrived early Thursday morning.

The Quadra's captain reported that the injured men did not need to be evacuted.

The U.S. coast guard first used the word mutiny in describing the incident, but later backed away from the term.

"We just don't have enough facts and it's rather complicated," the coast guard spokesman said. "First, they call to say they've got a serious problem. Then they call back four hours later and say something else.

"In addition we've got a Panamanian ship on the high seas. It's got an all Chinese crew. It's involved with the Canadians. And it's coming into one of our ports."

Junk food taxes Wallace

Scott Wallace (PC—Oak Bay) wants the seven per cent sales tax slapped on junk food, or removed from non-prescription medications.

Wallace asked Minister of Finance Evan Wolfe Thursday in the Legislature why there was no sales tax on candy or soft drinks while the full seven per cent tax was paid on medications often required by elderly people.

Wolfe said he would take a look at the problem if Wallace would place the complaint in writing. "The whole matter of sales tax exemptions is under constant review," Wolfe said.

Jerry's jalopies in hot demand

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Jerry Elam's 35 used cars aren't for sale any more, but never have they been in such demand.

Elan owns 1 per cent of Jerry's Rent-a-Jalopy, a name his wife suggested because Jerry's Rent-a-Clean and-Reliable-but-not-Necessarily-New-or-Glamorous-Used-Car was accurate but impractical.

Elam's jalopies are not heaps, but he does keep a mechanic on call 24 hours a day.

"Our rental cars are both nostalgic and practical," he said. "The price of new rental cars has gone up just like the price of new cars. That's the theory we had when we started this thing."

The business started in March after Elam's retirement at age 35 on medical disability as an air traffic controller for the Federal Aviation Administration, a job where he said no one ever takes a normal retirement.

He went into the used car business first and observed the same cars sitting on his lot day after day and wondered why they could not be put to better use.

"I thought I'd open an antique car lot but it fizzled," he said. "This is what prompted us to open the used car lot. But I thought there's got to be a way these cars can make money besides waiting for someone to come along and buy them."

The way proved to offer reliable older cars at rental prices considerably less than the national firms.

"Our cars range from a '41 Plymouth coupe to '75 models. That Plymouth we recently purchased from the original owner and believe it or not the gas ration stamps were still in the car when we bought it. It runs like a champ, though. It's the most expensive car we've got, however, $25 per day. Our other prices range from $25 to $65.50 per week.

"The cars are only for rent. The only time we sell a car is if it proves unpopular and our customers don't rent it."

He has renters from "all walks of life and every social and economic status" that there is.

"We've had renters from 21 states and nine foreign countries," he said.

Recent customers included former Texas Governor Preston Smith and the Hagger Brothers, singers from Nashville who appear regularly on the television program Hee-Haw.

Two of his cars, a 1960 Chrysler and a 1959 DeSoto rent for $25 a week, "so cheap they stay out constantly. These two old cars just keep on running and we probably spend less on repair and maintenance on them than any we've got, including the '75s."

Elam doesn't charge for mileage as long as the renter promises to use the car only in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"What we want to get away from is someone using a $25 a week car to drive all over South Texas and the United States which is what some of 'em want to do," he said.

Vancouver reunion

Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair both refused to comment on reports that their daughter Margaret had gone to Vancouver seeking to end the legal separation from her husband that was announced May 27.

"Rumors, rumors," she said, then offered to pose for pictures with Justin, 5, and Michel who will be two in October.

The boys had accompanied the prime minister across the country by train, then flew to Vancouver with Margaret's sister, Janet, as Trudeau continued on to Whitehorse.

Trudeau was also questioned about the reconciliation reports when he arrived at Whitehorse Wednesday, but refused to comment.

"He seemed taken aback by the question," said Whitehorse Star editor Max Fraser. "He had a strong emotional reaction to it."

Trudeau is scheduled to fly the 350-mile route of the Dempster highway between Dawson City, and Inuvik and visit Old Crow, Y.T., on Saturday before returning to Ottawa Sunday.

Toronto controllers continuing protest

TORONTO (CP) — A union leader says air traffic controllers will continue delaying flights at Toronto International Airport until the federal government offers them more money.

Wayne Barry, chairman of the Toronto branch of Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, said the slowdown by the 150 controllers at the international airport would go on indefinitely. He made the statement after a Wednesday meeting with local ministry of transport officials failed to ease the tension.

Flights at Toronto were being delayed 15 to 25 minutes Thursday, said Air Canada spokesman John Cavill. No flights had to be cancelled, he said, but four flights were combined into two.

Flight 666 from Toronto to Saint John, N.B., was combined with flight 668 from Toronto to Moncton to create a new flight 668 running Toronto, Saint John and Moncton.

A CP Air spokesman said no flights were cancelled Thursday.

Barry said the controllers would stop the slowdown only if the government agreed to put their contract to arbitration. "Then let's put it before the Anti-Inflation Board and see who is right on this," he said.

Controllers are angry at being ordered back to work by emergency legislation passed by Parliament last week. The 2,200 controllers had been on national strike for three days.

which we were the only ones to practice, for our English speaking minority for over 100 years.

Earlier, Levesque had told reporters he was flexible about the type of arrangements he would like with each province, but emphasized he would not accept constitutional changes affecting education.

He told reporters he was "ready to be flexible enough as long as it is something concrete and something tangible, and as long as it's not just words written in the constitution — which we won't accept anyway because education is our jurisdiction."

Prime Minister Trudeau has suggested the federal government may have to provide education for linguistic minorities if provincial governments don't.

Quebec Intergovernmental Affairs Minister Claude Morin said there was no hurry for a decision on the Levesque proposal.

"We don't want to force them today to decide yes or no," Morin said. "The differences are so wide and obvious in some instances that they may want to think it over."

Morin said the agreements would have to be with provincial governments.

The model agreement made public later by Levesque set out the requirements for which children woulld be eligible to benefit from reciprocal agreements. Basically, these "designated persons" would have to follow the same criteria as Quebecers wanting to attend English schools.

Other premiers, including Ontario's Bill Davis and New Brunswick's Richard Hatfield also rejected the idea, preferring to see language of schooling as a right rather than a subject of agreements.

Davis repeated Thursday that education guarantees for minorities should be included in the constitution and he said Ontario treats French-speaking Quebecers moving into Ontario no differently than other Canadians moving into the province.

Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores said he would not support the Levesque proposal.

"We are not nations as yet," he said. "This is the sort of agreement you expect between nations."

Reactor flaw flushed out

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The nuclear reactor at the University of Florida has a problem — the cooling system malfunctions when someone flushes the toilet.

"Please don't flush the toilet while the reactor is running," reads the sign on the building's lavatory door.

A spokesman said no safety problem was involved.

The reactor, which uses 7.5 pounds of uranium, has a powerful water-fed cooling system fed by a well for risky experiments. But low-risk experiments run on a secondary cooling system tied in by a city water main to the toilet.

"It's just a pain in the neck," said Edward Carroll, chairman of the nuclear engineering sciences department.

Decision coming soon on dam at Revelstoke

The provincial cabinet committee reviewing the Revelstoke dam project will have its decision soon, Labor Minister Allan Williams said Thursday.

He made the statement in the Legislature in answer to a question from William King (N.D.P.—Revelstoke-Slocan). King had asked when the decision could be expected.

"Soon," Williams replied.

"That answer may be amusing to some government members, but it isn't amusing to businessmen in Revelstoke who want to know whether they should start preparing for a tremendous influx of workers. They are awaiting urgently for the word," King said.

Williams said King's comment was "fair, the matter is urgent, but we (the committee) are determined to take the utmost care because the decision we make will have tremendous ramifications, not just for Revelstoke but for the entire province."

Pipeline

ence Wednesday, Yukon native Indians re-affirmed their opposition to the pipeline without a settlement of land claims.

Daniel Johnson, chairman of the Council for Yukon Indians, said if a seven-year delay would rule out a pipeline, then no pipeline should be built.

"There is a lot at stake for native people to settle land claims properly and to implement (the settlement) properly," he said. "And if it means that there is to be no pipeline built through the Yukon, then I'm afraid we feel that's the conclusion that has to be arrived at."

Johnson said that if pipeline construction went ahead, Yukon Indians would do everything they could to stop or delay the line until land claims had been fairly settled.

Members of the Yukon territorial government, whom Trudeau also met Wednesday, said they were pleased at the prime minister's comments on the pipeline project.

Yukon councillor Walter Lengerke said that 99 per cent of the Yukon government members were in favor of the pipeline.

Meanwhile negotiators for the federal and U.S. governments are basically setting the stage for ministerial talks on a northern pipeline in a series of Ottawa meetings now under way, government sources said Thursday.

Officials from both sides emerged from a nine-hour session Wednesday to say they had had fruitful and productive discussions, but declined to outline what specific positions they had taken.

"They are actually clarifying points of disagreement, not really bargaining the major issues," the government sources said Thursday.

The talks at the officials level are expected to resume in Washington on Tuesday, with the ministers meeting later in the week or early the next week.

Lake Baikal bottoms out

MOSCOW (UPI) — Lake Baikal does too have a bottom and a fairly run-of-the-mill one after all, according to a Communist youth newspaper. The paper reported that a team of scientists in Pisces, a Canadian - built bathyscaphe, reached the floor of the lake, 4,539 feet below the surface.

Sutton equals league record with fifth one-hit effort

Don Sutton came within four outs of his first no-hitter and tied a National League record with his fifth career one-hitter Thursday when the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 7-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Sutton, who had lost his last four decisions, allowed only a two-out single in the eighth inning to catcher Marc Hill to tie Mordecai Brown, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jim Maloney for most career one-hitters in the National League.

Sutton, 11-8, had not won a game since July 4 when he defeated San Francisco and the 12-year veteran was making his eighth start since that victory. He started off by issuing two walks in the first inning but retired the next 21 batters before Hill broke up the no-hitter by lining a clean two-out single to left in the eighth.

"After Hill got his hit in the eighth, I was numb," Sutton said. "This was my fifth one-hitter and I'll remember it for a long time.

"I got behind on Hill in the eighth and decided I was going to try to make him hit my breaking ball. I threw him a slider that didn't break and he hit it fair and square into left field.

Sutton was given strong defensive support in the fifth when Dave Lopes ranged far to his right to field Terry Whitfield's hard grounder and Reggie Smith made a running catch of Hill's liner. In the eighth, third baseman Teddy Martinez went into the Dodger dugout to catch Whitfield's foul pop before Hill's hit.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the second inning on Lopes' 10th homer, with Steve Yeager aboard on a single and Sutton on base after a walk. Smith led off the third with his 22nd home run of the season and the Dodgers scored their fifth run in the fourth to chase losing pitcher Jim Barr, 11-10, on Dusty Baker's triple and Sutton's squeeze bunt single.

Sutton walked four and struck out seven in boosting his record to 11-7.

The victory moves the leaders 12 games ahead of the idle Cincinnati Reds in the Western Division.

In another National League game, Richie Hebner hit the first grand slam home run of his career, powering Philadelphia Phillies and Jim Lonborg to an 8-3 victory over Montreal Expos.

Lonborg, 8-3, pitched a five-hitter for his third complete game.

Phil Garner tagged a two-run homer and Al Oliver, Dave Parker and Bill Robinson contributed solo clouts as Pittsburgh Pirates edged Chicago Cubs 7-6.

The win enabled the Pirates to keep pace with the Eastern Division leading Phillies, four and one-half games ahead. Chicago is in third place, seven games back of Philadelphia.

In the American League, Texas Rangers clung to their slim lead in the Western Division with an 8-0 victory over Toronto Blue Jays.

Dock Ellis tossed a three-hitter and Toby Harrah and Bump Wills each hit homers as Texas scored at least one run in each of the first five innings.

Mickey Rivers scored the winning run on Lou Piniella's single in the seventh inning, as New York Yankees nipped Detroit Tigers 5-4. Catfish Hunter, 8-7, gained the win.

Western contenders Minnesota Twins and Kansas City Royals remained close to the top, each registering victories. The Twins came up with a four-run first inning to chase Seattle Mariners 8-2 and Dennis Leonard hurled a four-hitter as Kansas City blanked Cleveland Indians 4-0.

Meanwhile, Eastern Division leaders Boston Red Sox gained their 17th victory in 19 games, overcoming Milwaukee Brewers 8-4 as George Scott drilled four hits. Scott slammed a pair of two-run singles and scored twice as Ferguson Jenkins picked up his 10th win against seven losses.

Cowboys blame fans for lack of support

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Cowboys of the World Hockey Association have folded because of laick of sufficient support, club directors said Thursday.

The directors said at a news conference that the franchise should be disbanded because of what they called poor support by hockey fans in the Alberta city.

The other factor in the decision is the Calgary Corral, built in the early 1950s, seats about 6,500 fans and is considered too small for a professional hockey arena by today's standards.

"With no major league merger in sight and the lack of a definitive building commitment, the directors have concluded that the franchise is not economically viable," president Bill Hay and team owner Jim Pattison said in a joint statement.

They said refunds would be mailed today to season ticket holders.

Pattison, who operated WHA franchises for two years in both Calgary and Vancouver, also noted the lack of accommodation of WHA teams by the National Hockey League in explaining the decision to fold the Cowboys.

He said the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Board, owners of the Corral, have not announced any plans for a new building.

Following a successful season in 1975-76 — the Cowboys first season after arriving from Vancouver — season tickets sales dropped 600 last year from 2,900 in 1975-76.

At the end of the 1976-77 season, Pattison said, 4,400 season tickets would have to be sold if the team remained in Calgary. To date, 2,226 tickets had been sold.

Thursday's announcement means Calgary is without a professional hockey team for the second time in 15 years.

Calgary Stampeders of the old Western Hockey League, folded in the early 1960s.

The Cowboys had hoped to have an NHL franchise within two to three years, with the hopes that a new arena could be built in that time, directors said. The NHL has stipulated that the arenas would have to seat at least 12,000 persons.

Dolphins aim to break lengthy losing string

By TOM KEYSER

But it's not the weather that's bothering the Junior Big Four football team. Dolphins are suffering through another kind of drought.

They haven't won a league game in three seasons. But this may be the year Dolphins taste the cool waters of victory again.

"That's our goal this season," says the man who returned to lead Dolphins last year after a three-year absence.

"I think the playoffs are definitely within reach, based on our performance in the first two games this year."

Dolphins opened their season with a 17-14 loss to Surrey Rams at Empire Stadium, then fell to Vancouver Blue Bombers 18-6. Victoria opens its home schedule Sunday against Renfrew Trojans at Royal Athletic Park. Game time is 2 p.m.

"We've had trouble competing with mainland teams, no question," said Hindle this week. "But I think this year's team could be the one to get us out of the habit of losing.

Much of the enthusiasm comes from the rookies who make up a sizeable portion of the 40-man roster. Hindle has 12 players returning but the team's average age is about 19.

Seven first-year men are listed on the starting offensive team alone, including quarterback Mark Townsend, who played juvenile football in Victoria last year.

"Our problem has been that a lot of our players come to us with no real experience. For many, junior is the first organized football they've played.

"I guess this just isn't a good football town. There's no high school program and the minor system is kind of fractured."

So why the unguarded optimism? The defence, mainly, plus a few individuals who could brighten the team's chances.

The defence even boasts the club's leading scorer. Tackle Tod Peterson enjoys the unlikely distinction, with three touchdowns, two gained on recovered fumbles and the other on a blocked kick.

All in vain, though. Time ran out before Dolphins' next play.

Offensively, Townsend is the apple of Hindle's eye, a roll-out, scrambling quarterback who has "come a long way" as a passer.

Iggy Kadar rates as the club's steadiest ground-gainer at fullback, while John Buxcey, a "Mack Herron - Ron Stewart type" at 5'6", 180-pounds, figures to provide a few thrills.

"Buxcey is a human dynamo, the best all-around running back we have," enthused Hindle. "We don't have a real breakaway-type runner though, since a few of our boys are touring with the James Bay rugby team."

And Dolphins' chances against Trojans, second-place finishers last season with an 8-2 mark?

"Off our first two games, we can win it," said Hindle.

"Our last game we fumbled four times. We should be 1-1 right now.

"With a few breaks, we could be 2-0."

Hobby-stocks here Saturday

Miller moving up

The Victoria driver moved into fifth place last weekend by setting a track record, winning the main event and finishing third in the fast heat in the program at Oyster River.

The hobby-stocks return to Victoria on Saturday with time trials starting at 7 p.m. at Western Speedway.

Miller would need incredible luck to catch points leader John Robillard of Campbell River with only two races remaining but he is in easy range of second-place George Shillito of Victoria.

Robillard leads Shillito by 360 points but there is only 130 points separating the next four drivers with Shillito having 766 and Miller 636.

Ken Alexander of Duncan is third with 714 points and Sam Carnie of Black Creek is fourth with 655. The final program is Sept. 24 at Western.

The super-stock series has five races remaining including a program Saturday at Oyster River with time trials starting at 7 p.m.

The program is the last of the season at Oyster River. The remaining super-stock features are Aug. 27, Sept. 3 and Sept. 24 at Western and Sept. 17 at Nanaimo.

AUTO PARTS — Western Speedway is spicing up Saturday night's program with a mini-demolition derby, consisting of cat and mouse races, backwards trophy dashes and heat races where drivers must crash to pass . . . Jim Matthews of Victoria won the second annual Billy Foster Memorial go-kart race Sunday at Western. Matthews, who also had fast time of 18:85, was presented the Royal Bank Trophy for winning the Capital City Go-Kart Club sponsored event. Jim Gilbert of Victoria was second, Dennis Kitts of Puyallup, Wash. finished third, Mark Jones of Gresham, Ore. finished fourth followed by Dale Taylor, Woodey Wellwood and Dave Dalby, all of Victoria, Lawrence Musil of Seattle, Ron Crocker of Victoria and Mike Jones of Gresham.

Hansen leads Canada to opening victory

SOFIA, Bulgaria (CP) — The Canadian men's basketball team got solid performances Thursday from three players left from the 1976 Olympic team in a 71-43 triumph over Greece in the first round of the World Student Games.

Centre Lars Hansen of Coquitlam, a student at University of Washington, paced the Canadians with 24 points and 13 rebounds while Jamie Russell of Niagara Falls, Ont., had 13 points and Mike Visser of Sudbury, Ont., contributed eight.

Riley had a series of turnovers but helped the Canadians through their few tough moments with some tenacious defensive play and good ballhandling.

A crowd of about 2,000 booed the Canadian girls throughout the first half and Canada managed a 36-35 tie at the intermission.

Both men's and women's volleyball teams lost in first-round matches.

In women's basketball, Sylvia Sweeney of Montreal paced Canada with 18 points and veteran guard Liz Silcott of Montreal contributed 13.

A letdown early in the second half proved Canada's undoing, but coach Don McCrae of University of Waterloo said he was content with the performance.

"We took some bad shots when things were not going well in the second quarter. But Bulgaria is a strong team," he said. "This country was third in Olympics in women's basektball."

Whalley in final

SURREY (CP) — A grand-slam home run by Glen Engevik in the first inning set Whalley on its way to a 5-3 win Thursday over Windsor, Ont., at the Canadian Little League baseball championships.

The win advances host Whalley to the final round today of the double-knockout tournament against undefeated Lethbridge, Whalley, which has lost once, would have to defeat the Alberta team twice to win the championship.

Engevik came to bat after two singles and a walk had loaded the bases, and cracked a shot over the right-field wall to give Whalley a four-run lead.

Windsor meets Trail in today's consolation final. Trail, last year's Canadian champions, won the B.C. championship for the second time this year but was eliminated earlier this week. Whalley got a berth as host team.

Ferguson co-favored in B.C. Open

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Open, final stop on the 1977 Canadian professional golf tour, begins today at Marine Drive Golf Club, with three B.C. golfers favored to capture the $4,000 first prize.

The three, Dave Barr of Kelowna, Cec Ferguson of Victoria and Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver, will get an early indication of each other's prowess on the 6,078-yard, par-71 layout as they tee off together today in the first round of the 54-hole tournament.

Barr, who is having his best year on the Candaina tour with $12,342 in earnings, says the $20,000 B.C. Open is one of the more important stops on the tour.

Barr has won two tour tournaments this year, including last week's Alberta Open at Calgary where he finished one shot ahead of Greg Pidalski of Toronto. Barr also won the Quebec Open in June.

Ferguson, the defending B.C. Open champion, won as an amateur last year and turned pro during the winter. He has finished second and eighth on the last two tour stops.

Roxburgh, an amateur, plays out of the Marine Drive course and host pro Vince Baker says he feels Roxburgh has a chance for a good finish because he "knows the course like the back of his hand."

Baker said some of the long-hitting pros could have some trouble with the narrow Marine Drive layout because it demands accuracy.

A total of 138 golfers, including 96 professionals will tee off today. The field will be cut to the low 60 and ties for the final round Sunday.

Mike Reasor, of Seattle, who plays the United States golf tour part time, led the non-exempt qualifiers Tuesday, shooting a six-under par 65.

The tournament will also feature two father-son combinations.

Vancouver professional Brian Christie fired a 72 in qualifying to join his sons Brian and Blair, both amateurs.

The other father-son team will include Keith Westover, 15, who shot a 72 Tuesday to become the youngest player in a B.C. Open. His father, Jack, a professional from Vancouver, qualified with a 68.

Grundison helps B.C. to swimming gold

Grundison
. . . third medal

Peter Szmidt of Pointe Claire got a quick start in the 400-metre freestyle and held off Darrell Dea, 17, of Regina to win in 4:05.09. Szmidt had previously won the 100 and 200 freestyle races and was a member of Quebec's winning team in the 200 freestyle relay.

Johanna Malloy, 15, of Thunder Bay, Ont., also brought her gold medal count to four as a member of Ontario's victorious team in the women's 400 freestyle relay. The winning time was 3:59.62.

British Columbia claimed the gold medal in the men's 400 freestyle relay with a 3:37.90 clocking, narrowly ahead of Ontario's 3:39.21. Alberta won the bronze in 3:40.70. Members of the winning team were Brad Smith, 17, of Kelowna; Mike Price, 17, of Port Moody; Stu Ballantyne, 16, of Burnaby, and Rob Grundison, 19, of Victoria.

Grundison's medal was his third of the Games. Wednesday, he won the bronze in the 400-metre individual medley and the silver medal for his part in the B.C.' team's 800-metre relay victory.

Victoria's Nick Borelly was fifth in the 200-metre backstroke, won by Dan Rogers, 18, of Mississauga, Ont. It was Rogers' second gold medal.

Also winning ttheir second gold medals were Susan Mason, 17, of Halifax in the women's 400 freestyle, Jody McPhee, 15, of Sudbury in the women's 200 individual medley and Jennifer Bouliane, 14, of Pointe Claire, Que., in the women's 200 backstroke.

Also included on the B.C. squad are Ian Bridge, Mike Hardy and Gord Reading of Victoria and Drew Ferguson of Powell River.

Quebec, which came through divisional round-robin play undefeated and beat B.C. 4-3 in the process, downed Ontario on penalty kicks after the teams finished 1-1 in overtime.

Ontario faces Newfoundland to decide the bronze medal.

B.C. women capture team golf honors

EOISBRIAND, Que. (CP) — Paula Phillips, Valerie White and Marilyn Palmer, all of Vancouver, brought British Columbia the provincial team title at the Canadian women's amateur golf championship Thursday.

Phillips had a two-over-par 75 on the par-73, 6,015-yard Hillsdale Golf and Country Club course to lead the way in the second round of the event, held simultaneously with the first 36 holes of the individual championship.

White shot a 77 and Palmer had a 78 to give B.C. a total of 467 for the 36 holes and a four-stroke victory over runner-up Ontario, the 1976 champions.

The fourth member of the B.C. team, Vancouver's Gail Harvey Moore, had a 79 Thursday, but only the best three of four scores each day counted toward the title.

B.C. won the championship in 1974 and 1975 and this year marks the 10th time the province has won or shared the provincial title since play began in 1947.

The victory earned the Royal Canadian Golf Association Interprovincial Team Trophy. Nova Scotia, comprising Kathy Powers of Lunenberg, Mary McLellan of Truro, Jeanne Boudreau of Liverpool and Debbie MacLeod of New Glasgow, won the Crockett Trophy for low net with a score of 455. Their gross score was 495.

In the individual race, Cathy Sherk of Fonthill, Ont. shot a 76 Thursday for a 153 total, one stroke up on Stacy West of Thornhill, who won her second straight Canadian junior championship last week. West shot a 76 Thursday after an opening-round 79.

The first round was played on a grey, drizzly day and, while there was sun most of Thursday, blustery winds plagued the field of 93.

It was cut to the low 60 and ties for the third round today.

McCarthy bites NDP bullet

Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy passed the ammunition again Thursday in the Legislature but couldn't find it in her heart to praise the lord or the New Democratic Party.

It all started in 1974-75 when Mrs. McCarthy accused the NDP, then in government, of preparing to establish a secret police force. She hinted that ammunition and guns were being bought and stored in secret places.

On Wednesday Mrs. McCarthy admitted that she had bought a million rounds of small arms ammunition and that it was stored in Esquimalt. She added that the practice of purchasing ammunition in bulk to save money had been going on for years.

"Will the minister assure the house that her fantasy of a secret police force will not now be realized?" Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) asked Thursday.

"Or will she apologize for the charges made during the last election?"

Mrs. McCarthy declined to do either.

The closure area also includes the Queen Charlotte Islands, where open fires were last banned in July, 1958.

Now, Greenpeace plans to chase Aussie whalers

Greenpeace, the internationally famous environmental group based in Vancouver, announced Thursday it was opening a "third front" against whaling, this time off the coast of Australia.

The new expedition includes Canadian environmentalists Bob and Bobbi Hunter and representatives from Australia, France, the U.S., Great Britain and New Zealand.

The continuing saga of Miracle, the infant killer whale, appears to be a story of many parts — all of them belonging to Miracle.

Tuesday it was a sluggish bowel that caused concern. Once that was overcome, the whale's tongue came into the picture Wednesday.

"She stuck her tongue out at the staff this morning," said a puzzled Angus Matthews, in charge of the Sealand of the Pacific team that is trying to guide the injured and ailing little whale along the road to recovery.

The best guess was that the sassy display was just another sign that the frolicking Miracle is beginning to feel better as she winds up her first week in the salt water pool at Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Found suffering from a bullet wound and infection in Menzies Bay, she wasn't at first given much chance for survival. But since moving into the swank surroundings of the Oak Bay hotel, she appears to be overcoming the odds.

Matthews said Miracle's white blood cell count went down for the first time Wednesday after two infections late Tuesday of a "high-powered" antibiotic named Keflex.

Keflex is described as more powerful than penicillin. It is a somewhat expensive attempt to fight the stubborn infection — about $45 a pop.

By Wednesday the white cell count was down to 8,300 — the first time it had actually dropped — but it wasn't enough of a change to assure that all was going to be well.

Matthews says today could prove to be "the major turning point." If the count continues to drop the whale will be considered well on the way to recovery.

The poolside observers will feel a little better about the whole thing once the count gets down to about 6,000. A similar routine check on Haida, the long-time resident whale at Sealand, showed his white cell level Wednesday to be in the neighborhood of 5,000.

Once the battle has been won against the infection, attention will be turned to Miracle's parasite and laceration problems.

Dr. Tom Mace from the University of Victoria has already taken samples in connection with the parasites and Dr. Murray Dailey, a Long Beach, Calif., veterinarian, is expected to assist in the healing.

Route to ease McKenzie load

Traffic capacity on McKenzie Avenue is estimated to reach capacity of 22,000 vehicles a day within five years, Saanich municipal engineer Clifford Warren predicted Wednesday.

The busy traffic artery now carries about 19,000 vehicles a day, he said.

Warren was emphasizing the need for council to support a highways ministry proposal to build a new road between Quadra and Munns Road.

Extension of McKenzie to the Trans-Canada Highway, expected in two to three years, would result in an increased traffic load as McKenzie would become a shortcut through the municipality, he said.

Warren's sentiments were echoed by Mayor Ed Lum and works committee chairman Ald. Sandy Noel.

Lum said the traffic problem on McKenzie had reached crisis proportions and it might be necessary to impose no parking regulations in certain areas of the heavily-travelled road.

Noel said McKenzie would, like nearby Shelbourne Street, reach saturation point in only a few years, and a new road would help alleviate the traffic problem.

Dennis Cocke (NDP — New Westminster) wondered if the million rounds, ordered by Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy, were "for a private police force."

Attorney General Garde Gardom, answering the question in the absence from the house of Mrs. McCarthy, said he would investigate the situation.

Later Wednesday afternoon Mrs. McCarthy arrived in the house to confirm that one million rounds of small arms ammunition had been purchased; that they were stored in Esquimalt; and that the practice of bulk purchases for all police forces in B.C. had been going on for years.

But the NDP didn't mind the answer.

In 1975 when they made a similar purchase, Mrs. McCarthy, then president of the Social Credit Party, had accused them of buying arms and ammunition to establish a private police force.

Tall ships to visit Victoria

Summer spectacular highlight of Cook celebrations

The Captain Cook bicentennial commemorations to mark the 20th anniversary of the arrival of Captain James Cook of the Royal Navy on Vancouver Island, will start next summer and will encompass a range of international events, including a five-day visit to Victoria of the famed Tall Ships.

The Tall Ships race from Honolulu to Victoria is expected to be the most popular event of the province-wide celebration.

Attracting world-wide attention, the tall ships race will take place in June and July, retracing much of Cook's third and final voyage of discovery.

The tall ships are large square-riggers used in sail training. They have been invited to participate from Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Japan, Indonesia, Spain and the United States.

If all invitations are accepted the tall ships could be accompanied by a racing fleet of as many as 60 schooners, brigantines, and smaller ketches and yawls, including Canada's Bluenose II.

The tall ships will arrive in Victoria on July 20, 1978, to begin a three-day stay that will include an in-shore regatta, rowing and tug-o-war events and a multitude of other competitions between crews of vessels and local groups.

Open houses aboard the tall ships could set record breaking public attendance figures, much like those in New York in 1976 where an estimated 10 million people came out to see or board the fleet as part of the U.S. bi-centennial celebrations, Meek Wilson Ltd., the public relations firm handling the event for the tourist ministry, said Thursday.

The Pacific tall ships race is organized and conducted by the American Sail Training Association, in co-operation with the Sail Training Association (United Kingdom) following a request by the Captain Cook bicentennial committee.

Training races are conducted every two years in conjunction with a major international event, to foster friendship among cadets and students who man the windjammers.

And in March, the anniversary of the month Cook arrived, the provincial government will unveil an historical reminder at Friendly Cove, Nootka Sound, on the west coast of Vancouver Island where Cook landed.

Queen Elizabeth has been invited to be a special guest of honor for the ceremonies and to participate in other events which will follow.

Communities throughout the province are planning to observe the bi-centennial. In May, the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will host a three-quarter-ton world championship race to recognize the event.

Victorian Days and the Swiftsure race will be scheduled with the bicentennial in mind.

The celebrations planned for next year will cost the taxpayers about $1.6 million. Mrs. McCarthy feels the cost will be far outweighed by the boost to Victoria's economy and the world-wide publicity.

SPCA chief flays Lions' rodeo plans

By STEPHEN HUME
Colonist Reporter

Provincial SPCA director William Leach has come out against a rodeo scheduled for Saturday at Luxton fairgrounds in Metchosin, calling it offensive and inhumane.

Leach, spokesman for the society's 10,000 members in B.C., said in an interview Thursday that rodeos are a sport which practice deliberate cruelty to animals.

He said he was disappointed with the Lions Club sponsoring the Luxton rodeo.

"We don't wnat rodeos in Victoria," Leach said, adding that he had just returned from several rodeos on the mainland, where he witnessed cruelty to rodeo animals.

He said rodeos, whether they are big operations like the Calgary Stampede or small-town rodeos in outlying B.C., subject animals to pain.

"The B.C. rodeo circuit is drawing to a close this year. These harsh 'man against beast' performances which often offend humane-minded spectators will not take place again until the heat and dust of the summer of 1978," he said.

Leach said he has informed the Lions that he would attend the Luxton rodeo. He said Victoria SPCA manager Don Adams would also be there. Adams is an SPCA inspector. Leach has the authority to make arrests for animal welfare violations.

Spectators behind the scenes do not see the hazing, hot-shotting with electric prodders and bucking straps pulled tight around a horse's genital area to make it buck, he said.

Leach said the Luxton rodeo would probably not have bucking horses, but would have steer-wrestling events in which calves "are subjected to deliberate cruelty by having their tails twisted."

Leach said wild-cow milking and "greasy-pig" events were "senseless and obnoxious."

"I give some credit to the Canadian Cowboys' Association for recently having made it mandatory that bucking-straps be lined with sheepskin and that 'busting' calves is no longer allowed," he said.

"But great self-improvement is called for by a public made aware of the brutal reality that is the modern rodeo."

Native nations plan parley

CAMPBELL RIVER — The United Native Nations of the Vancouver Island and Salish Coast districts will be holding their annual regional assembly at Quinsam Hall in Campbell River this Saturday and Sunday.

The U.N.N. is a relatively new and rapidly growing Indian movement in British Columbia.

The first annual assembly was held in Prince George during the second week of July. Bill Wilson was re-elected president.

The Prince George assembly was a tremendous success and has been labelled as the first people's assembly in the history of B.C.'s Indian politics.

Major issues of the U.N.N. evolve around the question of land claims and aboriginal rights. The regional assembly will be concentrating on these two issues and it expects to form a guiding policy for the U.N.N. on both issues as they effect the Vancouver Island and Salish Coast regions.

The United Native Nations is the first organization in B.C. which has made any serious attempt in rectifying the dilemma involved in the concepts of "status" and "non-status" Indians as outlined by the Indian Act. The organization is based on "Indianness", and full membership is open to people of Indian ancestry who have resided in B.C. for at least 12 consecutive months. This membership clause excludes non-Indians from moulding policies for the Indian people.

The regional assembly in Campbell River will be a campout with a salmon bake and Indian dances to ease the political overtones involved. The assembly will also elect a new regional director to replace Hugh Braker from Port Alberni whose term in office expires shortly.

New link wrench in Saanich plans

By BILL SMITH
Colonist Reporter

A new east-west traffic artery in Saanich running from Quadra to Munns Road, which could have a devastating effect on several development plans in the municipality, has been proposed by the B.C. highways ministry.

The proposed route would follow Vanalman, connect with Roy Road and extend to Munns Road at Saanich's western boundary.

The bombshell was dropped at a closed meeting Tuesday of council's public works committee, chairman Ald. Sandy Noel confirmed in a Colonist interview Wednesday.

Because of the widespread ramifications on land use and community planning, the committee referred the matter to next Tuesday's lands, planning and housing committee meeting, a full council committee.

"There's no doubt development plans in some areas along the proposed route will be seriously affected if we endorse the proposal," Noel said.

"It could have an immense bearing on the official community plan, the North Quadra area as well as the Royal Oak industrial development plan."

Public hearings have been scheduled next month on all three issues.

He agreed the proposal could mean a revision of existing plans for the North Quadra area.

"Our planning department would be wise to delay that public hearing until council has reached a decision on the new road."

Noel said he favored reserving a 66-foot swath along the three-mile route, most of which is in undeveloped or sparsely inhabited areas.

Reaction from Mayor Ed Lum and municipal department heads was mixed.

Municipal planner Gil Laurenson said the news "was like a bolt out of the blue. A real shocker."

He said the proposal contained some advantages, but there were also disadvantages.

"It would take pressure off Glanford and other streets in the proposed industrial zone, but the easterly extension is a different story."

Laurenson said he was aware of three or four housing development proposals which would be affected if the ministry's plan was approved.

"There's a fairly large subdivision right in the path of the proposed route."

He questioned whether North Quadra would be a desirable residential area if the road plan was approved.

If council decided to reserve land for a future road link it would mean revision of existing plans for the North Quadra area, he said.

The area is between Pat Bay Highway and the fringe of the Blenkinsop Valley, the northerly point between Quadra and the Pat Bay junction and the southerly, in the Rogers-Woodhall area.

"Munns Road is the gateway to the western sector," he noted. "They own a considerable amount of land there."

He said before council could take any definite action the cost to Saanich would have to be determined, and many more questions answered.

Lum said the proposed road was unnecessary as other established traffic routes could be examined.

The industrial park proposal and the North Quadra area plan would be affected and all planning along the proposed route would have to be reviewed, he said.

Lum said the proposal came as a surprise and he could give no explanation for it being released at this time.

He stressed that the municipality was only being asked to acquire the right-of-way at this time. Construction could be five or 10 years away.

Warren said the ministry made the proposal after discussions on the need to improve traffic flow at Vanalman in light of impending industrial development in that area.

Vanalman would be a prime truck traffic artery to the industrial zone and would take the pressure off internal streets, he said.

Warren said the right-of-way should be a minimum of 66 feet and a maximum of 100 feet.

The proposed route was the least disruptive that could have been chosen, he said.

A shopping centre proposal for the McGarrigle Property on Bowen Road in Nanaimo was presented to the Advisory Planning Commission Tuesday Night.

Gerald Hamilton of Koram Investments of Vancouver told the APC that the proposal would see at 150-thousand-square-foot shopping centre on the 15-acre site. Hamilton says the major outlet in the centre would be a 66-thousand-square-foot K-Mart.

The developer added that the concrete for the project would be poured within four months of a written agreement being signed.

The APC now must make a recommendation on the proposal to council, which recently reopened the shopping centre field in Nanaimo despite earlier approval of a site at the northern end of the city.

River now a creek, creek gone

The Oyster River has been reduced to a tiny creek and Black Creek has ceased to flow above ground in some parts as a result of the continuing hot, dry spell.

Fisheries officers are worried about the salmon fry and are busy with salvaging operations, removing fry stranded in drying streams to large pools nearby.

A fish ladder is being constructed on the Puntledge River near Nib Falls to help spawning salmon upstream to save them from their bruising fight over rocks in shallow water.

Salmon-salvaging operations are conducted on Rosewall Creek, Kitty Coleman and Millards Creek, and Young Canada Works crews are busy on Black Creek this week, according to fisheries officials.

Last week Comox Valley fisheries officials warned swimmers to stay away from the pools on the Puntledge River because they were disturbing the summer run of springs and steelhead, causing them to swim back downstream.

The fish have been using the pools as resting places and refuge from the high temperatures.

Probe called in drowning

Nanaimo (CP) — Mavis Harper, 51, of Lantzville near Nanaimo, drowned Wednesday after she collapsed in waters at the Lantzville Beach, an autopsy revealed Thursday.

An inquiry has been ordered by Dr. D. L. Shea.

COLD TURKEY FOR BRUINS

Honey junkies drying out

NANAIMO (UPI) — Vancouver Island black bears, turned honey junkies from raiding commercial bee yards, are being forced to kick the habit — for their health and the pocketbooks of bee keepers.

"Bears love honey and when they discover the easy pickings to be had from the honey producers, they just become addicted to the stuff," Wildlife Control Officer Dan Lay said Thursday.

"They neglect their regular diet and don't want to go back to their natural foods. They're the same as garbage dump bears. We try putting them back into the bush, but they just about kill themselves to get back to the garbage."

Lad said "when we find the ones stuck on honey they're skinny, their hide's in bad shape, and their faces are all cut up from getting into the hives.

"Once they're addicted they're the same as drunks on skid road trying to get to a bottle. I've actually seen bears just back up and roar through a barb wire fence to get at a bee hive. They just wreck the place."

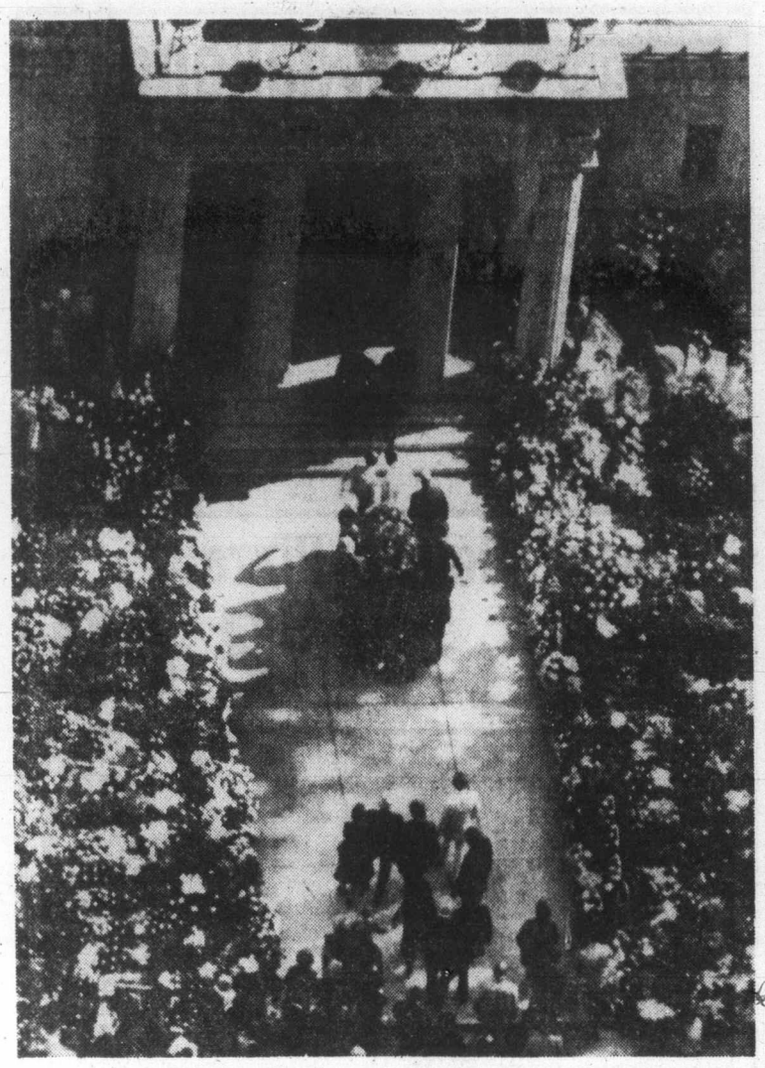

Lay said that over the last three years Nanaimo area bee keepers had erected electric fences around their bee yards and bundled the hives together with double wire meshing to discourage honey-hungry bears.

"We've only had one complaint this year. The fences seem to be working and the bees and bears are living together peacefully," he said. "When they get a shock on the nose from the electric fence they just hightail it."

Lay said addicted bears have cost producers thousands of dollars in the past both in lost bee swarms and wrecked equipment. He said sometimes bears have to be destroyed after becoming hooked on honey.

Presley's coffin is carried to mausoleum

Roses cover coffin at Presley funeral

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The rose-covered coffin of Elvis Presley was laid to rest in a grey mausoleum shaded by magnolias Thursday after thousands af moaning, screaming and fainting fans said farewell to the king of rock 'n' roll.

"He's gone, he's gone," sobbed a woman in the crowd of 6,000 that watched 10 white Cadillacs lead Presley's 49-car funeral procession out the wrought iron gates of Graceland Mansion.

A barefoot woman, her blonde hair matted with sweat, fell to the pavement clutching a stuffed dog, moaning "Oh, Elvis, oh, Elvis." Rescue workers rushed her away.

"We love you, Elvis," creamed a woman. Hundreds burst into tears as they raced for their cars to follow the procession, which rolled down Elvis Presley Boulevard at about 20 miles an hour.

Throughout the day cars whipped in and out the gates, bringing stars from the jet set and show business.

Ann Margaret, Bob Hope, Burt Reynolds, John Wayne, Chet Atkins, Charlie Pride and George Hamilton were among the 150 invited, according to a family spokesman.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her daughter Caroline went to the mansion Wednesday night to pay their respects, said Frank Esposito, brother of Presley's road manager, but did not stay for the private funeral.

Crowds four-deep lined the two-mile route from the mansion to Forest Hills cemetery. There, with crowds ringing the gates nearly a mile away, about 200 mourners filed into the marble mausoleum for a final private ceremony.

Ten minutes later, they filed out again, most of them pale but composed. Several women carried single, long-stemmed roses from the blanket that covered the copper coffin.

Presley's father, Vernon, did not emerge with the other mourners. The singer's physician, who spent nearly an hour trying to bring him back to life Tuesday, rushed back into the mausoleum.

Vernon, aided by two men and followed by the doctor, emerged five minutes later. It was understood he had remained behind to witness the placing of the coffin into the crypt.

The mausoleum, shaded by magnolias and dogwoods, stands 300 yards from the grave of Presley's mother.

The tears that poured forth when Presley died Tuesday of a heart attack, at 42, gave way to a carnival atmosphere Thursday and hucksters were out peddling their wares.

Elvis Presley t-shirts and other mementose were on sale an ice cream man worked the crowd and several youths who cornered a large supply of the Wednesday edition of local newspapers — given over in large part to Presley's death — were selling them for $5 a piece.

Death haunts fans

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A hit and run driver, who police said was drunk and "made no effort to stop," plowed into a crowd of mourning fans outside Elvis Presley's mansion Thursday, killing two teenage girls and critically injuring a third.

About 2,000 persons were maintaining an all-night vigil outside Graceland Mansion, awaiting the burial of the rock n' roll star who died Tuesday, when a car suddenly swerved into the crowd.

Police stopped the car after a block-long chase and arrested the driver, Treatsie Wheeler, 18, Memphis, and three teenage girls riding with him. Wheeler faced a hearing on multiple counts, including two of murder.

"I don't think he tried to stop. One witness told me he made no effort to stop," said Police Captain W. W. Marlar.

"Lynch 'em! Hang him up!" the crowd screamed as the four occupants of the hit-run car were taken to jail.

Wheeler was charged with two counts of second degree murder, drunk driving, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident and public drunkenness.

His three companions were originally charged as accessories to second degree murder but the charges were later dropped to violation of the city's midnight curfew for youngsters 17 and under.

Policeman F. M. McCann said he heard the sound of tires screeching and turned in time to see the car slam into the crowd.

"One of the bodies flew up in the air about five feet and landed on the windshield. A second was plastered against the front of the car. The third was being dragged under the car. He dragged her about 20 yards," McCann said.

The three victims were talking with a policeman W. C. Greenwood at the time. Greenwood jumped out of the way and was not injured.

"He was coming right at me," Greenwood said. "I flashed my flashlight up and down in his face as a signal for him to stop, but he kept coming. At the last minute I threw my flashlight at the windshield and jumped. He just missed me by inches. I could see the bodies of the girls flying around."

French club offers French wine

A bottle of French wine is the prize in a contest for designing a logo for a Victoria club committee to the study and practice of French.

L'Alliance Francaise de Victoria sponsors two meetings monthly (except during the summer) at which members are encouraged to listen to lectures, watch films, and practise their French on other members.

The club wants a logo to help advertise its offerings, and would be particularly keen on something that incorporated its initials publicity chairman Brenda Cunningham said.

Drawings or sketches can be submitted before Sept 15 to the club at Box 5006, Station B, Victoria, V8R 6N3.

No. 207 — 119th Year — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1977 —  — 15c Daily, 30c Sunday

Port renewal likely in wake of blaze

Chances that the fire-ravaged Ogden Point dock may be back in full operation this year improved greatly Thursday.

Hershell Smith, president of Westcan Terminals, proposed that his firm rebuild the warehouse destroyed by fire Aug. 8, and eventually turn it over to whatever body assumes control of the harbor facilities.

Smith aired his proposal at a meeting with provincial and federal officials, city representatives and other shipping industry officials in the office of Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf.

Smith suggested that his company finance the construction of a new warehouse, estimated at $2 million.

He said revenue from the facilities would more than cover the cost of servicing the loan debt, arising from construction of the warehouse.

Until it has been sorted out whether the federal government will retain ownership of the dock, or the provincial government takes it over, or a harbor commission assumes control, Westcan would act as interim caretaker-owner.

Victoria Ald. Frank Carson, who attended the meeting, said federal representatives had promised to give the warehouse proposal serious consideration and answer within 30 days.

"The important and gratifying thing was that nobody opposed the plan," said Carson, chairman of city council's economic development committee.

Bawlf said after the meeting: "We should know within two weeks just where we are going and how far. The federal government is interested in some of the financing and the B.C. Development Corporation has offered all the assistance it can."

Bawlf said it would cost about $2 million to reconstruct the warehouse and to improve cruise ship facilities and another $1 million for general improvements.

A key to the redevelopment and reconstruction plans is demolition of the Ogden Point grain elevator, long a landmark but no longer used to store grain.

"That demolition alone will require a fairly heavy outlay of funds," Bawlf said.

While declining to call the fire a blessing in disguise the minister said "there's little doubt that the phase-out and the fire give us a great opportunity to do something."

Bawlf said although the federal and provincial governments were standing by to assist financially "this port handles more cargo and shipping than Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Prince Rupert combined. It is capable of redevelopment on its own income."

The minister said he hoped to see preliminary work underway at the docks within weeks and the shipping of pulp and paper back in full swing by next spring.

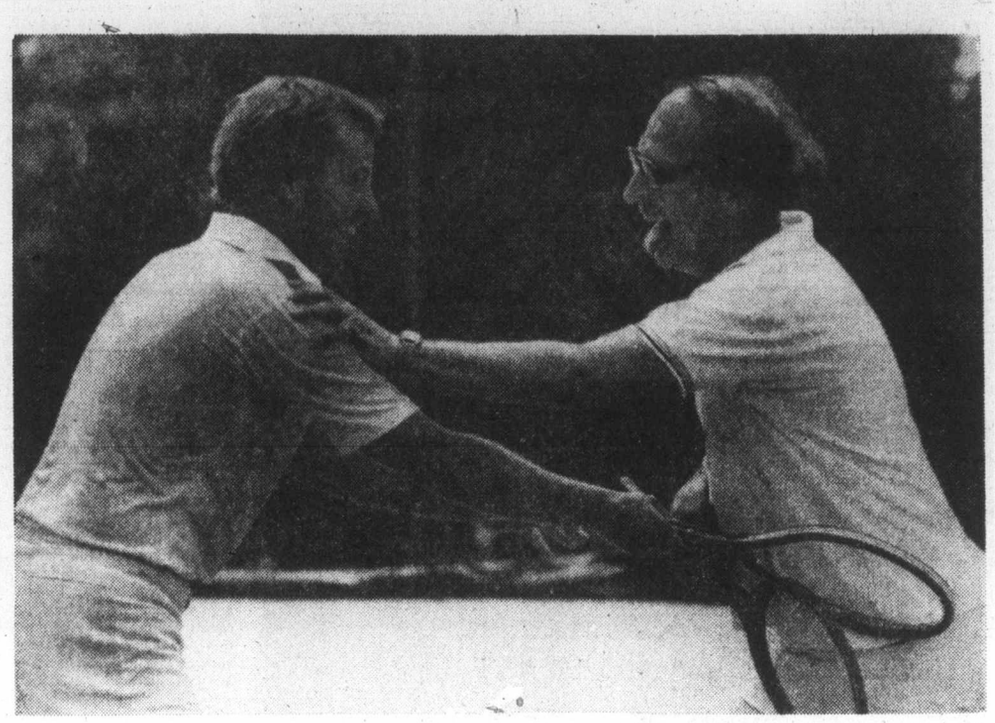

Also being considered for Ogden Point is a berth for the Black Ball ferry Coho.

"Of all the points discussed and proposals made, that one is the least sure," Bawlf said. "But it is part of the over-all plan." He noted that the quicker turnaround of the ferry at Ogden Point would enable an extra run each day.

"The very slow speeds demanded when the vessel is in the Inner Harbor add about half an hour to each round trip," Bawlf said. "Turning around at Ogden Point would make it possible, if Black Ball wanted to, to squeeze in an extra round trip."

Whether Black Ball goes to Ogden Point or not, it will eventually move from its Inner Harbor spot as part of plans to beautify the Inner Harbor.

At a meeting last week, Smith said he would make sure that lumber shipments continued to go out of Victoria, but there could be no pulp shipping until a new warehouse was built.

Language plan abhorrent—Blakeney

● Premiers want tax cut to ease unemployment Page 6

Colonist News Services

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. — Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney Thursday rejected as "abhorrent" Quebec's proposal for reciprocal provincial agreements that would still force some Canadians arriving in Quebec from other provinces into French schools.

"We're being very flexible but we will not retrench from the basic philosophies of Bill 101," Quebec Premier Rene Levesque told the other nine premiers at the opening of their two-day conference here.

Blakeney told reporters "the Quebec government proposes that the children of English-speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec should have rights different from the children of non-English speaking Canadians moving from Saskatchewan to Quebec.

"Quebec's idea that a Canadian has different educational rights depending on whether his parents spoke Ukrainian, German, English or French, is unacceptable," he said.

"The Quebec proposition . . . is abhorrent to Canadians, particularly those of Western Canada."

When the 10 premiers emerged from a private afternoon session, the Parti Quebecois leader said he and Blakeney had "a lively exchange."

Levesque offered assistance, in the form of teachers and teaching material, to provinces which agreed to provide French education for people from Quebec in exchange for English education being made available to their residents moving into Quebec.

Under Bill 101 — which is expected to be passed into law before the next school year begins in September — only children with a parent who attended English schools, or who had brothers or sisters already in English schools, would be allowed to enter Quebec's English school system.

"When a lot of people talk about a freedom of choice . . . they are talking from the basis of a 240 million continental majority," Levesque said. "Well, we have to retrench from free choice,

Rene, spare that plaque

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (UPI) — When the turn came for Quebec Premier Rene Levesque to place a ceremonial shovelful of soil during an official tree-planting ceremony Thursday, the separatist leader first stopped to read the plaque.

Leaning on the shovel, Levesque read the tree was being planted "to mark the silver jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II."

As he stooped to fill his shovel with earth, Newfoundland Premier Frank Moores shouted out, "the tree, not the plaque, Rene."

Levesque smiled and followed instructions.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A team of surgeons discovered "terminal cancer" in Senator Hubert Humphrey Thursday, but said he could still return to the U.S. Senate and may live for years with the help of chemotherapy.

Dr. John Najarian, who led the four-man surgical team that operated for more than three hours on the former vice-president, said the physicians could not remove the cancerous tumor attached to a pelvic bone.

"It is terminal cancer if you accept the fact that we cannot remove it surgically," Najarian told a news conference.

The 66-year-old "Happy Warrior" of the Democratic party underwent surgery at the University of Minnesota Hospital because of an obstruction blocking the lower colon and causing pain for the past six months.

"He has cancer and it has been treated by chemotherapy in the past and will be in the future," Najarian said. "But chemotherapy is only successful in slowing the growth. It cannot eradicate it."

Najarian said Humphrey, who had a cancerous bladder removed in New York last October, would probably be able to take chemotherapy for "four, five, maybe six years."

Pollen to challenge Munro for Tory nod

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

Former Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen came out of political retirement Thursday, announcing his candidacy for the Progressive Conservative nomination in the federal riding of Esquimalt-Saanich.

The seat is held by Conservative MP Donald Munro who has stated he would again seek the nomination.

Pollen, who stepped down as mayor of Victoria after two terms nearly two years ago, gave in an inferview several reasons for his decision.

"I've been approached by a group in Esquimalt-Saanich who asked me to seek the nomination," Pollen said.

"I also would like to help work on an alternative to the Liberal government under Trudeau the magician," he added.

Pollen
. . .back into fray

Unless an alternative was found, Pollen said, Canada would slide deeper into "a one-party system, which would be a tragedy."

Pollen said he was also asked to run for the Liberals but declined.

"Any party that is morally as bankrupt as to ask a man to represent them who's spent more than a year criticizing them must be opposed," he said.

Asked how tough it would be to gain the nomination, Pollen said he didn't know, adding that Munro had a "core of Colonel Blimps" supporting him.

"But how strong that support is, I can't say," he added.

Pollen said Munro was "a fine, honorable fellow" and he wasn't really opposing him.

"But I think I have something else to offer, not only to the constituency but to the party," he said.

"I have considerable municipal experience; I've met urban leaders through the country; I also run a reasonably successful business with more than 100 employees," he said.

"Anyone but a fool can see that the Conservative party needs all the help it can get."

The nominating meeting has been set for Sept. 10.

Munro wasn't available for comment, but his fellow Tory, Alan McKinnon, MP for Victoria, said Pollen's decision was "interesting."

McKinnon said he wouldn't take part in the contest in any way.

"I had no problems with the incumbent and I get along with Pollen very well," he said.

"People are fortunate to have candidates come forth and offer them a choice. That's what democracy is all about," McKinnon said.

Yukon 'will lose' if pipeline delayed

WHITEHORSE (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau fears a seven-to 10-year delay in the Alaska highway natural gas pipeline project could mean there would be no pipeline in the Yukon at all.

Trudeau made the comment at a news conference Wednesday after discussing the pipeline in a meeting with representatives of Yukon native Indians.

The Council for Yukon Indians has called for a seven-year moratorium on pipeline construction to enable native land claims to be settled.

Trudeau said, however, that the U.S. would not accept a seven-year delay and instead would choose the all-Alaska El Paso route for its natural gas.

"If there is no pipeline built in the southern Yukon in the reasonably near future obviously the American gas will go the other route, the El Paso route, and if ever Canadian gas is brought on stream it won't be through (the Yukon)," he said.

At the same time, Trudeau said, Canada wouldn't accept the pipeline at any cost.

"We don't want it at any price," he said. "If there are no significant benefits to Canada, we won't have a pipeline."

Canadians escort seized freighter

Colonist News Services

A Panamanian-registered freighter with two armed Hong Kong crew members locked in the captain's cabin was on her way to the Aleutian Island port of Kodiak early today after assistance from the Canadian weathership Quadra.

The incident, involving two crewmen who were injured, happened within three hours travelling time of Quadra's station 700 miles west in the Pacific.

Quadra reached the freighter Primrose, put two medical attendants aboard, and escorted the freighter part way to Kodiak.

After turning over charts and pilot books to the Primrose and leaving her in U.S. coast guard hands, Quadra returned to her station, a Rescue Centre spokesman at Victoria said Thursday night.

A U.S. coast guard spokesman said details were sketchy, and more was not expected to be known until the freighter docks at Kodiak, Saturday.

Loaded down with a cargo of logs from Aberdeen, Wash., the freighter was steaming toward Japan in international waters about 400 miles south of Kodiak when the master radioed the coast guard with a plea for help.

"Regret crew serious trouble; with weapons; out of control; please assist," said the cryptic corse code message paraphrased by a coast guard radio operator.

An aircraft was dispatched to confirm the ship's position, but nothing further was heard from the vessel until four hours later when the captain broadcast another terse message.

"Two injured men on board; two injured men with guns and knives locked in cabin; request medical attention for injured and evacuation of two prisoners," said the second Morse code signal.

The nearest vessel to the Primrose was the weathership, which arrived early Thursday morning.

The Quadra's captain reported that the injured men did not need to be evacuted.

The U.S. coast guard first used the word mutiny in describing the incident, but later backed away from the term.

"We just don't have enough facts and it's rather complicated," the coast guard spokesman said. "First, they call to say they've got a serious problem. Then they call back four hours later and say something else.

"In addition we've got a Panamanian ship on the high seas. It's got an all Chinese crew. It's involved with the Canadians. And it's coming into one of our ports."

Junk food taxes Wallace

Scott Wallace (PC—Oak Bay) wants the seven per cent sales tax slapped on junk food, or removed from non-prescription medications.

Wallace asked Minister of Finance Evan Wolfe Thursday in the Legislature why there was no sales tax on candy or soft drinks while the full seven per cent tax was paid on medications often required by elderly people.

Wolfe said he would take a look at the problem if Wallace would place the complaint in writing. "The whole matter of sales tax exemptions is under constant review," Wolfe said.

Jerry's jalopies in hot demand

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Jerry Elam's 35 used cars aren't for sale any more, but never have they been in such demand.

Elam owns 51 per cent of Jerry's Rent-a-Jalopy, a name his wife suggested because Jerry's Rent-a-Clean and-Reliable-but-not-Necessarily-New-or-Glamorous-Used-Car was accurate but impractical.

Elam's jalopies are not heaps, but he does keep a mechanic on call 24 hours a day.

"Our rental cars are both nostalgic and practical," he said. "The price of new rental cars has gone up just like the price of new cars. That's the theory we had when we started this thing."

The business started in March after Elam's retirement at age 35 on medical disability as an air traffic controller for the Federal Aviation Administration, a job where he said no one ever takes a normal retirement.

He went into the used car business first and observed the same cars sitting on his lot day after day and wondered why they could not be put to better use.

"I thought I'd open an antique car lot but it fizzled," he said. "This is what prompted us to open the used car lot. But I thought there's got to be a way these cars can make money besides waiting for someone to come along and buy them."

The way proved to offer reliable older cars at rental prices considerably less than the national firms.

"Our cars range from a '41 Plymouth coupe to '75 models. That Plymouth we recently purchased from the original owner and believe it or not the gas ration stamps were still in the car when we bought it. It runs like a champ, though. It's the most expensive car we've got, however, $25 per day. Our other prices range from $25 to $65.50 per week.

"The cars are only for rent. The only time we sell a car is if it proves unpopular and our customers don't rent it."

He has renters from "all walks of life and every social and economic status that there is."

"We've had renters from 21 states and nine foreign countries," he said.

Recent customers included former Texas Governor Preston Smith and the Hagger Brothers, singers from Nashville who appear regularly on the television program Hee-Haw.

Two of his cars, a 1960 Chrysler and a 1959 DeSoto rent for $25 a week, "so cheap they stay out constantly. These two old cars just keep on running and we probably spend less on repair and maintenance on them than any we've got, including the '75s."

Elam doesn't charge for mileage as long as the renter promises to use the car only in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"What we want to get away from is someone using a $25 a week car to drive all over South Texas and the United States which is what some of 'em want to do," he said.

Teething Miracle sets tongues wagging

The mystery of the sassy whale has been solved.

When she continued the behavior, they decided that an oral examination was in order and discovered Wednesday to their surprise, that the youngster is teething.

"Scientists had always thought young killer whales were born with a full set of teeth," Tim Andrews, an observer at the pool, said. "So they are pretty excited about this. They're rewriting the textbooks."

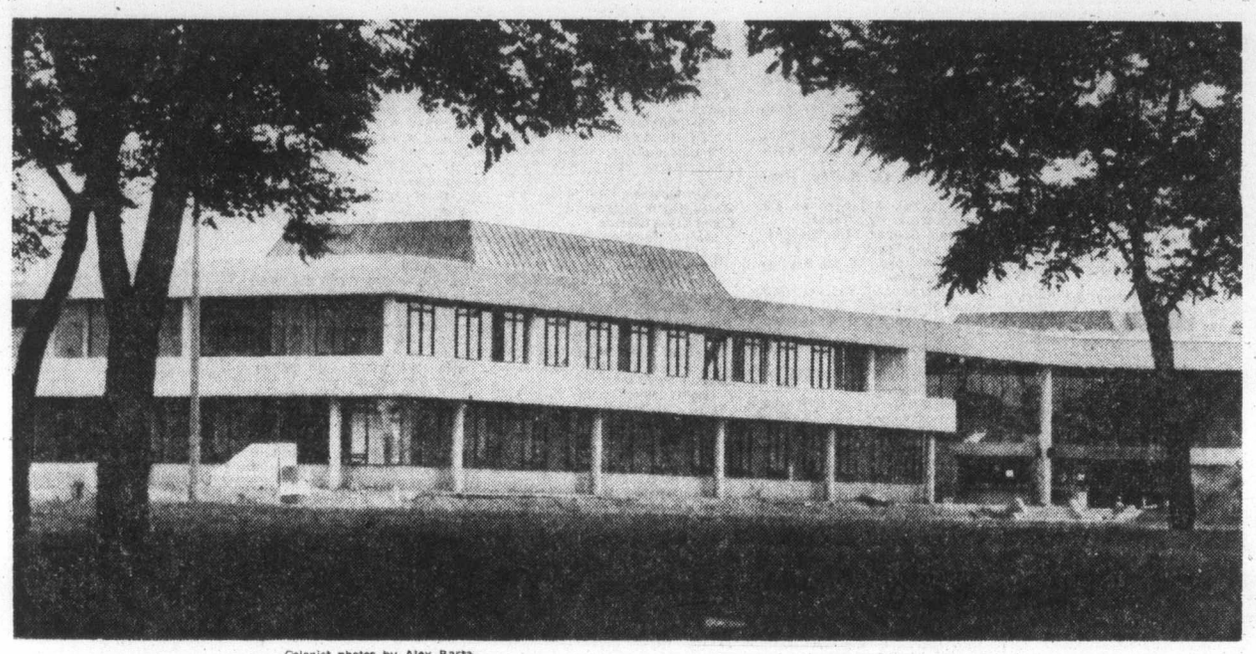

Two teeth are coming through the whale's lower gums, right at the front. The veterinarians theorize that the absence of teeth in the front, hitherto unknown, makes nursing more comfortable for the mother whale. If she were in the wild, Miracle would still be nursing.

Miracle's veterinarians took tissue samples from sores on the whale's skin Wednesday morning and they will be analyzed to determine what kind of parasites, if any, are causing her health problem.

Blood samples taken Wednesday showed the whale's white blood cell count down again, thanks to doses of a powerful antibiotic, although the count is still higher than normal, indicating that an infection caused by a bullet wound is persisting.

The improvement in the whale's behavior on Wednesday was quite discernable, Andrews said.

"She seems to have perked up, and is swimming a lot stronger. She appears to be flexing some muscles that might have been stiff or sore before, by doing some sharp turns in the pool, and lots of rolls."

Metchosin rodeo has SPCA boiling

By STEPHEN HUME
Colonist Reporter

Provincial SPCA director William Leach has come out against a rodeo scheduled for Saturday at Luxton fairgrounds in Metchosin, calling it offensive and inhumane.

Leach, spokesman for the society's 10,000 members in B.C., said in an interview Thursday that rodeos are a sport which practise deliberate cruelty to animals.

He said he was disappointed with the Lions Club sponsoring the Luxton rodeo.

"We don't wnat rodeos in Victoria," Leach said, adding that he had just returned from several rodeos on the mainland, where he witnessed cruelty to rodeo animals.

He said rodeos, whether they are big operations like the Calgary Stampede or small-town rodeos in outlying B.C., subject animals to pain.

"The B.C. rodeo circuit is drawing to a close this year. These harsh 'man against beast' performances which often offend humane-minded spectators will not take place again until the heat and dust of the summer of 1978," he said.

Leach said he has informed the Lions that he would attend the Luxton rodeo. He said Victoria SPCA manager Don Adams would also be there. Adams is an SPCA inspector. Leach has the authority to make arrests for animal welfare violations.

Spectators behind the scenes do not see the hazing, hot-shotting with electric prodders and bucking straps pulled tight around a horse's genital area to make it buck, he said.

Leach said the Luxton rodeo would probably not have bucking horses, but would have steer-wrestling events in which calves "are subjected to deliberate cruelty by having their tails twisted."

Leach said wild-cow milking and "greasy-pig" events were "senseless and obnoxious."

"I give some credit to the Canadian Cowboys' Association for recently having made it mandatory that bucking-straps be lined with sheepskin and that 'busting' calves is no longer allowed," he said.

"But great self-improvement is called for by a public made aware of the brutal reality that is the modern rodeo."

What's the job worth?

That's the question for Victoria General

Victoria General is the first hospital in B.C. chosen for a comprehensive job evaluation plan which will eventually cover 20,000 hospital employees in the province.

At a press conference at the hospital Wednesday, Hugh Wilkinson, an industrial consultant and chariman of a three-man committee which will oversee the job evaluation, said implementation could improve industrial relations between hospitals and their staffs, particularly at contract time.

The aim of the job evaluation program, he said, was to determine the relative value of every job in the hospital. The committee will then draw up an initial wage curve which will relate a job's value to a specific monthly wage.

WITH AN agreed-upon wage curve, negotiations between the Hospital Employees Union and the Health Labor Relations Association could be greatly simplified, Wilkinson said.

"It will leave only the general level of wage increase to bargaining," rather than a host of individual rates which must each be negotiated, Wilkinson said.

The evaluation plan would also guide assessment of new jobs, so that employees in those positions would receive wages commensurate with their position.

Using 11 criteria which include factors such as educational requirements, experience, responsibility, the necessity to communicate with other employees, working conditions and occupational hazards, analysts retained by the evaluation committee will begin working in the hospital on Monday, asking questions about jobs and assigning them point values according to the criteria.

THE POINT VALUES, when plotted against a scale of monthly wages, should show some kind of general relationship between the number of points assigned to a job and the wages paid for it, Wilkinson said.

Some anomalies — jobs which appear to be abnormally overpaid or underpaid, considering the number of points they get — would undoubtedly appear, and where possible these would be left out of the deliberations that lead to determining the final wage scale, Wilkinson said.

"This is a major undertaking," said Wilkinson, a former UBC professor of engineering and commerce. "It is very difficult for parties accustomed to working vo-operatively, but where they have been used to arguing and negotiating it is even more difficult."

The job evaluation program had its beginning several years ago, when the union worked to end discrimination in some job classifications.

AN INITIAL breakthrough which saw the wages of practical nurses boosted to the same level as that of orderlies was gained four years ago, but full-scale job evaluation never appeared and was a contributing factor to the 31-year-old HEU's first strike in the spring of 1976.

In legislating an end to the dispute, the provincial government agreed to make $6 million available for the job evaluation program.

Wilkinson estimated that about six years of work had gone into the job evaluation plan already, and while the evaluation at Victoria General should last no more than four weeks, implementation of the plan for the whole province would take at least two years.

Wilkinson's partners on the evaluation committee are Ray McCready of the HEU and Bill Rolfe of the HLRA. Each party has made two analysts available for the committee, and other staff may be required as well, Wilkinson said. The committee has established its own office in Vancouver so as not to be associated with either of the parties.

IN CHOOSING their first hospital, the committee wanted an acute-care hospital with a good range of ancillary services, but of moderate size. Because of the additional burden that the job evaluation program will impose on hospital staff, the hospital had to be efficiently run, and relationships between administration and staff had to be excellent, Wilkinson said.

Victoria General's labor relations are among "the best in the country," and it is "an excellently run hospital," he said.

Two other hospitals, selected but not yet announced will also take part in the first phase of the job evaluation program. If its experience with the first three hospitals shows the committee that the plan can evaluate jobs effectively, evaluation of the rest of the hospitals in the province could start with little delay, Wilkinson said.

Employees who are receiving more than they should be getting will permit them to receive their existing wages, and perhaps normal increments, as long as they are in their jobs, although new employees in those jobs would get the lower rates prescribed by the wage curve, Wilkinson said.

In addition, any increases arising from job evaluation will be retroactive to January, 1975.

Mika fears new road may ruin Blenkinsop

A proposed east-west arterial road through Saanich from Quadra Street to Munns Road might eventually be extended into the heart of the Blenkinsop Valley, says Saanich Ald. John Mika.

Saanich has been asked by the highways ministry to acquire right-of-way along a three-mile route from Quadra at Beckwith to Munns Road at the municipality's western boundary.

Mika, in an interview Thursday, said the next obvious step would be to extend the road across the valley to the agricultural Blenkinsop Valley.

Public works committee chairman Ald. Sandy Noel said future extension of the road link easterly was possible.

"Reserving a route for such an extension is a good idea," he said. "Constructing a road from Quadra to Blenkinsop would greatly assist Saanich residents wanting to reach the western community."

He said the valley was no more sacrosanct than land at Ten Mile Point area or land around Cordova Bay.

Mika contends that the proposed east-west corridor would totally transform the North Quadra district.

He also expressed concern that a north-south link, being considered by the municipality from McKenzie to Dieppe, would virtually slice the North Quadra area into four equal pieces.

The proposal, he said, added credence to a call earlier this week by seven Saanich ratepayers' associations for a 90-day moratorium on future development plans.

"It also means that we should delay public hearings scheduled next month on the official community plan and the North Quadra area."

Surprised at the timing of the ministry's proposal, Mika said he was attempting to piece together a scenario that would make sense regarding the manner in which the proposal was revealed (at an in-camera meeting of the works committee), the context of the proposal and the impact on development proposals now before council.

Ald. Fred Severson, chairman of council's lands, planning and housing committee, said Thursday after meeting planner Gil Laurenson that he would strongly oppose the east-west road proposal.

"The government plan will torpedo our community plan. I just can't support the idea."

Municipal engineer Clifford Warren, commenting on Mika's contention that an extension of the east-west link through to Blenkinsop was possible, said: "Highways' prime interest now is in the Quadra-Munns link. Anything past that point would be a matter for Saanich to decide."

He said that such a route, proposed in a 1966 Saanich transportation study, was not pursued. "But who is to know what will happen in future years as far as the Blenkinsop Valley is concerned?"

Swimmers high and dry

Recent visitors to the Sooke Pot Holes — up to 45 of them one day — found themselves without transportation home. Their cars had been towed away.

A Sooke RCMP spokesman said Thursday the action was taken because cars had been parked on both sides of the road to the Pot Holes, blocking the road.

"Had there been a fire or accident there would have been no access," the spokesman said. "Even the police car couldn't get by."

Mansion history will end in subdivision

An old Rockland mansion and its grounds are soon to be converted to a subdivision.

Plans call for the subdivision of 1613 and 1617 Rockland into 12 lots, 10 of them for new single-family homes. The other two lots have houses on them, on one of them the original mansion which is to be converted to five suites.

Victoria city council's public works committee gave tentative approval Thursday to the subdivision plan, but made that approval contingent on several provisos.

The owners must undertake to limit conversion of the mansion to five suites and there must be no further subdivision of the large lot on which the mansion will be situated.

The owners also must agree not to cut down any of the large trees on the property. And finally, the fire marshal must rule favorably on the retention of the trees along the access route to the various lots created by the subdivision.

The lots will have a minimum size of 8,000 square-feet with an average width of 80 feet. The lot on which the converted mansion will sit is to have 23,463 square-feet.

The developer is Blunden Development of Vancouver.

The Captain Cook bi-centennial commemoration to mark the 200th anniversary of the arrival of Captain James Cook of the Royal Navy on Vancouver Island, will start next summer and will encompass a range of international events.

The tall ships race from Honolulu to Victoria is expected to be the most popular event of the province-wide celebration.

Attracting world-wide attention, the tall ships race will take place in June and July, retracing much of Cook's third and final voyage of discovery.

The tall ships are large square-riggers used in sail training. Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Japan, Indonesia, Spain and the United States have been invited to participate.

If all invitations are accepted the tall ships could be accompanied by a racing fleet of as many as 60 schooners, brigantines, and smaller ketches and yawls, including Canada's Bluenose II.

The tall ships will arrive in Victoria on July 20, 1978, to begin a three-day stay that will include an in-shore regatta, rowing and tug-o-war events and a multitude of other competitions between crews of vessels and local groups.

Open houses aboard the tall ships could set record-breaking public attendance figures, much like those in New York in 1976 when an estimated 10 million people came out to see or board the fleet as part of the U.S. bi-centennial celebration, Meek Wilson Ltd., the public relations firm handling the event for the tourists ministry, said Thursday.

The Pacific tall ships race is organized and conducted by the American Sail Training Association, in co-operation with the Sail Training Association (United Kingdom) following a request by the Captain Cook bicentennial committee.

Training races are conducted every two years in conjunction with a major international event, to foster friendship among cadets and students who man the windjammers.

And in March, the anniversary month Cook arrived, the provincial government will unveil an historical reminder at Friendly Cove, Nootka Sound, where Cook landed.

Queen Elizabeth has been invited to be a special guest of honor for the ceremonies and to participate in other events that will follow.

Communities throughout the province are planning to observe the bicentennial. In May, the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will host a three-quarter-ton world championship race to recognize the event.

Victorian Days and the Swiftsure race will be scheduled with the bicentennial in mind.

The celebrations planned for next year will cost the taxpayers about $1.6 million, Mrs. McCarthy feels the cost will be far outweighed by the boost to Victoria's economy and the world-wide publicity.
